Indian Bill, Kelly's kettles Lulbegrud—editor's grist

By Helen Price Stacy

Fillers can be anything from what goes in pillows or warm comforters for winter beds to stuffing for the holiday bird.

Fillers also can be those prized-by-editors shorties that work wonders in filling out a column in a newspaper or a magazine or a spot on radio. It's also a great conversation piece wherever two or more people gather.

In Owensboro a sassafras tree has grown to more than 100 feet. It is said to be the largest of its kind in the nation. That's a filler.

At Christmas in the Big Sandy area, entire families gathered at boat landings to watch as boxes holding toys and other gifts were unloaded.

In old days families in Eastern Kentucky sometimes made day-long hikes into the gorge and canyon country to gather greens for decorating home, church and country school.

Travelers inland used to start in Mason County, and follow the Buffalo Trace that leads south to Alabama. In 1816 the trail became the National Road and was known for a time as Smith's Wagon Road.

Cassius Clay of stately White Hall in Madison County was Kentucky's famous abolitionist.

In 1669 the Ohio River was "discovered" by a group searching for a waterway to the Orient.

Holly, in various kinds of pine and cedar, nuts, popcorn, red grains of corn, cornshucks, dried weeds and flowers, and honeysuckle all have been used for holiday decor. In the Kentucky mountains children saved red corn grains to string like cranberries for tree trimming.

Robert Letcher, governor of Kentucky 1840-44, proclaimed the first state Thanksgiving in 1844.

On Dec. 24, 1862, Morgan's Raiders camped near Glasgow and stopped at a tavern to celebrate the holidays. A patrol of the second Michigan Cavalry USA stopped at the tavern to celebrate also. It wasn't a major battle, but the anticipated celebration never occurred.

On South Broadway in Lexington pioneers set the starting point for the first Kentucky race track in 1780. Rather than the familiar oval, the race path extended one quarter mile.

Spring Fort in Jefferson County was built before 1782.

Theodore O'Hara who wrote a famous poem, "The Bivouac of the Dead," was born in Danville.

Drennon Springs in Henry County was used by Indians as a healing-water source.

William Hardin was called Indian Bill. He was the founder of Hardinsburg and built Hardin's Fort in Breckinridge County in 1780.

The Choctaw Indian Academy in Scott County was established as the first school for sons of Indian chiefs. Future leaders of many tribes received education at the school.

Lulbegrud Creek on the Powell-Clark county line was used as winter camp by Daniel and Squire Boone.

Jeptha's Knob, a cryptovolcanic structure in Shelby Cnofity, is 1,163 feet above sea level.

The Order of Trappist-Cistercians, noted for prayer, labor and silence, was founded in France in 1098 and established in Nelson County in 1848.

Saint Rose Priory in Washington County was founded in 1806.

In Lyon County is a "Kelly Kettle," one of many made by William Kelly. In 1851 Kelly discovered the steel manufacturer known as Bessemer. Bessemer, an Englishman, got a patent on the process in 1855 and 1856, but the U.S. awarded rightful patent to Kelly. Kelly's kettles were used throughout the South to make sugar.

Clarification

The Financial Report of the County of Nicholas published in the November 27, 1980, Edition of The Mercury showed various expenditures to County Employees for repairs, operating supplies and other expenses.

These were not payments for goods and services provided to the County by said employees, but rather were reimbursements to them of out-of-pocket County expenses paid by them.

WHO WAS THAT LADY?

This woman, who lived between 1810 and 1850, traveled in the most prestigious intellectual circles of her time and wrote the highly acclaimed book, "Woman in the Nineteenth Century." She was closely associated with the Boston Transcendentalists and was a friend of Emerson and Hawthorne. Later, as a journalist for the Tribune, she worked for Horace Greeley. She spent her later life living and writing in Italy, married to an Italian aristocrat. Who was that lady? — Margaret Fuller.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

BOURBON GENERAL HOSPITAL

Attention: R.N.'s, L.P.N.'s

You spend 1/3 of your life at work. Why not enjoy it! Bourbon General is a rural community hospital where people have time to care —for patients and each other.

Employment for six nurses only:

R.N.—M.E.D.—S.U.R.G. (evenings/nights.)

R.N.—Emergency Room (evenings, days with rotation)

R.N.—I.C.U. (evenings/nights)

Should your personal commitments necessitate more time off, we offer 64/80 program where you are off 6 days in a row every other week (with full pay).
