Recapping results

Moorefield precincts was not nearly as intense as had been expected. Planck, who had previously defeated Livingood in the May primary, took both precincts with ease and posted a 3 to 1 victory when the final tally came in.

Livingood, despite his loss in the May primary, was running as a "write-in" candidate.

City Council

The council race produced a couple of surprises as incumbent Councilman Robert Faul lost his seat in the 9 person race. Faul had the 7th highest vote total, but only the first six will serve on the Council. He was nudged-out of office by only 15 votes in favor of challenger Clifton Waugh.

Waugh will join Cartmell Lester and Charles Fay as the newest members of the Council. Bobby Barnett, Tommy Vaughn, and Clarence Cord all won re-election.

Vaughn was the top vote earner in the race, nailing down 512.

District Judge

31-year-old Cynthiana attorney Jack Arnold crushed incumbent Judge Wayne Fitzgerald in the first division of the 18th Judicial District.

Arnold racked up 1319 votes to Fitzgerald's 224. Our preliminary figures Tuesday night showed that Arnold had also captured victories in each of the other three counties in the district.

According to our early reports, Arnold took Harrison County 2540 to 2059, Robertson 372 to 122, and Pendleton 1427 to 752.

When those numbers are totalled, they give Arnold a commanding 2501 vote victory in the race. The final tally was Arnold 5658-Fitzgerald 3157.

Amendments

Constitutional Amendment No. 1 failed miserably in the county as it mustered only 306 favorable votes, to 1002 rejections. At press time late Tuesday, our reports had the succession amendment being soundly defeated thoughout the state. (These figures had not yet tallied the Louisville area vote.)

Constitutional Amendment No. 2, the amendment to provide tax incentives for restoration of property and a tax break to those property holders "totally disabled", also failed in the county. The final vote on it was 667 "NO" to 444 "YES".

'Goings-on' at Senior Citizens Center

by Geneva Allison

Hi! Do hope you remember what I told you we were going to do in October. We had a delightful day at Washington, Ky. on the 13th. The Aberdeen trip we planned for the 20th had to be taken in "shifts" but most everyone signed up to go, so half went on the 20th and the rest on the 27th. We hadn't decided just what we would do on the 27th, all of which proves you only need to take care of one day at a time, and everything will work out.

Our Halloween Party was a huge success. I have never seen so many horrible looking people in all of my life — at least until they took off their masks. I believe Tommy Vaughn will vouch for that. (We called him in to be a judge).

Reservations for the World's Fair are coming in. At this time I have 25, and have heard of several others who are planning to go. The bus will hold 43, so if you would like to join us just give me a call at 289-5127. Remember, it is on a first come first served basis and you do not have to be a "Senior Citizen."

The 2nd, 3rd and 4th Tuesdays in November will be Christmas shopping days. One night we plan a potluck supper and hope to have a "rock" group entertain us. The date hasn't been confirmed yet. The day before Thanksgiving we will have a food sale with all kinds of "goodies." By the way, did you ever stop to think that Thanksgiving Day is the one day that is purely American?

When you read this the November election will be over. Congratulations to the winners —on second thought, maybe I should congratulate the losers. You won't be the ones with the headaches. See you at a later date. Until then, you take care.

Cats to meet Commodores

The University of Kentucky football team, bruised and battered after losing, 29-3, to Virginia Tech at homecoming Saturday night in Commonwealth Stadium, will travel to Nashville to meet a resurging Vanderbilt team Saturday afternoon in newly revamped Dudley Field.

While UK was losing its seventh straight game of the season after an opening victory over North Texas State, the Commodores defeated Memphis State, 26-0, at Nashville for their second victory in a row.

Vanderbilt is now 3-5 and could have its first winning season in several years by sweeping its remaining games with UK, UT-Chattanooga and Tennessee.

The Commodores broke a long SEC drought by defeating Ole Miss two weeks ago at Oxford.

Coach George MacIntyre's team is led by quarterback Whit Taylor, who has completed 127 of 213 passes (59.6%) for 1,351 yards and 10 touchdowns this season. He has thrown six interceptions.

Kentucky's only score against VPI came on a 40-yard second-quarter field goal by senior Tom Griggs. The Wildcat offense once again was ineffective, totaling only 84 yards rushing and 159 yards passing and was outgunned, 411-243, by a Tech offense led by Cyrus Lawrence, who carried 33 times for 160 yards.

Gobbler kicker Don Wade kicked five field goals to tie a UK opponent record set by Alan Duncan of Tennessee in 1978.

The loss marked the first time since 1938 that a UK team has been defeated seven times in a row in a single season. A Wildcat team has never lost eight in a row in one season. The longest losing streak was eight games spread over two seasons (Nov. 12, 1966, to Oct. 28, 1967).

Both Kentucky quarterbacks — starter Randy Jenkins and Terry Henry — received minor knee injuries in the game, but are expected to be ready for action Saturday. Freshman Doug Marlin of Oak Ridge, Tenn., ran the offense on UK's last series of downs.

Freshman offensive tackle Doug Williams received an ankle injury and is doubtful for the Vanderbilt game.

The Wildcats will leave Lexington via Greyhound bus at 2:30 p.m. Friday and make their headquarters at the Opryland Hotel.

They will be on the road the following weekend against Florida at Gainesville and return home to close the season against Tennessee on Nov. 21.

