

Opinion

Cutting student aid

There's no question that the federal government's general program of student grants and loans for higher education was often abused. In many instances, financial aid went to students who could have managed without it. It was expanded to make money, accepting those who could have managed without it. It was expanded to make money, accepting those who could have managed without it. It was expanded to make money, accepting those who could have managed without it.

The very breadth of this rapidly expanding program raised questions whether, in practice, this was really an effort to help those who could not. It was expanded to make money, accepting those who could have managed without it. It was expanded to make money, accepting those who could have managed without it.

President Reagan's new budget proposals raise those questions again, albeit in a very different way. In recommending extremely large cuts in student aid programs... President Reagan's new budget proposals raise those questions again, albeit in a very different way.

Corporate food stamps

Congress is having second thoughts about one of the tax breaks for business which it passed last year as part of President Reagan's tax-cut package. The new "safe harbor" legislation... Congress is having second thoughts about one of the tax breaks for business which it passed last year.

These cuts will be to make money, rather than to help those who could not. It was expanded to make money, accepting those who could have managed without it. It was expanded to make money, accepting those who could have managed without it.

Underlying those questions are larger issues of philosophy and priorities: What are the government's responsibilities in higher education and how, in a time of shrinking resources, can those be met? Conversely, to what extent does any large-scale program of grants and loans represent a government's responsibility to help those who could not?

Underlying those questions are larger issues of philosophy and priorities: What are the government's responsibilities in higher education and how, in a time of shrinking resources, can those be met? Conversely, to what extent does any large-scale program of grants and loans represent a government's responsibility to help those who could not?

Agree or not

By G.V. Van Vleet
Gov. John Young Brown's R. acceptance and burning desire to accomplish things almost immediately for Kentucky is showing again in Senate Bill 24 that would create the State Investment Commission... Gov. John Young Brown's R. acceptance and burning desire to accomplish things almost immediately for Kentucky is showing again in Senate Bill 24.

State government doesn't move like the fried chicken business

By G.V. Van Vleet
The state government is not moving like the fried chicken business. It is slow, it is inefficient, and it is not responsive to the needs of the people. It is slow, it is inefficient, and it is not responsive to the needs of the people.

"HELLO MEXICAN, I THINK WE HAVE A SLIGHT LEAD IN THE CHEMICAL WEAPON RACE."

Agree or not

State government doesn't move like the fried chicken business

By G.V. Van Vleet
The state government is not moving like the fried chicken business. It is slow, it is inefficient, and it is not responsive to the needs of the people. It is slow, it is inefficient, and it is not responsive to the needs of the people.

Down Memory Lane

Local foxhunter granted patent

Thursday, March 11, 1982
The Nicholas County Fish and Game Club Inc. has been selected the second best sportsman's club in the United States in a contest sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation to receive the most creative such organization, according to a report from the annual convention held in Denver, Colorado.

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Op-Ed Page

In all that blue haze . . . how could he even see the target?

I'm not one to quibble about everything I hear in the abilities of our ancestors, but a typographical error is intolerable, especially when it comes from the Kentucky Department of Information. I am trying to use fast-food barriers into your state bearing fat walters and sagging jaws, you expect the state slickers to stretch a point here and there... I'm not one to quibble about everything I hear in the abilities of our ancestors, but a typographical error is intolerable, especially when it comes from the Kentucky Department of Information.

I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards."

When wearing a buckskin jogging suit all winter without a change, the air for at least 300 yards around them would be a blue haze, strong enough to stain a ball mouse at 50 yards. Old buffalo hunters used to wear buffalo dung on their clothes when they wanted to get in close for the kill. This was probably an improvement in their natural odors, as well as a hunting aid. When wearing a buckskin jogging suit all winter without a change, the air for at least 300 yards around them would be a blue haze, strong enough to stain a ball mouse at 50 yards.

