Kay's Kitchen

By Kay Fisher

I am told gooseberries should be at their peak now. They are one of the really tart berries, so have plenty of sugar available and take advantage of this delicious fruit. You will find them in some of the larger markets, but much nicer if you have a friend who has a friend that grows many fruits, including gooseberries.

SPICED GOOSEBERRY PIE

3 cups gooseberries
½ cup sugar
⅓ cup water
2 tablespoons flour
Dash of salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 recipe plain pastry
1 tablespoon butter
Marshmallows

Cook gooseberries, 1 cup sugar and water until berries are tender. Combine remaining ¼ cup sugar, flour, salt and spices; stir into cooked fruit and cool. Taste for desired sweetness. Line a nine-inch pie plate with pastry; fill with fruit mixture, dot with butter and arrange lattice of pastry on top. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 20-25 minutes longer. When almost brown enough to serve, remove from oven, place marshmallows in each diamond-shape opening and finish browning.

GOOSEBERRY ROLL

Prepare rich biscuit dough; roll ¼ inch thick. Wash and stem 1 pint gooseberries, place on dough and sprinkle with ¼ cup brown sugar. Roll as for jelly roll; place seam side down on greased baking sheet. Brush with butter and bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 25-30 minutes. Serve with Brown Sugar Sauce.

BROWN SUGAR SAUCE

¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup corn syrup
½ cup butter
1 cup light cream

Boil sugar, syrup and butter five minutes, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Add cream, bring to a brisk boil. Serve hot or cold (it thickens as it stands). For thicker sauce boil sugar-cream mixture to 343 degrees.

Sauce will keep well, stored covered in refrigerator. Yield: 3 cups.

GOOSEBERRY CHUTNEY

Stem 3 quarts gooseberries; wash and drain. Combine with 3 pounds onions, chopped, 1 pound currants, 2 ounces ginger root, chopped, (may use candied ginger), ¼ ounce chili pepper, chopped, 2½ cups sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, and 2 quarts vinegar. Cover and simmer gently 6-7 hours, stirring occasionally. When thick, pour into clean hot jars and seal at once.

*****

This chutney is better if stored 1-2 months before using. Yield: 4 pints.

You can also make delicious jam and jelly.

Genealogy society plans annual seminar for August 6

The Kentucky Genealogical Society will present its ninth annual Genealogical Seminar on Saturday, Aug. 6, at Bradford Hall, Kentucky State University campus, East Main Street at Maryland Avenue (U.S. 60), Frankfort.

Over 300 genealogists from throughout Kentucky and surrounding states are expected to attend. This year's theme is "Finding Yourself in Kentucky: Where Do You Search?" and "Publishing Your Family History Book."

Two concurrent sessions and speakers are: "Understanding Court Records Prior to 1850," Bill Richardson, graduate student, University of Ky., College of Library and Information Science, Lexington; and "Where to Get Started in Genealogy," Landon Wills, editor, "Bluegrass Roots," Frankfort; "Where to Look for Church Records," Dr. Richard Harrison, associate professor of Church History, Lexington Theological Seminary, Lexington; and "Organizing, Maintaining and Keeping Genealogical Records," Clayton Cox, compiler, Appalachia Crossroads Series, publisher "The East Kentuckian," Lexington. Another speech for the morning session is "Birth, Marriage and Death Records," Omar Greeman, manager, Vital Records Branch, Kentucky Department for Health Services, Frankfort.

The afternoon presentation is "Publishing Your Family History Book," by Ann Hege Hughes, representative, Gateway Press, Inc., Baltimore, MD. This is in response to many requests for information on this subject.

In addition to the change of location for the seminar, note that the registration fee does not include lunch. Food will be available on or near campus.

Until Aug. 1, pre-registration is $10; registration at the door is $12 and is scheduled from 7:30-8:15 a.m. The program will begin at 8:15 a.m. with Theodore B. Walter, president, Kentucky Genealogical Society, presiding and Kentucky State University President Raymond Burse welcoming the group. Genealogical book vendors will exhibit and sell books and a photographer will be available to copy your old family pictures.

A question and answer session is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Interested persons are urged to register early. Forms may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Kentucky Genealogical Society, P.O. Box 153, Frankfort, Ky. 40602, or at your local library.

Rosemary Clooney in concert on August 5 in Maysville

1953 — "The Stars Are Singing" her first movie. 1983 — "The Star is Still Singing". After 30 years, Rosemary Clooney is returning to Maysville to give her great voice in concert Aug. 5.

Rosemary started her singing at the early age of three when she sang for her grandfather Clooney while autographing for Mayor of Maysville. She sang for the Maysville Rotary Club and many other organizations and won several talent contests.

After moving to Cincinnati, Ohio in 1938, she and her sister Betty, in the late forties won an audition with WLW Radio and did the "Moon River" program.

After leaving the program, they joined the Tony Pastor orchestra and traveled around the world.

She recorded for Columbia and her first hit was "Come On-A My House". This record won a solid gold record.

After that, on to Hollywood and a contract with Paramount Pictures and two tv shows of her very own.

In show business, Miss Clooney is known as a singer's singer and why not, she has the voice, personality, love and much kindness to go with it all.

It was in the late forties when she started on the road to success and now, after 30 years, one sunnce, and Wesley Gene weighed five pounds, 14 ounces.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Tarter, Moorefield. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs Paul Newman, Alexandria.

Youth to help elderly

Youth from low-income families in Nicholas, Bourbon and Harrison counties will provide minor maintenance and perform repair work this summer at homes of low-income elderly and handicapped persons.

The work will be performed under an $8,613 contract between the Cabinet for Human Resources and Community Action of Lexington-Fayette County, Lexington.

Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams said the program "will provide summer jobs for low-income youth and, at the same time, help our elderly and handicapped who are trying to live independently in their own homes."

There will be three jobs available for youth aged 16 to 21. The trainees will be supervised by a senior citizen skilled in weatherization and home repair.

The program is part of Project Repair, a $376,000 CETA-funded program administered through the Department for Manpower Services.

Manpower Services Commissioner Robert E. Spuiman said the work crews will perform heavy house-cleaning chores and make minor repairs to homes of eligible persons.

"They also may make minor home adaptations. This includes additions to or modifications of the home to help ensure safety or aid in an elderly or handicapped person's mobility," he said.

He noted that "a number of elderly and handicapped people live alone and may live on a fixed income. Generally, they lack the money, skills or physical strength to perform regular and necessary home maintenance. In many instances it is the performance of chores and repairs which could make the difference between a safe home and an unsafe one."

More information about the program can be obtained by contacting the Community Action Office, phone 289-7172, or the local Department for Manpower Services office, 289-7122.
