GRAND JURY REPORT

"We, the Grand Jury, duly empaneled for the period beginning May 1983 of the Nicholas Circuit Court do hereby make our final report as follows:

"We have made careful investigation into all violations of the penal laws of this state in this jurisdiction to date of which we have any knowledge or have received information, and have returned indictments in all cases in which the evidence in our opinion justified trial by petit jury. We have been in session six days, have returned nine indictments, and have failed to return indictments on no other charges referred to us for investigation.

"We recommend that the cases of Commonwealth of Kentucky versus Wilbur Riddle and Commonwealth of Kentucky versus James Mitchell and Eugene Mitchell be referred to Trooper John Hall for investigation."

The report was signed by Douglas Garrett, foreman.

Members of the grand jury met at 9 a.m. Friday, Aug. 19, at the courthouse for the purpose of inspecting the following public property and submit their findings as follows:

(1) Nicholas County Jail. The Grand Jury feels this facility could be renovated to meet both federal and state requirements for a 12-hour holdover jail. We also would like to see the Carlisle Police Department moved into this building.

(2) Nicholas County Rock Quarry. The rock quarry is completely satisfactory. It is an asset to Nicholas County to be able to buy lime and rock here in our own community.

(3) Johnson Mathers Health Care. We were very impressed with the condition of the Health Care Center. It was very clean in every area. The county should be very proud of our hospital. The facility is very up-to-date in every area.

(4) Nicholas County Schools. New thermal windows and air conditioning have been installed at the high school. The Nicholas County Schools are very up-to-date. The rooms have been painted. New computers are to be used this school year. The high school and elementary school have both been remodeled. New carpet will be installed at a later date.

(5) Nicholas County Courthouse. The ladies private rest room needs painting and to be kept clean. The courthouse needs to be kept cleaner especially the downstairs hallway. The public ladies rest room is being remodeled and new fixtures are being installed and will really be nice when finished. The leak in the front entrance of the courthouse needs to be repaired.

The Grand Jury was very impressed with the tours of all the above buildings. The officials gave us a good tour of all facilities. The officials would like for the public to visit the buildings and see how they operate. Mr. Elder of the Nicholas County Schools request that the Grand Jury inspect the school buildings at any time.

We commend the administrators of each building inspected for their courtesy and cooperation they showed us during this Grand Jury inspection.

Recommendations: The county should assume more responsibility in keeping the areas around the dumpsters clean; there should be more local involvement and less outside involvement in the Blackberry Festival; road signs need to be replaced on all county roads where they have been destroyed; a special thanks to the magistrates for getting the ladies rest room in the basement of the Courthouse remodeled and new fixtures installed.

Welcoming Sally Ride to Kentucky

Lt. Governor Martha Layne Collins officially welcomed astronaut Sally Ride to Kentucky during her recent visit to Lexington. Collins presented Ride, the nation's first woman in space, with a proclamation declaring August 25 as "Sally Ride Day in Kentucky." On behalf of the space program, Ride presented Collins with several mementoes of the Challenger mission, including a Kentucky state flag that had been aboard the flight. Collins said the mementoes would be placed on exhibit at the Capitol in Frankfort. — Photo submitted

Cooksey on top again—

P.J. (Patricia) Cooksey tops all jockeys in races won at the current meeting at Ellis Park, Henderson, Ky.

So what else is new?

She leads in mounts with 186 and winners with 34 as that meeting winds to a September 5 finish.

But it wasn't always the top for Cooksey. As a matter of fact she started quite the reverse.

"I started at the bottom — where else?" said the 25-year-old native of Youngstown, Ohio, who plans to ride opening night at Latonia, Sept. 8.

"My father trained horses in Youngstown," she said, "and I was always fascinated by horses."

Six years ago, her fascination took her to Waterford Park, (W.Va.) to rub horses following their daily workouts. She was receiving $20 a week for her efforts.

"Make that $64.98 after withholding," she said.

"But," she added, "it was the thrill of being around the racetrack that attracted me in the first place."

Her salary rose to $125 per week with her promotion to barn foreman.

In 1979 she obtained her jockey's license and placed first in her second race.

"That's when I knew this would be my profession," she said.

But little did she know she would top her profession in just a few years.

Through last week P.J. led the nation female riders in both money won ($714,296) and races won (151).

Her 76 winners last spring at Latonia topped the previous 24-year-old record of 60. Her 528 mounts during the 83-day meeting was also a record. She led all Latonia jockeys in seconds (84) and thirds (69).

"Probably my biggest thrill was winning my 600th career race at Latonia," she said.

That event took place March 2 at the Northern Kentucky oval when Auctioneer, a longshot, won the 10th race of the evening and paid $93.

"But," she adds, "don't forget Japan."

Cooksey won the Ladies Cup in 1981 — an international contest for female riders in Japan.

"That was a great year for me," she recalls. "Not only did I win the Cup, but I won 197 races and led all females in the nation."

She also led the nation's females in winners in 1980.

What's next for Cooksey?

Another trip to Japan for the riding championship at Tokyo this fall, she said, and then after the meeting (Oct. 6) go back to Japan."

