Kay's Kitchen

By Kay Fisher

Last week after witnessing the "dressing" of two turtles, it was suggested I get together some recipes for turtle meat. I don't think Turtle Soup was what they had in mind.

Well, I'm stumped. Please someone help me. Send to Kay's Kitchen, Carlisle Mercury, Carlisle, Ky. 40311.

To get back to those turtles — I've seen turtles before, but never one so large it would barely fit into a large dish pan. The weight was guessed at 30-35 pounds. The smaller of the two was guessed at between 20-25 pounds. They were dressed in a most professional manner. The edible meat was never allowed to touch the insides, or skin of the turtle.

The only suggestion so far is frying the legs, etc. (in the case of the ones I saw, those parts would have to be cut into several pieces). Soak overnight in salt water, drain, pat dry, roll in flour and fry as you would chicken. For larger turtles, you would need to cover and steam the parts until tender.

Now please someone come up with something else in the way of cooking turtle meat.

Mid August is time to think about making homemade ice cream. If you have an electric freezer, get it out and use it for this summertime treat. If not, there are delicious ices and sherbets that can be made in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator.

COCONUT FRUIT CREAM

1 large banana
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
1 cup pineapple juice
½ cup coconut
1/8 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup whipping cream

Cut bananas into chunks. In blender puree bananas and lemon juice until almost smooth.

In medium bowl, beat eggs and sugar until thick and smooth. Stir in pureed banana, pineapple juice, coconut, almond extract and whipping cream.

If you have an ice cream maker, pour the mixture into the canister and follow the manufacturer's directions.

If not, pour mixture in a nine-inch square pan or several undivided ice trays. Cover with foil or plastic wrap. Put in freezer. Freeze until firm, three to six hours. Stir two or three times with a fork or spoon while freezing.

LIME SHERBET SURPRISE

1 3-oz. package lime-flavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
1½ cups boiling water
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg white

In mixing bowl, combine gelatin and sugar; dissolve in boiling water. Stir in buttermilk, lemon peel and lemon juice. Turn into four-cup refrigerator tray; freeze firm. Break into chunks. With electric mixer beat till smooth. Beat egg white till stiff peaks form. Fold into gelatin mixture. Spoon back into refrigerator tray; return to freezer till firm.

Kentucky featured in magazine

Millions of Americans will be "seeing" Kentucky in full color when the Sept. 13, 1983 issue of Family Circle magazine hits the newsstands.

Not only does the colorful crafts-oriented cover highlight the state, but three major features, the "Best of Bluegrass Cooking," a "Kentucky Vacation Guide," and a craft how-to article, "Handmade in Kentucky," all center on the state.

Arthur Hettich, editor-in-chief of Family Circle, also talks about Kentucky in his page 4 column, and notes, "We go a long way from Madison Avenue to keep in touch with what is happening out there."

Fran Padgett, crafts coordinator in the Kentucky Department of the Arts, assisted the magazine's craft editor Deborah Harding, when she came here. "We helped her locate the Kentucky craftspeople whose handmade items were featured in the article on how to create your own Kentucky crafts," Padgett said. "Believe me, we are delighted with all this attention."

Family Circle, a women's service magazine which is distributed through chain and independent stores and on the newsstands, has a U.S. circulation of over seven million.
