Congressman Perkins endorses Stumbo

The dean of Kentucky's Congressmen, Carl Perkins, announced his endorsement of Grady Stumbo's candidacy for governor in a morning news conference Friday at Ashland. "It is a great pleasure for me to endorse Grady Stumbo because I know him and I trust him, and I'll cast my ballot for him on the 24th of May and request that all of my friends throughout the state likewise cast their ballot for Grady Stumbo," Congressman Perkins said.

Gov. Brown endorses Grady Stumbo Monday

Governor John Y. Brown endorsed Grady Stumbo's bid for the Democratic nomination Monday, saying he could no longer stand by and watch his state not have the 1979 best.

George Atkins has been working for Kentucky ever since he stepped on the basketball court at Memorial Coliseum in 1959. The work ethic and team concept he learned from Adolph Rupp has stayed with George through his years in Public Service. As the 22-year-old Mayor of Hopkinsville, George paved the way for that city's growth by planning and building industrial centers as well as providing for downtown revitalization.

When George became Secretary of Finance he followed through on those and other recommendations making sure they were implemented. Even though faced with a billion dollar revenue shortfall he balanced the state budget and kept funding levels up in areas of education and human services in eight money times. He made sure local governments had dollars to operate the programs handed them by the state through his severance tax revenue sharing program.

George is now a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in the May 24th Democratic Primary and he's working just as hard in that endeavor.

leftovers, which he would accept with every evidence of gratitude that he did not mind and trusted body could not be so easily deceived. Jack had finished eating before he went to the lamp and as he went to the lamp I don't want to sound unduly mawkish about this, but I have to say that there were a great many nice warm thoughts from Aunt Malah's love than Mr. Peck's was. It just seems to me that that little house on Jordan was the only refuge this earth offered for Jack Morgan, and he knew it. Jack had struggled across the dark and frosty hills to reach that door. It seems to me that sets Peck and Mary Enzer Finch somewhat before my time but within Mr. Peck's memory. I considered writing a fictitious name just to be certain that no stray relative would be annoyed by my letter, but Hick Tully by any other name is not the same, and, anyway, I think I'd be kind of proud to have such a colorful figure among my ancestors.

Dale Emmons... A New Leader

Today, people expect more of public servants and they should. Dale Emmons has six years of management experience in state government, as a local government advisor in the Department of Finance, as an Executive Assistant to a Governor and as the Executive Assistant to the Auditor of Public Accounts. Dale Emmons' experience and the principles that Dale learned growing up in a christian home in Fleming County have taught him the difference between right and wrong! Dale's opponent doesn't see anything wrong with employing his wife and his children on his staff. Do you think it is right for an elected official and his immediate family to annually receive more than $100,000 in salaries and benefits from the taxpayers of Kentucky? Is it right for an elected public official to give his wife a 30, 1% pay increase over the last two years? Drexell Davis did just that; $6,168.00 of your tax money. Well, to him it may not be wrong! But, to Dale Emmons, it is! If you agree, vote for Dale Emmons of Lexington. He'll do what's right!

Art contest deadline is here

U.S. Rep. Larry J. Hopkins, R-Ky., announced he is sponsoring the second Artistic Discovery art contest, an aspect of a nationwide art competition. The winning entry will be hung in the Capitol.

The local contest is being conducted through each district art department. The theme, "Reflections of Kentucky," will give high school students a chance to display their creativity and, at the same time, portray their lives in Kentucky.

"Last year the first Artistic Discovery contest," Hopkins said, "not every member of the House of Representatives participated but, after that year, we will give high school students a chance to display their creativity and, at the same time, portray their lives in Kentucky."

The deadline is approaching, since a winner will be named by the congressman May 21. All entries will be displayed in the University of Kentucky Center for the Arts Reception Gallery, from May 20 through June 11. Then, the top entry will be sent to the U.S. Capitol for approximately six weeks.

Basic guidelines are: (1) High school students only; (2) Two dimensional artwork, no larger than 20" x 30" and unframed and hangable; (3) Categories are painting, drawings, including watercolor, and sculpture.
