Supply of blood is ongoing need

The need for hospitals to have an adequate supply of blood for surgeries is on-going.

The American Red Cross Louisville Regional Blood Services supplies all blood and blood products to 63 hospitals in 64 counties in parts of Kentucky, southern Indiana and southeastern Illinois. To do that, no fewer than 329 people must donate daily.

President Reagan has proclaimed January 1983 as National Blood Donor Month, as one effort toward bringing public attention to the need for blood donors every day. His message continues an annual tradition of honoring those who donate blood and encouraging others to join this life-giving cause.

Generally, healthy people between the ages of 17 and 65 who weigh 110 pounds can donate blood. In Kentucky, parental or guardian consent is required for 17-year-old first-time donors, but consent is not required for 17-year-old Indiana residents. People who cannot donate include those whose blood may be harmful to a recipient and those who may be harmed by having their blood withdrawn.

The process normally takes less than an hour, from the time a donor presents him-or-herself to the time he or she leaves the site. This includes registration, measurement of temperature, blood pressure, pulse and iron level of one's blood, the donation and refreshments in the Canteen.

The actual time spent giving blood is usually between six and eight minutes.

Persons planning to give blood are encouraged to have a meal within four hours of donating. While walk-ins are always accepted, appointments are suggested for the convenience of the donor, as unnecessary waiting may be avoided. Appointments may be made by calling your local Red Cross chapter.

WTVQ to air U of L games

WTVQ-TV, channel 36, has announced that the station plans to carry three University of Louisville basketball games during the 1983 season.

In commenting on the decision to carry the games, Jerry Fox, program director, said, "Our audience research showed a substantial amount of interest in U of L basketball and we are happy to bring the games to Central Kentucky viewers. We will carefully monitor viewer response to these games as a guide to programming them in the future."

The three game schedule is as follows:

Tuesday, Jan. 18 — UL at Tulane, 8 p.m. (live); Saturday, Jan. 22 — So. Miss. at UL, 4:00 p.m. (live); Monday, Feb. 7 — Fla. State at UL, 11:30 p.m. (delay).

Library Notes

Nicholas County Librarian Jorita Anderson has announced the receipt of several new books by the library.

Kovels' Antiques and Collectibles Price List. Fifteenth edition by Ralph and Terry Kovel. Entirely new illustrations, revised prices and descriptions, and a selection of new collectibles ensure the continued success of this perennially popular volume.

Schroeder's Antique Price Guide. This is the antiques and collectibles price guide that will make all others obsolete. No collector, dealer or antiques lover should be without this new value guide to thousands of collectibles.

Elegant Glassware of Depression Era by Gene Florence. Gene Florence is one of the country's most well known authorities on Depression glass. This new book explores the higher quality glass produced by the glass companies during the Depression. Glass made by Cambridge, Fostoria, Heisey, and other companies is illustrated in full color. Known pieces are listed in available colors with current market values.

Pocket Guide to Depression Glass by Gene Florence. This all new updated edition of Gene Florence's best selling paperback guide to glassware from the Depression. A special section has been provided to show fakes and reproductions that are currently appearing on the market and how to detect these reproductions.

Heller Kitty's Button Book — A Do-It Cloth Book. Young children can unbutton the real buttons of Kitty's overall straps and see the different things Kitty can button and unbutton in this charming cloth book that encourages preschoolers to dress themselves.

Soft as a Kitten — Things to Teach and Feel, See and Sniff by Audean Johnson. Designed to help the very young children explore the world of the senses, this "touch-and-feel" book has actual texture and fragrance inserts that will delight children through hours of instructive play.

Charlie Brown's Encyclopedia of Energy based on the Charles M. Schulz characters. The energy facts that junior scientists want to know are here in full-filled encyclopedia. The Peanuts gang adds a light touch to hundreds of entries about power plants, energy management, engines, inventors and much more.

Hunches in Bunches by Dr. Seuss. "It's awful. It's just awful when you can't make up your mind." That's the comical dilemma in which one small boy finds himself when he's beset by bunches of bunches in this whimsical fantasy told in verse and zany illustrations by America's favorite children's author.

The Scarsdale Nutritionist's Diet Recipes by Judith R. Corlin. The nutrition consultant for the Scarsdale Medical Group offers a brand-new cookbook with over 200 low calorie, low-fat recipes that will enable anyone to shed pounds while still enjoying the foods they love.

