CLAY WILDLIFE MANAGER CONSIDERING SWITCH TO WARM SEASON GRASSES

by Curtis Rosser
District Conservationist

What are warm season grasses? Where do they come from? What are they good for? Are they adaptable to this area? These may be a few of the questions asked when speaking of warm season grasses.

Warm season grasses are what the name implies. The greatest growth period is during mid summer or the hot part of the year. They are vegetatively active when cool season grasses are in their summer slump. By having this characteristic many can supplement their grazing period.

Some of the warm season grasses are native to this area. Most have been crowded out by plant competition or overgrazing. Still we see some that we may not even recognize as being warm season grasses. Broomsedge and johnsongrass are two that are common in this area. Broomsedge, by not having much value, is of little concern to many people. Johnsongrass has become so much of a problem in our cropland fields that most people don't even want the name mentioned.

Like its counterpart, warm season grasses can be used in a number of ways. Stabilization, grazing, and wildlife purposes are the many features of warm season grasses. Some of the other common grasses are switchgrass, big bluestem, caucasian bluestem and bermudagrass.

RECYCLE LEAVES AS MULCH FOR 'N GARDEN ENRICHMENT

With all the energy many people put into raking tree leaves in the fall, shouldn't they receive some benefit beyond a neater landscape and some good exercise? Why increase the load for the trash collector and the sale of shiny plastic trash bags when the trees and other plants can benefit from recycling leaves?

Tree leaves can be reused in the landscape either directly as mulch or indirectly by mixing them into the compost pile for future garden enrichment. Any tree leaves can be used although their rate of decomposition will vary due to leaf size and cellular makeup. Large leaves should be shredded to speed decomposition or prevent matting and watershed if used as a mulch.

Tree leaf mulch can be applied once the ground gets cold this month to provide winter protection and moisture retention for landscape and fruit trees, shrubs, ground covers, roses, perennials, hardy herbs, spring bulbs and asparagus. At the same time many of these plants will benefit from fall fertilization. About the only plants we don't mulch are lawn grasses which can be damaged if leaves are left covering them for extended periods of time.

Tree leaves can be used in combination with other plant and home and yard waste such as grass clippings, pesky weeds, pest-free tomato plants and cucumber vines, spent marigolds and petunias and peeling from last night's French fried potatoes to build compost piles. Even shredded black and white newspaper can be used.

Use soil is composte

The breakdown of compost materials is not an instantaneous process. Soil microorganisms feeding on the materials and releasing heat initiate the decomposition. In order to introduce these microorganisms layers of plant material should be covered with an inch or more of soil in alternating fashion. An alternative method is to introduce the microorganisms via a commercial compost activator mixture of bacteria and fungi available at garden centers and nurseries.

The microorganisms should be given some initial nourishment in the form of fresh grass clippings or a nitrogen fertilizer (ammonium sulfate or nitrate). Most must have air and moisture to support their biological functions.

When rain fails to keep the pile moist, it should be watered. For uniform decomposition, the pile should occasionally be turned over to place heated, decomposed center material to the outside and to aerate the pile. Perforated pipe can also be placed vertically in the center of the pile to increase aeration.

Many people build enclosures to hold their compost, ranging from chicken wire cages and cinderblock bins to series of wooden boxes that hold various stages of decomposed materials. There are several types of composting containers on the market ranging from barrels with hinged doors to felled plastic bags said to produce rich, mellow compost in less than two weeks.

Start a collection area

Open piles of compost should have a volume of nine or more cubic feet (obtained with a pile three by three by three feet) in order to get adequate heat buildup and retention. Some cities have leaf collection areas where leaf mold compost is prepared in large piles for future reclamation by citizens. Consider starting such a project in your town to help both with leaf collection and removal and with garden soil improvement.

Not only is compost good for garden soils due to improved texture, moisture retention, drainage and nutrient availability, but it also can be mixed with pesticides and perlite or vermiculite to produce a good house plant potting mixture. Compost is handy when you no longer see specific leaves and plant parts but have a material with a soil-like consistency.