North Dakota's official state flower is mallow, and the state tree is the purple pine. Students at the University of North Dakota are still looking for a sign for the school. North Dakota's official state flower is mallow, and the state tree is the purple pine. Students at the University of North Dakota are still looking for a sign for the school.

Good evening I'm Dan Rafter and tonight PPT will broadcast the 1982 State of the Union address by President Ronald Reagan in its entirety. The President will tell the people that he is shifting some 40 governmental agencies back to the states . . . and that the federal government will assume total financing of the costly Medicare plan. The President will then say that he is recommending a budget to be set up, which would be returned to the states over a 10-year period, but help pay for agencies transferred to the states. President Reagan will also tell Americans he will not increase taxes, but will ask industry to pay for some of the services it now receives from the government. He will tell Americans there are no "taxes at home, particularly those who pay for their children's

An editor's random thoughts...

By Warren R. Fisher Sr.
The columns of the Mercury record that on March 19, 1980, a six-inch snow fell here and thermometers registered zero. Yet we will never know how much snow has been laid on the ground since that time. The weather is so unpredictable that we can never know how much snow has been laid on the ground since that time.

By James J. Smith
This week I am eating my words. I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards."

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Op-Ed Page

In all that blue haze . . . how could he even see the target?

I'm not one to quibble about everything I hear in the abilities of our ancestors, but a typographical error is intolerable, especially when it comes from the Kentucky Department of Information. I am trying to use fast-food barriers into your state bearing fat walters and sagging jaws, you expect the state slickers to stretch a point here and there... I'm not one to quibble about everything I hear in the abilities of our ancestors, but a typographical error is intolerable, especially when it comes from the Kentucky Department of Information.

I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards."

When wearing a buckskin jogging suit all winter without a change, the air for at least 300 yards around them would be a blue haze, strong enough to stain a ball mouse at 50 yards. Old buffalo hunters used to wear buffalo dung on their clothes when they wanted to get in close for the kill. This was probably an improvement in their natural odors, as well as a hunting aid. When wearing a buckskin jogging suit all winter without a change, the air for at least 300 yards around them would be a blue haze, strong enough to stain a ball mouse at 50 yards.

North Dakota's official state flower is mallow, and the state tree is the purple pine. Students at the University of North Dakota are still looking for a sign for the school. North Dakota's official state flower is mallow, and the state tree is the purple pine. Students at the University of North Dakota are still looking for a sign for the school.

Good evening I'm Dan Rafter and tonight PPT will broadcast the 1982 State of the Union address by President Ronald Reagan in its entirety. The President will tell the people that he is shifting some 40 governmental agencies back to the states . . . and that the federal government will assume total financing of the costly Medicare plan. The President will then say that he is recommending a budget to be set up, which would be returned to the states over a 10-year period, but help pay for agencies transferred to the states. President Reagan will also tell Americans he will not increase taxes, but will ask industry to pay for some of the services it now receives from the government. He will tell Americans there are no "taxes at home, particularly those who pay for their children's

An editor's random thoughts...

By Warren R. Fisher Sr.
The columns of the Mercury record that on March 19, 1980, a six-inch snow fell here and thermometers registered zero. Yet we will never know how much snow has been laid on the ground since that time. The weather is so unpredictable that we can never know how much snow has been laid on the ground since that time.

By James J. Smith
This week I am eating my words. I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards."

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Op-Ed Page

In all that blue haze . . . how could he even see the target?

I'm not one to quibble about everything I hear in the abilities of our ancestors, but a typographical error is intolerable, especially when it comes from the Kentucky Department of Information. I am trying to use fast-food barriers into your state bearing fat walters and sagging jaws, you expect the state slickers to stretch a point here and there... I'm not one to quibble about everything I hear in the abilities of our ancestors, but a typographical error is intolerable, especially when it comes from the Kentucky Department of Information.

I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards."