And, as always, Ms. Cooksey will return on top.

ONE-HALF MILLION POUNDS BURLEY SOLD FROM '82 CROP LOAN STOCKS

by Bennett Roach

The impact of the worsening drought, plus a gloomy crop estimate by the U.S., appear to have sparked immediate interest in leaf stocks held under loan by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association.

For the first time in many months the burley coop recorded a sale, this one amounting to approximately a half-million pounds.

Alvin R. Beckley, executive secretary-treasurer of the Association, said it was the first sale of loan tobacco from the 1982 crop, from which the coop took 189,400,784 pounds.

A continued pickup in inquiries from manufacturers and dealers is being noted at the Association's warehousers in Lexington, and additional sales are expected.

The next USDA crop estimate is scheduled for about Sept. 10.

Prior to this week's sale the Association had an inventory of 169,766,652 pounds of loan stocks, nearly all of it from the 1982 crop. It is the largest amount of loan stocks in the Association's hands since the early 1970's.

Last week's USDA crop estimate, first of the season to be issued by the Crop Reporting Board, predicted a 1983 crop of 559 million pounds for the entire belt, down about 31 percent from last year's record production of 810 million pounds.

For the five-state area in which the price support program is administered by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, the figures are: (1983 estimates listed first, 1982 gross sales second,) Kentucky — 360,750,000 pounds, $73,407,819 pounds; Indiana — 14,500,000 pounds, 17,561,932 pounds; Ohio — 19,950,000 pounds, 28,350,000 pounds; West Virginia — 3,800,000 pounds, 5,966,729 pounds.

On the southern flue-cured markets the second week of sales brought some price improvement as better quality leaf appeared, but grade prices were unchanged. Eastern North Carolina belt averaged $156.51, with 41 percent taken under loan. The Border Belt was selling at $157 average, with 27 percent going to the pool, while Old and Middle Belt North Carolina averaged $146.40, sending 27 percent under loan.

ESTIMATED TAX PAYMENT DUE SOON, IRS SAYS

The third installment of 1983 estimated Federal income tax payments by individuals other than farmers and fishermen is due Sept. 15, 1983, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Generally, taxpayers who have estimated tax of $300 or more and estimated gross income of more than $500 that is not subject to withholding must file a Form 1040-ES, "Estimated Tax for Individuals," the IRS said.

The Form 1040-ES package, containing instructions, a tax worksheet and four payment-vouchers, has been sent to those taxpayers who filed estimated tax last year. For those individuals who did not receive their estimated tax forms, they are available at most local IRS offices or by calling the IRS toll free at 1-800-424-1040.

The IRS also has a free reference publication, #606, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax," which provides information about paying estimated tax. The publication and tax forms may be ordered by writing the IRS Forms Distribution Center, P.O. Box 636, Florence, Ky. 41042.

Economic upturn more dramatic than forecast

A consumer "spending spree" is primarily responsible for the economic turnaround which has been more dramatic than forecast, according to an agricultural economist at the University of Kentucky.

There are a lot of reasons for the above-target economic growth rate of nine percent in the second quarter, says Dr. Larry Jones. "But the primary reason for this recovery is that consumers literally are going on a spending spree."

Jones, an Extension specialist in market decision-making, said that during this "traditional economic recovery" consumers are buying durable goods, such as cars and appliances, for which there is a lot of pent-up demand.

"Many consumers put off buying these items because they did not have the money," he said. "Now they have a little money in their pockets — from the July 1 tax cut and from other tax cuts — and they simply are going out and spending this money which creates economic activity and, somewhere down the road, more jobs."

Jones called this activity "good and bad."

It sounds good on the surface and is good for those looking for a job since there are more jobs available, with companies expanding and calling back laid-off workers, said the specialist.

"The bad news is, we are running higher risk of high inflation rates down the road and, consequently, higher interest rates," Jones said. "So, you have to balance this off — there are more jobs, but at the risk of higher inflation rates and higher interest rates."

The movement of interest rates is difficult to predict because there are so many variables that affect them, notes Jones. "There is the Federal Reserve on one side, the federal government on the other, and consumer spending has a big influence on interest rates," he said.

Jones expects to see slightly higher interest rates in the next few months. "They've already moved up, particularly the short term rates and some long term rates. These rates have increased 1-1½ percentage points in the past six months," he added.

The outlook right now is that interest rates, both long and short term, will move higher by the end of the year. But inflation does not mean a drop in interest rates.

"Short term rates at best will be in the 11 percent range by the end of the year. That is a prime commercial bank rate. The average consumer will find interest rates slightly higher than that," predicts Jones.

He does not expect interest rates to come down to the 10 percent mark anytime soon.

"Ten percent rates are pie in the sky," Jones said. To get 10 percent rates, three things would have to happen; the massive federal spending deficit would have to be narrowed significantly; the economy would have to stagnate or slow down — meaning fewer jobs; and there would have to be a lot of vigilance on the inflation front.

"All three of these things are not likely to happen right now, so we are not going to see much downward movement of interest rates," said Jones.