Deadeye Dick by Kurt Vonnegut. The return of the Vonnegut! An eccentric tale of the Waltz family: Rudy, the frustrated playwright; Otto, the wealthy heir and painter who befriends Hitler in Vienna; and Felix, the radio announcer risen to NBC president. All set against a background of nuclear catastrophe.

Catch the Gentle Dawn by Cynthia Freeman. The author tells the moving story of one woman's quest to learn from the past, moving from deep in the valleys of northern California to the heady power centers of San Francisco.

Life Sentences by Elizabeth Forsythe Hailey. Three modern women learn the lifelong consequences of choices they made in their twenties.

Reap the Savage Wind by Ellen Tanner Marsh. A rich, bold, deliciously readable historical romance that combines the tempestuous excitement of Rosemary Rogers and the romantic sensuousness of Kathleen Woodiwiss.

Entertaining by Martha Stewart. Avoiding formal prescriptions and pretensions, this sumptuous volume advocates a new style of party giving that is informal, relaxed and expressive. 500 glorious full-color photographs, 300 original recipes and hundreds of ideas present this totally fresh approach to entertaining today.

Golden Hill by Shirley Lord. A multigenerational novel of romance and history, Golden Hill tells of three families welded together through love, hate, greed and political ambition whose destinies shape the history of the exotic and explosive island of Trinidad.

The Circle by Steve Shagan. An exciting and startling successor to the author's best seller.

The Formula, Shagan's newest novel is a brilliant thriller of nonstop intrigue, exploring a circle of self-appointed demigods who are endangering all of mankind.

Cloak of Darkness by Helen MacInnes. Bob Renwick, the head of a counter-terrorist agency, learns that a multi-national munitions combine is operating hidden training camps and supplying weapons for violent subversion in this riveting tale of suspense that bears the hallmark of Helen MacInnes at her superb best.

Paddington On Screen by Michael Bond. The irrepressible and lovable Paddington is back again and on the nine o'clock news, in seven stories that will delight all of his many fans.

Christmas with Southern Living — 1982 by Jo Voce and Candace N. Conrad. This second annual edition of Southern Living's Christmas compendium bursts at the seams with ideas for decoration, cooking, gift making, gift giving, and entertaining, with information about festivals and special events in the South.

Always a Woman by Kaylan Pickford and J. Frederick Smith. One of America's most frequently seen models, who started her career at age 45, shares her story and her secrets of success in a book aimed at women over 40, who make up the fastest growing segment of our population. Included dazzling photographs of Kaylan by J. Frederick Smith.

Jane Brody's Nutrition Book by Jane Brody. Over 20 weeks on the New York Times best seller list and with 200,000 copies in Nutrition Hardcover, Jane Brody's Nutrition Book is called by Liz Smith of the New York Post "the very best book of its kind ever written." A lifetime guide to good eating for better health and weight control.

The bluefin tuna moves every minute; prevented from swimming, it dies from lack of oxygen. By the age of 15, a bluefin will have swum an estimated million miles, National Geographic says.

Meadowview Regional Hospital in Maysville to be dedicated Sunday

Meadowview Regional Hospital will be dedicated at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 23.

The 111-bed hospital, which was built at Maysville by Hospital Corporation of America, will serve Mason, Lewis, Bracken, Robertson and Fleming Counties in Kentucky and Adams and Brown Counties in Ohio. It replaces Maysville Hospital, which has existed since 1908.

Kay Clawson, Dean of the University of Kentucky Medical School, will deliver the keynote address at the dedication ceremony, which is open to the public. Others scheduled to speak include Dr. Thomas Frist, the Nashville, Tenn. cardiologist who founded HCA, local and state dignitaries and hospital officials.

An open house will follow the ceremony.

Fees now being assessed

The WEDCO Health Department is announcing that as a result of House Bill 531 passed by the 1982 General Assembly, certain establishments in Bourbon, Clark, Harrison, Nicholas and Scott counties will be charged an inspection fee. The Secretary for Human Resources established a fee schedule effective Dec. 1, 1982.

Fees will be paid by food service establishments, hotels and motels to cover the cost of inspection activities.
