General fund receipts are up

General Fund receipts for the first two months of the fiscal year are up 18.3 percent over the corresponding months in 1980, according to a report recently released by Finance Secretary George Atkins and Revenue Commissioner Robert Alphin.

Sales and use tax receipts increased 14.1 percent for the first two months, the report said.

Individual income tax receipts through August declined 1.8 percent over corresponding receipts in 1980.

The decline is attributable to the first refund carryover from fiscal 1981; it income tax receipts for August were up only 4.9 percent over August 1980.

Corporation income tax receipts are off 6 percent for the fiscal year reflecting, in part, the new loss carryover provisions at the state level.

Coal severance tax receipts have registered a 36.5 percent increase for the fiscal year to date reflecting, in part, restocking by consumers following the strike, the report stated.

Transportation Fund receipts for the first two months of the fiscal year are off 1.1 percent over the same period last year. The decline is almost entirely due to a $17 million drop in federal grants, according to the report.

Tax receipts are up 26.8 percent over July-August 1980. This is largely due to the 26.2 percent increase in the motor fuels tax levied in part by the tax increase from 9.3 cents per gallon to 18.4 cents per gallon for the first quarter of the fiscal year. Motor vehicle usage tax receipts have increased 27.4 percent for the fiscal year.

Agency Fund receipts are off 3.7 percent for the fiscal year due primarily to a loss of federal grants. Tax receipts are up 11 percent and non-federal grants are increasing but they represent a minor part of total agency funds, the report said.

Although their ancestor, the pig iron slabs, walked on all fours and stood upright to feed, presently, slabs spend most of their time hanging from tree limbs on the ground they cannot stand, walk or run.

With 67,000 residents squeezed into 45 square miles, San Francisco stands second only to New York as the most densely populated major U.S. city.

Then, on Thursday, October 29, "Fast Here In A Bull Market" takes an inside perspective on Thoroughbred horse sales. The program follows Lexington's Tom Gentry of Tom Gentry Farm as he places a horse on the market at the Keeneland Select September Sale. The show is a reproduction of Wright, Hodson and KET.

Hosted by distinguished journalist and former CBS news commentator Eric Sevareid, "Enterprise" was produced by WGH and other public television broadcasters around the country, including KET.

In the debut program, "Wildcat" (October 8), "Enterprise" provides a profile about the drilling of a gas well in Louisiana Cajon country by a small oil and gas operator. The program looks at the changing face of the American gas and oil industries, industries that rely more and more on wildcaters to seek out the country's diminishing energy resources.

In the second program, "The Island Comes To Japan" (October 15), "Enterprise" focuses on the success of Kentucky Fried Chicken, its impact on

Bentz announces mayoral candidacy

Lee Bentz has formally announced his candidacy for the office of Mayor of the city of Carlisle in the upcoming general election Nov. 3.

A native of Reading, Pa., he moved to Carlisle in May of 1971 where he accepted a position as agent for an insurance company. Prior to that, Mr. Bentz said, he was self-employed in Buford, S.C. for 27 years where he operated a military clothing store and cleaning and laundry business.

He is a member of the Carlisle First Baptist Church, VFW, American Legion (in Buford) and a past member of the Buford Jaycees. He served in the U.S. Marine Corps and retired from the Marine Corps Reserves in October 1976 with the rank of 1st Sergeant. He is currently serving as 1st Sergeant in C Company 261st Engineer Battalion in Cynthia, and has been doing so for the last two years.

Mr. Bentz resides on Broadway with his wife, the former Edith Lyman, daughter of Minnie Snapp Lyman of Carlisle and the late Holman Lyman.

ions until it is needed and sold at a later time.

The two barley cooperatives — at Lexington and Knoxville, Tenn. — received a total of 21,388 pounds of tobacco under loan last season. Both crops have sold their stocks.

Rank said the new support rates will apply to sales of both hand-harvested and baled barley.

"As in the past, no government loan will be accepted on tobacco graded '1' (no grade or strap)," Rank said.

Sheets — approximately 200 pounds of baled tobacco leaves in tied burlap sheets — also will not be subject to price supports by the government this marketing season, Rank said.

Sheeted tobacco has gained in popularity and has been sold on local barley markets the past couple of years without price supports. Last year, a substantial amount of unrecorded sheets of barley leaf was bought for the same price as hand-harvested and baled barley.

For the past few years, baled barley has been marketed in limited experimental sales and — up to last year — sold only on specified days.

This year producers will be allowed to sell as much tobacco as they desire in bulk on any market day, and they do not have to declare in advance the amount of baled barley they will sell.

Only three of a total of 16 barley grades carry the top support price of $1.81 a pound this season. These include HIF (choice tan leaf), CH (choice buff lugs or cutters) and CF (choice tan lugs or cutters).

Another three grades carry the second-highest support of $1.80 a pound. These include HIFH (choice tan leaf), XII (choice buff lugs) and HIFC (choice tan lugs).

Prices for the lowest grades, described as "warehouse," range from $1.68 a pound to $1.29.

Mixed-grade support prices for the crop range from $1.20 to $1.41 a pound, set at $1.22 to $1.32 a pound last year.

More than 45 percent of the 1981 barley crop has been harvested this year, according to the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

State hunt in county

The Kentucky Fish and Game Association will hold its statewide bench show and field trials next week at the Clay Wildlife Management Area in the county.

The event will run Oct. 12 through 15, with registration and marking on the first day, and the first test occurring at daybreak on the 13th.

Further details were not available at press time.

The state hunters will be using the days in Mt. Sterling as headquarters.

demands. The expansion will make Kentucky Textiles Bourbon County's largest employer.

Weekly production is expected to average 1,250 dozen male Speedo suits, 1,200 dozen female Speedo suits and more than 120,000 other garments and products.

Shumate, as Chief Executive Officer of Kentucky Textiles, also owns Carlton Place Textile, Ltd., located 35 miles southwest of Ottawa, Ontario, Canada.

That plant produces Speedo racing swimwear, leisure swimwear and swimwear for Canadian distribution.

Speedo was formed in 1934, originally as Mc-Hite Knitting Mills. It was listed as a public company in 1961 and now has a number of subsidiary companies in Australia, Canada, England and the U.S.

Speedo's international success is attributed to design (about 150 styles and color combinations) plus durability.

Designed specifically for racing, Speedo was the official swimwear for the 1976 U.S. Olympic team. Speedo suits are the basic tank type and can be waded up and carried easily. Popular styles among competitive swimmers are the Breakaway, Grand Prix and Super Pro.

Shumate said he plans to announce new operations and other lines in sportswear for the Paris plant before Christmas.

Concurrent with the reorganization under the new name and partnership will be the addition of a design and pattern department. "This will give us much more flexibility in styles," Shumate explained, "in order to offer the most comprehensive selection of men's and women's swimwear ever under the Speedo label."