Timely Tip: To help clean and protect garden tools, clean them with a wire of a mixture of sand and used motor oil.

IRS: PAY FIRST FOR INCOME TAX RETURN PHOTOCOPIES

Taxpayers requesting photocopies of their income tax returns are now required to pay for the copies in advance, the Internal Revenue Service said. This new requirement became effective Oct. 1, 1983.

The IRS said that the charge for a photocopy of a tax return is $5 and the charge for a transcript of tax account information is $2.50.

To make these requests, taxpayers should complete Form 4506, Request for Copy of Tax Form (or Certain Portions of Tax Account Information), and mail it to the address shown on the form. The form has been revised to include instructions for the above requests and the fee amounts to be charged.

The change was made, the IRS explained, in order to eliminate the administrative costs involved in billing taxpayers who ask for copies of returns. Requiring payment in advance will ensure that the total cost of securing and furnishing photocopies or tax account information will be paid by those individuals who request information.

If you have questions about the new procedure you may call IRS toll free at 1-800-424-1040. Forms 4506 may be ordered by writing the IRS Forms Distribution Center at P.O. Box 636, Florence, KY 41042.

SEN. BUNNING PREFILES PRE-EMPTIVE GUN BILL

Sen. Jim Bunning has prefiled a bill with the Legislative Research Commission for action during the 1984 session of the General Assembly. In line with the Republican gubernatorial candidate's anti gun control position, this bill would preempt local governments from controlling and regulating the sale, possession, manufacture, carrying or use of firearms and related items.

According to Sen. Bunning: "The right to bear arms is guaranteed in the United States Constitution, as well as the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. No city or county should be able to enact legislation which infringes upon that individual right. It's the law-abiding citizen who is hurt by restrictive gun legislation," Bunning said. "Criminals don't bother to apply for licenses."

Collins skimmers to identify Nicholas Countians at rally

Nicholas Countians, wearing Martha Layne Collins hats, will participate in the Sixth District Democratic rally Sunday, Oct. 30, at the Red Mile in Lexington from 3-6 p.m.

Anyone planning to attend from Nicholas County is asked to pick up a Martha Layne Collins hat and a Nicholas County tie from Joan Conley at the courthouse any time this week. They are being furnished, free of charge, by the local Collins for Governor Committee.

Everything is free at the rally — hot dogs, Cokes, popcorn and the county entertainment booths. Other free entertainment will be provided by Goldilocks and the Deep South Cloggers.

Nicholas County is sponsoring a clown booth at the rally.

Persons attending the rally are asked to dress casually in red, white or blue or any combination of these colors.

Mrs. Collins and the entire Democratic slate will be there during the afternoon.

Counties in addition to Nicholas in the Sixth District are Anderson, Bourbon, Boyle, Bracken, Clark, Fayette, Franklin, Harrison, Madison, Mercer, Montgomery, Robertson, Scott, Shelby and Woodford.

Kentucky Afield

Hunt safely this season

A part of the tradegy of a hunting accident is that, except in very rare cases, it should not have happened at all.

There is almost no such thing as a truly unavoidable hunting or firearm accident. Practically every accident is the result of someone ignoring one of the basic rules of firearm safety.

With most hunting seasons about to open, now is a good time to review some of these basic rules. So take the few minutes it will require to read and remember these ten commandments of gun safety — it might save a life this season.

* Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the first rule of gun safety.
* Guns carried into camp or home, or when otherwise not in use, must always be unloaded, and taken down or have actions open; guns are always should be carried in cases to the shooting area.
* Always be sure barrel and action are clear of obstructions, and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the gun you are carrying. Remove oil and grease from chamber before firing.
* Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble; keep the safety on until you are ready to shoot.
* Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger; know the identifying features of the game you intend to hunt.
* Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot; avoid all horseplay while handling a gun.
* Unattended guns should be unloaded; guns and ammunition should be stored separately beyond reach of children and careless adults.
* Never climb a tree or fence or jump a ditch with a loaded gun; never pull a gun toward you by the muzzle.
* Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water; when at target practice, be sure your backstop is adequate.
* Avoid alcoholic drinks before or during shooting.

