Small business meeting Jan. 22 in Ashland

The Kentucky Council on Small Business, a council of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, is holding a series of meetings around the state to identify problems faced by small business.

The half day conference for the district which includes Nicholas County is slated for Jan. 22 in Ashland, beginning at 1 p.m.

Small business owners and managers interested in attending one of the conferences may contact their local chamber of commerce or the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce in Frankfort.

"Smythe, the time is 3:50. . . we made it!"

Roll call vote

100-foot radio tower has been installed at the back of the city building.

Motions passed by Council are:

— to re-advertise for bids on a new police cruiser;

— pay for repair on a gas detection meter used by Gayle Vanlandingham. Cost to be between $250 and $500 (cost of new one is $3,000);

— to set date and have auction for outdated and unused City equipment such as typewriters, rifle, shotgun, air conditioner, etc.;

— to hire Robert Faulkner, 43, of Route Four, Carlisle (Myers Station) as a policeman "to be used as needed".

The mayor read a letter from Bob Buntin, Area 13 Coordinator of DES, requesting that although Russell Bell is now employed in Richmond, that he be retained as coordinator of Civil Defense in Carlisle and Nicholas County. Council agreed without vote.

'Dividend hoax'

during World War II. The hoax also states that Congress has passed a law giving the dividends. No such action has ever taken place.

Thousands of dollars in taxpayer's money is wasted each year in responding to these applications. At St. Paul, Minn., over 400,000 applications have been received in the past 10 years. At Philadelphia three times that number have been received, and are now flooding the center at the rate of about 800 a day.

The VA says that the rumor seems to begin anew each year when the annual dividends are announced for those veterans who have kept their policies in force. These payments are made automatically on the anniversary date of the policy, and no application is necessary.

Tobacco Market news

The market for Burley tobacco held generally steady during the fifth week of auctions. The Federal-State Market News Service reports prices were virtually the same as before the Christmas break. Volume was fairly heavy Monday but became extremely light by the end of the week and several markets closed for the season. The amount placed under loan was very small. By the latest crop estimate about 89 percent of the Burley crop has been sold.

Gross sales in the Burley area for the week ending Jan. 8 totaled 57,306,298 pounds and averaged $165.88 per hundred. The season figure stands at 543,386,791 pounds averaging $165.91. During the same period last season 496,736,865 pounds returned $145.89 per hundred. Baled tobacco accounted for 10.3 million pounds of this week's gross sales averaging $166.00 and 62.2 million for the season averaging $165.97.

Resales amounted to 11,105,874 pounds (19.4 percent of sales) for the week and 71,341,135 pounds (13.1 percent for the season. Non-auction totals afound 15 million pounds so far this season.

Averages remained the same for a vast majority of grades compared with the previous week. With the exception of very lowest quality, all grades averaged $166 per hundred.

Quality was similar to the week before with tobacco designated as mixed-stripped accounting for around 22 percent of sales. By group, flyings made up about 9 percent of sales, cutters 13, leaf 40, tips 7, mixed 22, nondescript 6 and other about 4 percent.

The Burley Cooperatives received only 3,270 pounds of tobacco this week and just 18,672 pounds for the season. Last season for 20 sales days a little over one million pounds were placed under loan.

Annual Dairymen's Conference is Jan. 22-23 in Louisville

The 10th Annual Kentucky Dairymen's Conference will be held Jan. 22-23 at the Holiday Inn-South, Fern Valley Road, Louisville, Ky.

The conference, sponsored by the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service and dairy organizations and firms in the state, will include discussions on the stress of dairy farming, feeding dry cows and high producing cows, dairy financing, and milk marketing, said Dr. George Heersche Jr., Extension dairy specialist.

He added that this year's conference will feature a panel on routine herd health programs. Participants will be Kentucky dairymen and veterinarians.

Registration fee for this year's program is $6, which includes all materials and sessions. Noon luncheons will be available both days and are being sponsored by Milk Marketing, Inc. and Dairymen, Inc.

For further information, contact Heersche at 408 Ag. Science Center South, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. 40546, or call 606-258-5985.
