

Meadow Fresh milk banned in Kentucky

Milk being offered for sale in Kentucky under the Meadow Fresh label is being sold against state regulations, and Cabinet for Human Resources officials are requesting the public's help in taking action against the seller.

Health officials report that Meadow Fresh, Inc., 11 Salt Lake City, Utah, has accumulated a number of individual, confidential and anonymous letters to sell them "filled milk" on a contract basis. Filled milk products are those from which the milk fat has been removed and replaced with vegetable fat or oil. The resulting milk, cream, skimmed milk, low cream milk or frozen desserts, says Leon Townsend of the cabinet's Department for Health Services, are imitations and do not meet the state's standards of identity for milk and milk products.

"According to the Louisville Dietetic Association, Meadow Fresh products contain less than half the protein and calcium than whole milk does," Townsend said. "In addition, they contain no iron, which is highly abundant in the higher cholesterol levels and is desirable in the diet than some other fats."

Townsend, manager of the state's Milk Control Board, said the office has tried to prohibit sales by the company since several months ago. In 1982 the Agriculture Extension Department issued a restraining order that prevented Meadow Fresh from selling. While the order was in effect, Meadow Fresh continued to sell its products to individuals, nursing homes, day care centers and other facilities. The products have not been offered for sale in retail stores.

Each county has a health officer. County Circuit Court rules that enforcement of KRS 212.100 is the responsibility of the health officer. The county health officer is to notify their clients that Meadow Fresh products would no longer be available in Kentucky.

Townsend requests that anyone addressed by Meadow Fresh representatives for sales purposes be notified by phone, 502-664-2340.

NEW JUVENILE PROGRAM EXPLAINED AT MEETING

A new juvenile justice program in Nicholas and other adjacent counties was explained by Charles Bailey of the Juvenile Court at their meeting Thursday, March 24, in the old L&N Depot.

Mr. Bailey explained that this new program is a pilot program called Gateway Juvenile Diversion Project, based in Mt. Sterling at 509 Spruill Place, 406-9897.

Juvenile offenders who commit misdemeanor status offenses, such as truancy, runaway, etc., and certain other offenses which do not threaten the safety of the juvenile or others are many times locked up with hardened criminals. Mr. Bailey pointed out.

Working through the district court judge, in the case Judge Jack Arnold, qualified cases can be detained and supervised temporarily in a non-locked facility, until they are ready to be placed in their home supervision, placed in short term residential treatment, placed in secure detention or placed in a regional group care.

Wake up gardeners! It's that time of year again

With warm weather coming on, gardeners are busy planting their crops. One that is like cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower and cauliflower is the cauliflower. Members of the cabbage family are some of the toughest vegetables to grow. The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture Extension horticulturist in Nicholas County.

Cabbage grows fairly well even with some shade, but broccoli and especially cauliflower demand uniform growth for best production, explains Townsend. She offers some tips on growing those crops. She says to plant cauliflower, brocoli and cauliflower in the garden. She says to plant cauliflower, brocoli and cauliflower in the garden.

When temperatures will lower broccoli heads or by causing the plants to bolt. Look for early maturing varieties usually will mature before hot weather arrives. Cauliflower is by far the most demanding crop to grow. These plants need uninterrupted growth throughout their short lives to produce the large white heads that are seen in the market.

Uninterrupted growth requires temperatures that are neither too hot nor too cold and uniform supplies of nutrients and moisture. Soil pressure breaks, often called bottom, occur when plants experience a fall change from warm to cool temperatures or when temperatures fall below 50 degrees F also can prevent good head formation. Drought conditions during transplant production, low nitrogen supplies, drought and transplants that are too old are other considerations to avoid.

Of course, you can't control the weather, but you can fertilize adequately, mulch deeply, and provide protection to plants on hot nights. Make sure the transplants you buy or grow are healthy. Planting, if necessary, crop bolts or bolters, try again with a fall crop. Temperatures usually are more consistently cool in the fall.