If you'd like, or know a beginning hunter who needs more formal instruction in hunter safety, there might well be a hunter education course in your vicinity this fall. These 10-hour courses, sponsored by the Division of Conservation Education of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, are free and lead to certification as a safe hunter. This certification is necessary to hunt in some states and on some federal installations in Kentucky.

To learn the dates and locations of a class near you, contact your local conservation officer or call 503-564-4336.

KENTUCKY'S HISTORIC NEWSPAPERS RICH SOURCE OF INFORMATION

On Saturday, Nov. 12, the Historical Society of Kentucky will hold its third central regional meeting, "All the News that's Fit to Research: Kentucky's Historic Newspapers."

Kentucky's historic 18th and 19th century newspapers are a rich source of information on local history and genealogy. "Kentucky's Historic Newspapers" will promote the use and interpretation of this resource.

The 9 a.m. meeting will be held at the Department for Human Resources Auditorium, 275 East Main Street, Frankfort, and is open to all Kentuckians.

Featured speakers on the program are Dr. Frank Levstik, Periodicals, M.I. King Library, University of Kentucky; Dr. Stuart Sprague, History Department, Morehead State University; Michael Sherrick, Associate Director, Kenton County Public Library, and Jasmin Wills, former editor and publisher of The McLean County News. Those attending will be learning about the many types of information found in historic newspapers, where to locate this material, how to interpret the information once located, and how to organize and index historic newspapers.

'THE CHEMICAL PEOPLE' TO AIR NOV. 7 AND 9

A two-part television series, "The Chemical People," will kick off a nationwide action campaign to combat school-age drug and alcohol abuse on Nov. 7 and Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. on KET. The two-part program will be hosted by First Lady Nancy Reagan, and co-hosted by Bill Bixby, Bruce Weitz, Rita Moreno, Michael Landon and baseball player Willie Stargell.

The first part, entitled "The Chemical Society," presents an overview of the widespread use of drugs and alcohol by young people. "Community Answers," the second portion of the national program, shows communities and groups of men and women setting up task forces which obtain information about treatment centers and prevention intervention.

KET, with the cooperation of Kentucky War on Drugs, Inc., has produced and will air two programs to precede the national shows. "The Chemical People: Kentucky Answers," to be aired at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 7 and Nov. 9, interviews young people and their parents and will try to provide answers at the local level.

Winter warmth for low incomers

The Cabinet for Human Resources' plan for helping low-income Kentuckians keep warm this winter calls for spending most of the anticipated $27 million Home Energy Assistance block grant to pay individual home heating bills. "We worked with a task force of consumers, energy providers, representatives of the Public Service Commission and Community Action Agencies to develop this year's plan," said Secretary Buddy Adams.

Adams said 17,000 of the homes receiving assistance will have complete energy audits this year. "Some of the homes are so poorly insulated and drafty it's like trying to heat the outdoors.

The elderly and disabled may apply for HEAP assistance beginning Dec. 5 through Dec. 16, one month earlier this year than last year. "The earlier schedule will allow the elderly and disabled to get out and apply for fuel assistance before to very severe weather sets in," said Social Insurance Commissioner John Oshbne. Forty percent of the HEAP funds are reserved for this group.

The remaining 60 percent of the HEAP funds will go to other eligible households who are in a crisis situation regarding home heating. Applications from this group will be accepted beginning Jan. 16 and continue until the funds are exhausted.

To receive HEAP assistance, a household must not have more than $5,000 in liquid resources. The maximum monthly income a household seeking HEAP assistance can have is $500 for a one-person household, $600 for a two-person household, $700 for a three-person household and $800 for a household of four or more persons.

SAVE $14.00 OUT OF EVERY $50
By Shopping in Carlisle

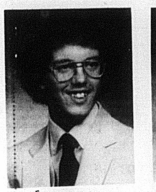
Did you ever drive 60 miles or more to take advantage of a super special? An item that costs you $50 locally would have to save you $14.40 if you drove 60 miles round-trip to get it and just wanted to break even.