When wearing a buckskin jogging suit all winter without a change, the air for at least 300 yards around them would be a blue haze, strong enough to stain a ball mouse at 50 yards. Old buffalo hunters used to wear buffalo dung on their clothes when they wanted to get in close for the kill. This was probably an improvement in their natural odors, as well as a hunting aid. When wearing a buckskin jogging suit all winter without a change, the air for at least 300 yards around them would be a blue haze, strong enough to stain a ball mouse at 50 yards.

North Dakota's official state flower is mallow, and the state tree is the purple pine. Students at the University of North Dakota are still looking for a sign for the school. North Dakota's official state flower is mallow, and the state tree is the purple pine. Students at the University of North Dakota are still looking for a sign for the school.

Good evening I'm Dan Rafter and tonight PPT will broadcast the 1982 State of the Union address by President Ronald Reagan in its entirety. The President will tell the people that he is shifting some 40 governmental agencies back to the states . . . and that the federal government will assume total financing of the costly Medicare plan. The President will then say that he is recommending a budget to be set up, which would be returned to the states over a 10-year period, but help pay for agencies transferred to the states. President Reagan will also tell Americans he will not increase taxes, but will ask industry to pay for some of the services it now receives from the government. He will tell Americans there are no "taxes at home, particularly those who pay for their children's

An editor's random thoughts...

By Warren R. Fisher Sr.
The columns of the Mercury record that on March 19, 1980, a six-inch snow fell here and thermometers registered zero. Yet we will never know how much snow has been laid on the ground since that time. The weather is so unpredictable that we can never know how much snow has been laid on the ground since that time.

By James J. Smith
This week I am eating my words. I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards."

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Op-Ed Page

In all that blue haze . . . how could he even see the target?

I'm not one to quibble about everything I hear in the abilities of our ancestors, but a typographical error is intolerable, especially when it comes from the Kentucky Department of Information. I am trying to use fast-food barriers into your state bearing fat walters and sagging jaws, you expect the state slickers to stretch a point here and there... I'm not one to quibble about everything I hear in the abilities of our ancestors, but a typographical error is intolerable, especially when it comes from the Kentucky Department of Information.

I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards."

When wearing a buckskin jogging suit all winter without a change, the air for at least 300 yards around them would be a blue haze, strong enough to stain a ball mouse at 50 yards. Old buffalo hunters used to wear buffalo dung on their clothes when they wanted to get in close for the kill. This was probably an improvement in their natural odors, as well as a hunting aid. When wearing a buckskin jogging suit all winter without a change, the air for at least 300 yards around them would be a blue haze, strong enough to stain a ball mouse at 50 yards.

North Dakota's official state flower is mallow, and the state tree is the purple pine. Students at the University of North Dakota are still looking for a sign for the school. North Dakota's official state flower is mallow, and the state tree is the purple pine. Students at the University of North Dakota are still looking for a sign for the school.

Good evening I'm Dan Rafter and tonight PPT will broadcast the 1982 State of the Union address by President Ronald Reagan in its entirety. The President will tell the people that he is shifting some 40 governmental agencies back to the states . . . and that the federal government will assume total financing of the costly Medicare plan. The President will then say that he is recommending a budget to be set up, which would be returned to the states over a 10-year period, but help pay for agencies transferred to the states. President Reagan will also tell Americans he will not increase taxes, but will ask industry to pay for some of the services it now receives from the government. He will tell Americans there are no "taxes at home, particularly those who pay for their children's

An editor's random thoughts...

By Warren R. Fisher Sr.
The columns of the Mercury record that on March 19, 1980, a six-inch snow fell here and thermometers registered zero. Yet we will never know how much snow has been laid on the ground since that time. The weather is so unpredictable that we can never know how much snow has been laid on the ground since that time.

By James J. Smith
This week I am eating my words. I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards." I believe what the writer meant to say was "A good frontier long rifle could snuff a man from a distance of 300 yards."

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...

Letters

To the Carlisle Mercury:
I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the... I am writing to you regarding the...