Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) State Director Kendell L. Seaton is directing FmHA district directors and county supervisors throughout the state to encourage Kentucky farmers to seriously consider participating in the new Payment-in-Kind (PIK) or "crop swap" program.

Two fires reported

Extensive damage was caused to a home owned by Fred Hollar at the junction of Saltwell and Johnson Roads around 12:35 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 27, according to County Fire Chief Woody Wilson.

The fire was reported to be around the stovepipe and chimney in the two-story frame dwelling occupied by Lloyd Graham.

Cause was said to be a wood burning stove and a bad chimney. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

On Saturday, Jan. 29, around 8:50 p.m., county firemen were called to the Elsie Hunter residence on Old U.S. 68 about 10 miles north of Carlisle. The kitchen stove had caught a dishrag on fire, but the fire was out when firemen arrived.

Nearly a million northern fur seals, 70 percent of the world's total, congregate every spring at rookeries in the Pribilof Islands near Alaska to breed and bear young, according to National Geographic. It's the world's largest annual gathering of marine mammals.

Winter awareness:
Winter and your car

Winter is hard on people and on the vehicles they rely upon to transport them from one place to another.

"Our cars are probably in the worst shape ever because money has been so tight," Wilbur R. Buntin Jr., executive director of Disaster and Emergency Services, said. "This is dangerous in several ways, but mainly because it could mean more than the usual number of stranded motorists," he said.

Winter conditions — wet, cold and icy weather — present the greatest difficulty to an engine's operating efficiency. Cold weather also weakens batteries, making starting cars much more difficult as the thermometer drops. A battery check-up and tune-up are very important in assuring that cars are in top operating condition for winter, Buntin said.

If your vehicle is not already winterized, these are the points to check:

— The braking system should be mechanically sound and all brakes adjusted to ensure equal braking on all wheels.

— Check the condition of ignition wires and the distributor cap.

— Be sure tires have good tread. Or better yet, use snow tires. Keep tires at the full, recommended pressure.

— Be sure there is sufficient antifreeze in the radiator and that the heater and defroster are operating efficiently.

— Be sure wiper blades are working properly and replace worn blades.

— Have battery tested and maintain water or solution at the full, recommended level. Be sure battery terminals are free of corrosion and replace worn cables.

Special precautions will help in winter driving:

— Take another person with you, if possible.

— Maintain a full tank of gas.

— Keep emergency supplies in the car, such as an ice scraper, a container of sand, booster cables, a tow chain or rope, flashlight and blankets or sleeping bags. Extra clothing and a food supply are also good items to pack in an emergency supply kit, particularly when planning a long trip.

— Travel by daylight and use major highways as much as possible. Keep the car radio turned on for weather information and advice.

— Allow for plenty of extra time during winter driving. Take the time, too, to clear snow and ice off all windows before starting.

Following are some tips for winter driving safety:

Starting — Warm up the engine to prevent its stalling, especially when driving in heavy traffic areas. Accelerate cautiously and steadily to avoid wheel spin.

Driving — Do everything gradually on slippery roads, whether it is applying brakes, feeding gas or turning. Keep speed down and be alert to other drivers.

Following Distances — On slippery pavement, keep a clear distance. Allow more room than you normally would for slipping or for going around stalled vehicles.

Skids — Remove your foot from the accelerator and turn the steering wheel in the direction of the skid; e.g., if the rear end of the vehicle is skidding toward the right, gently turn the steering wheel to the right. Do not oversteer and do not apply brakes.

Stopping — Pump the brakes to keep the wheels from locking.

Gov. Brown unveils plans for new theme park

Kentucky Governor John Y. Brown Jr. unveiled plans last week for a new theme park to be developed at Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville.

Brown said that "Family Funland Theme Park" will be a 13-acre area featuring rides, restaurants, a petting zoo, indoor theater and amphitheater.

The target date for opening is April 1, 1984. Projected cost is $6-10 million.

It will be a seasonal park, open about six months a year from spring to fall. (Some areas of the park will be open year-round.) Admission will be pay-one-price. It will be open April to October.

Kentucky architecture and tradition will be seen in numerous areas of the park grounds. For instance, buildings will bear roof styles similar to the spire and gable motif in Churchill Downs Gardens. The 500-seat outdoor amphitheater will offer shows depicting the state's culture.

"Family Funland" will be developed by Southern Amusement Corporation, based in Nashville, in conjunction with the Kentucky State Fair Board, which oversees operations at the fairgrounds.

Southern Amusement Corporation is headed by E.J. Preston, a native Kentuckian. Preston was a driving force in the development of the family entertainment area at the highly successful 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn.

W. Glenn Bullock will be the architect heading the design team for McCarty, Bullock and Holsaple of Knoxville. The firm provided the master architects for Knoxville's World's Fair last year. Bullock is a native Kentuckian from Mayfield.

Both Preston and Bullock were on hand to discuss the theme park project.

The park would employ 50 to 70 permanent employees and add 300 to 500 workers to its staff for the summer.

The park will be located on the west side of the fairgrounds property, between Gate 1 on Phillips Lane and Gate 2 on Crittenden Drive.

Landscaping plans include retention of large shrubbery and trees and the addition of colorful floral beds and shrubs throughout the entire park.

Flags, banners and specialty night lighting on trees and buildings will add to the color and activity. A lighted fountain will also grace the area.

Numerous visitor services will include first aid facilities, drinking fountains, park benches, restrooms and shaded resting areas.

The following rides are planned: Log flume, antique car, pirate ship, coaster dark ride, mush express, the enterprise, bumper car, wave swinger, carousel. Several other rides will be available for children.

Hospitalized veteran salute set for Feb. 14

Sports and entertainment stars, along with community and government leaders, will gather in Veterans Administration medical centers on Valentine's Day for the 10th annual national salute to hospitalized veterans.

Special events for that day are being planned also by veterans, civic, religious and youth groups. Festivities will include talent shows, celebrity visits, musical programs and VA benefits workshops at most of VA's 172 medical centers, 226 outpatient clinics, 96 nursing homes and 16 domiciliaries.

The program will be coordinated at each medical center by VA's Voluntary Service, the organization that oversees services to some 78,000 hospital volunteers who nationally contribute nearly 11 million hours to VA patients every year.

According to Edward F. Rose, VA's director of Voluntary Service, individuals or groups interested in joining the salute on Feb. 14 should contact the Voluntary Service at a nearby VA medical center.

"Help is needed to build enthusiasm and a festive atmosphere so that the misfortune of being hospitalized can be temporarily dispelled," Rose said.

The salute has been conducted each year since 1974 to show hospitalized veterans that their fellow citizens appreciate their service to the country and have not forgotten them, Rose said.

Mrs. Ronald Reagan is the event's honorary patroness, and boxer Sugar Ray Leonard and Olympic skater Dorothy Hamill are the honorary chairpersons. Professional baseball, basketball, football and hockey players, National Football League cheerleaders, Shriner clowns, along with airline pilots, flight attendants and ground personnel, will be among the celebrity visitors.

Scholarships increased at Transylvania

Officials at Transylvania University in Lexington have announced that the number of recipients of its prestigious Thomas Jefferson Scholars Program would be increased from 10 to 25 for the fall and winter semester of 1983.

In making the announcement, William T.
