McConnell talks on Missing Child Issue

County Judge/Executive Mitch McConnell, chairman of the Kentucky Task Force on Exploited and Missing Children, was interviewed recently by NBC Nightly News on the role of the Task Force in combatting child exploitation in Kentucky.

The interview by NBC marks the third time this year that national news networks have focused on what Kentucky is doing to fight child exploitation. The previous interviews were by CBS and Cable News Network.

Judge McConnell made the point in the interview that "this crime against children is just as much a small town problem as a big city one. The Task Force has received reports of exploitation from virtually every county in Kentucky."

McConnell indicated that awareness of the problem has been enhanced throughout Kentucky as the Task Force has initiated finger-printing programs for school children in over 100 counties.

SSI offers help to blind and disabled

SSI is a Federal program that provides a basic cash income to people 65 or over or blind or disabled who do not own much in the way of personal or real property. Although SSI is administered by Social Security, all payments are made with funds from the general Treasury revenues, not Social Security taxes.

There is no age limit for SSI payments to people who are disabled or blind. Young children can qualify as well as people who are beyond 65.

For a child under 18 to be eligible, he or she must have an impairment comparable in severity to one which would prevent an adult from working for a year or more. Blindness is defined as central visual acuity of 20/200 or less in the better eye with glasses or restriction of the visual field to 20 degrees or less.

Governor's scholars reunite

Friday, Oct. 7, is Governor's Scholars Day on the University of Kentucky Lexington campus.

The 240 Kentucky high school students who participated in the five-week Governor's Scholars Program (July 3-Aug. 5) at Centre College, their parents and their faculty have been invited to the UK campus for a day of discussion and reunion. James K. Lyons, Nicholas County, was one of the participants in the program.

In the afternoon, students and parents will tour various UK programs and facilities including the Chandler Medical Center, the UK College of Engineering, the King Library, the UK School of Journalism, the Center for the Arts, the University Art Museum, the College of Law, the Computing Center, Seaton Center (health, recreation and physical education), the biology facility and other places on campus.

Edward Prichard, attorney and chairman of the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, will address the group on "Education and Kentucky's Future." Prichard's talk will set the theme for the day-long seminar with time allowed for small group discussions between students and faculty.

Dr. Donald E. Sands, UK associate chancellor for academic affairs, is the program coordinator.

Other speakers throughout the day include Dr. Art Gallaher, chancellor of the UK Lexington campus, who will discuss "Learning as a Way of Life," and Dr. Raymond Betts, director of the UK Honors Program, whose topic is "Playing with Ideas."

The Governor's Scholars Program offered outstanding Kentucky high school students the opportunity to attend a residential summer program which encouraged development of creative ideas and talents.

The students were taught by a faculty selected from Kentucky's high schools and colleges. In addition, Kentucky and national leaders also came to the sessions for various discussions.