The American Automobile Association certifies that 24.0 cents is what it costs to drive your car one mile. So if you've driven 120 miles round-trip to pick up that special, you'll have to add $28.80 to the cost of your purchase. That sweet buy can suddenly turn quite sour.

And each 120 miles takes 6 to 12 gallons of gasoline which the potential shortage of oil-derived fuels would encourage us to save.

Local merchants, whether they sell groceries, clothing, drugs, hardware, appliances or whatever, feature top line nationally advertised products at competitive prices. These same merchants support your schools, churches and civic groups. They help us all pay for the improvements that make this a better place to live.

So save yourself some money, help fight the energy crisis and support local merchants. And save the drive to faraway communities. Shopping at home is a wonderfully simple way to do yourself several favors at once.



MARK ALLEN LYNAM

CATHY FAY LYNAM

Sister and brother join the Army

Cathy Fay and Mark Allen Lynam, children of Mrs. John Ecton of Carlisle, have joined the U.S. Army and Army Reserve.

Cathy Fay joined the Army Reserve and elected to receive technical training as a Personnel Administration Specialist. She will receive her basic training at Ft. Jackson, SC, and technical training at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, IN. Cathy will then perform her duties as a Personnel Administration Specialist with Co. B, 2d Bn, 400th Regt, 3d Bde, 100th Division in Flemingsburg.

Mark Allen will receive training as a Cannon Crewman. By selecting this Army career field, he will receive the $8,000 cash enlistment bonus and his choice of assignment. He also received the Army College Fund of $20,100 to go to college after his tour of duty. Mark will train at Ft. Sill, OK, and will then be stationed at Ft. Ord, CA.

For more information about today's Army and Army Reserve, contact SFC Billings or SFC Wooten at their office at 722 Main Street, Paris, or call 987-6812.

Nicholas Girl Scouts honored at annual meeting

Nicholas County Girl Scouts were among those honored at the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council's 20th annual meeting in Lexington Oct. 13.

The Nicholas County service unit, composed of all the troops in the county, received an award for 100 percent participation in contributing to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. This fund provides money for international Girl Scout exchange programs, and helps to establish Girl Scout organizations in developing countries.

More than 220 Girl Scout members and friends attended the meeting. The program included the presentation of awards, the election of officers and board members, and a slide show by Girl Scouts who traveled to the Girl Scout National Center West in Wyoming last summer.

The Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council serves 55 counties in eastern and central Kentucky, and one county each in Ohio and Tennessee.

UK LOOKING FOR WEEKEND SINGERS

Sara Holroyd, professor of music at the University of Kentucky, is looking for people who love to sing — professionally, avocationally, or choirally.

Holroyd and the University Choristers are sponsoring "Open-Sing Weekends" which involve a Saturday of rehearsals and a supper and a Sunday of rehearsals (in the afternoon) and a concert that night.

The first Open-Sing Weekend is scheduled Nov. 12 and 13. The weekend opens at 1:30 p.m. Saturday with registration in the C.F.A. Lobby of Lancaman Baptist Church on Tates Creek Pike in Lexington. Rehearsals are set for 2:30 p.m. and 7:0 p.m. with supper at 5 p.m.

On Sunday, rehearsal will instruments and soloists is from 1:30-3 p.m. and a concert at 5 p.m. in the Concert Hall of the School of the Arts. A $6 registration fee includes Saturday night supper.

The November concert will include two works — Handel's "O Praise the Lord with One Concent," and Britten's "Te Deum in C."

Other Open-Sing Weekends are scheduled March 3-4, with the chorus performing Mozart's "Requiem," and April 14-15 with a fourth chorus performing Brahms' "Requiem."

For additional information contact Sara Holroyd at 606-257-1838 or 257-4900.

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Lexington, Ky.—A free offer of special interest to those who have trouble hearing has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 004, Beltone Hearing Aid Service, 120 S. Pin Oak Drive, Lexington, Ky. 40503.