'Talk of the town' offers change of pace

Carlisle's restaurant offerings took on a whole new dimension Sunday when the city's newest eatery opened its doors to a menu specializing in pizzas and deli-style sandwiches.

Complete with a drive-thru pick-up window, The Talk of the Town is most definitely an alternative to Carlisle's established meat and potatoes, burger and fries' strongholds. (But don't be surprised — you can get meat and potatoes there too.)

The restaurant's proprietors, David Kerns and Teddy Shaw, say that such deli favorites as corned beef, pastrami, meatball sandwiches, etc. will highlight the menu at the Main and Walnut establishment.

Shaw said that the restaurant will also offer an area favorite, country ham and baked potatoes.

Pizza prices at the restaurant start at $2.35 for a small cheese, and run to $5.50 for a large with the same topping.

Kerns said that the drive-up window should offer a great convenience to customers who would prefer to call in an order and then drop by and pick it up.

Kerns also said that while the pizza currently offered is of the thin crust style, he hopes to offer pizza bread (pizza on a hard French roll) in the near future.

The new partners also point to their 15-cent per cup charge for coffee as a strong calling card." Kerns was quick to emphasize that the 15 cents was not for a "bottomless" cup. "If you come in and have one cup of coffee," he said, "you'll only have to pay 15 cents. And if you have two cups, even with paying for the second cup, it'll still be about the same price as most of the other restaurants in town."

Though Kerns and Shaw are new to the restaurant business, they have in Ruby Laughlin a manager with considerable experience on the local restaurant scene.

The business' operating hours will also add a new element to the local dining scene, as longer evening hours will be available for the late-nighters. The restaurant will be open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. on weekdays, and from 11 a.m. to midnight on the weekends. It will not open until 2 p.m. on Sundays.

The deposits you place in the local bank do more for more people than you. The bank takes these deposits and loans them to business and agriculture or for personal loans for autos or household items putting your money back into circulation almost immediately and in your community. So you can see the depositing of your money in your hometown bank is the one item any individual can do in helping his community to grow. Industry takes a long look at these conditions, among other things, when moving into your community. It is a good idea to think out only what your cash can do for you directly but what it does for your friends in the community in an indirect manner. This makes good community and good BANK CENTS.

Don't be a — freeloader

On Saturday, Nov. 7, Robertson Countians will have a chance to prove that they are not freeloaders. On that date, a blood drive will be held at Deming High School from 9:30-11:30 and from 1-4. Over the past year, approximately 75 pints of blood have been provided to county residents — but only 47 pints were donated last year. The rest of that blood had to come from blood donors in other areas.

According to Carolyn Febish, Donor Service Representative for Robertson County, the Central Kentucky Blood Center serves patients in 37 hospitals over a 44-county area. "If someone from the Mt. Olivet area used blood, chances are it would be in a Lexington hospital. It might also be in the area hospitals such as in Nicholas, Fleming, Bourbon or Harrison Counties. That blood could have been donated by someone in Somerset, Prestonsburg, Columbia, Hazard, Paris, Lexington or one of the many other areas where we will send our mobile crews. We need 130 pints of blood a day just to meet all the demands in this region. Each of the counties we serve has a quota to meet based on an average eight percent transfusion rate per total population and compared with actual yearly total transfusions. When a county does not meet its goal, there is less blood to provide for anyone who might need it."

Robertson County did not meet its goal last year. Because of the word, it has been "freeloading" on the good will of others for its blood needs. Persons can donate blood on a regular basis can guarantee blood availability for themselves and their families. For those who cannot donate due to medical reasons, substitute donors are welcome. However, donor requirements change rapidly. Many who once thought they could not donate may now be eligible. Persons interested in getting more information about the Robertson County Blood Program may contact Mrs. Gladys Sweeney at 724-5222.

KTC to conduct regional workshop at NK University

The Kentucky Transportation Center at the University of Kentucky will conduct a regional workshop on the transportation of hazardous materials from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 7, at Northern Kentucky University, Highland Heights.

The workshop will give local elected and appointed officials information aimed at helping them carry out their responsibilities for public safety issues associated with transportation of hazardous materials.

The workshop is co-sponsored by the Northern Kentucky Area Development District, the Kentucky Municipal League and the Kentucky Training and Education Network.

The registration fee is $10 including lunch. Pre-registration is necessary. For further information call Patsy Anderson, workshop coordinator, 606-258-5874.

Correction, please

In last week's listing of the final defensive statistics for Nicholas County's junior high football team, the name of Darren Robinson, the team's fourth leading tackler was omitted. Robinson racked up 13 tackles in the season's finale against Bath County and finished the season with 35 hits.

The omission was the result of our roster's incorrect listing of Robinson's jersey number.

State Tourism office to have meeting on Matching Funds

The Kentucky Office of Tourism Development and the Bluegrass North Tourism Committee of region 15 will sponsor a meeting for Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 2 EDT for the purpose of approving programs for the 1981-82 Matching Funds Program.

The committee will aid in the distribution of more than $50,000 in matching funds on a 50 percent match to non-profit organizations and associations for advertising and promoting tourist attractions in the area which includes Fayette, Franklin, Woodford, Jessamine, Nicholas, Harrison, Bourbon, Scott and Clark Counties.
