Library Notes

RECENT additions to the bookshelves at the library are the following, just in time for National Library Week:

Jenny by Gordon Baxter. This love story is one between a young daughter and her old father. Gordon Baxter was 56 years old when Jenny was born and although he had loved long and knew much, he discovered a new world of tenderness and silliness, of fear and great joy.

Providence by Anita Brookner. Providence is an "intelligent and moving" (Franchine Prose) love story. The author's two previous novels, The Debut and Look At Me, have been highly acclaimed on both sides of the Atlantic.

The Unbearable Lightness of Being by Milan Kundera. Sardonic humor and erotic undertones run through this novel about two couples. It brings together story and drama, philosophy and poetry, and juxtaposes geographically different places.

The Aquitanian Progression by Robert Ludlum. The Parsifal Mosaic sold nearly 300,000 copies. In Robert Ludlum's latest thriller, he introduces a surprising twist: his hero is not a man of violence, but a high-powered international lawyer unexpectedly thrust into a plot to take over the world.

The Danger by Dick Francis. The author of Banker. creates a new spellbinder set around the world of horse racing. Andrew Douglas is Europe's most successful anti-kidnap, operative. His present mission is his most dangerous yet: to track down Guiseppe, the cold-blooded kidnapper some call Peter.

Floodgate by Alistair McLean. McLean's longest, strongest novel in years begins with a group of terrorists flooding Schiphol Airport in Holland. As the group holds the nation hostage, detective lieutenant Pert van Effen works to rescue the situation.

Foxfire 8 edited by Eliot Wigginton. Returning to the traditional Foxfire format, Foxfire 8 presents all new material on a wide variety of subjects, including sections on Southern folk pottery, black life in Southern Appalachias, and cockfighting. 463 black and white photographs.

Lord of the Dance by Andrew M. Greeley. The author of blockbuster Thy Brother's Wife and Ascent in Hell writes his fourth and perhaps greatest novel. Part mystery, part parable, this is the story of an Irish-American family enslaved to guilty secrets of its past, and a bewitching young girl who set them free.

The March of Folly (from Troy to Vietnam) by Barbara W. Tuchman. Barbara Tuchman's A Distant Mirror sold 265,000 copies in hardcover. Now she writes another historical work.

The March of Folly examines four distinct periods: Troy, the Renaissance, the American Revolution and Vietnam.

Not To Worry by Theodore Isaac Rubin, M.D. The author of One to One: Understanding Personal Relationships answers all the questions most commonly asked in everyday life. Topics include dealing with adolescents, sexual fantasies and aging.

One More Sunday by John D. MacDonald. At the edge of a sleepy Southern town lies Meadows Center, a blooming complex and home of the Eternal Church of the Believer. Matthew Meadows, head of this empire, is slowly, secretly dying, and around him sinners and believers swarm.

Knock Wood by Candice Bergen. Candice Bergen had a glamorous, easy childhood and early adulthood. Benefitting from her father's fame and her mother's great, beauty, in the end Bergen felt undeserving and false. Instead of accepting with no questions her rich gifts, Bergen found herself on independent terms.

1984 Best Recipes Yearbook. Following the success of last year's Yearbook, this volume contains all the best recipes that appeared in the Better Homes and Gardens magazine from January through December 1983, including Make It Pasta from January and Holiday Favorites from Country Inns from November.

Dreaming of Heroes by Susan Richards Shreve. Jamie Waters is a woman of great charisma and deep spirituality. She decided to be ordained as a priest in defiance of Episcopal cannons. A woman of the earth as well as the spirit, Jamie also has two great romantic passions.

Love, Infidelity and Drinking To Forget by Elizabeth Gundy. A New York City couple pack up their belongings and move to the backwoods of Atlantic Canada. The local charatters they meet there, the harshness of the wilderness and the child they have there all fill this story.

The River Why by David James Duncan. A young fly fisherman takes a journey to self discovery into the heart of American wilderness. This irresistable adventure story is filled with vivid imagery, humor and wisdom.

Shadows and Light by Francesca Stanfill. Allegra Clayton, a young, rich American girl, falls wildly in love with a mysterious worldly man named Alexander. Ignoring her friends' advice and her own instincts, Allegra marries Alexander and begins a nightmarish honeymoon.

When a Darkness Falls by Paul Zindel. The first adult novel by the author of the Pulitzer Prize winning The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds brings together three loves in Beverly Hills — a restless wife, a pressured husband and a detective on the trail of a murderer responsible for random, horrifying killings.

Brothers by Bernice Rubens. Through five generations of the Bindel family a Jewish family from Russia, the conflict of tradition and progress goes on. In each generation a set of brothers is born with the conflict, as the family moves from Russia to Wales to Germany and finally to Israel.

Devilweed by Frank Verby. Mirielle Daclos comes to the San Francisco of the 1850s as a very young woman. Her mother was a prostitute, and Mirielle follows in her footsteps. Eventually however she yearns for respectability and sets her cap for an older judge.

On Leaving Charleston by Alexandra Ripley. This sequel to Charleston continues the story of the passionate and powerful Tradd family. A double murder and secrets surrounding a wedding in 1900 comes back to haunt a new generation in the 1920s.

Jacintha, An Unholy Love Story by Kathleen Winsor. At the turn of the century, in a mountain lodge, two beautiful women, mother and daughter, find themselves trapped by love in the devil's net.

The Spy by Justin Scott. A Russian spy is sent to America after the bombing of Hiroshima to steal an explosive lens mold. The mission is dangerous but simple, until his American nemesis, and the woman they both love, enter the picture.

Life Is What Happens When You're Making Other Plans by Teresa Bloomingdale. The irresistible Mrs. Bloomingdale is back with her fourth book. The bouncy mother of 10 talks about juggling a career and home life.

Loving One Another by Alice Joyce Davidson. This established poet writes more poetry devoted to God and inspiring love, joy, hope and nostalgia.

The beautifully illustrated volume includes Scripture verses with each composition.

We would like to encourage the public to come in and take advantage of our periodicals. They can be checked out for two weeks, just like a book. The current issue goes out for only overnight.

We have the following magazines: Black Home in Kentucky, Better Homes and Gardens, Consumer Reports, Country Living, Cuisine, Decorating Craft Ideas, Early American, Hollie Beautiful, Ladies Home Journal, Money, National Geographic, Newsweek, People, Popular Computing, Redbook, Time, U.S. News, Vogue, and we also have The Carlisle Mercury.

PO warns public about COD scheme

Numerous complaints are being received nationwide concerning vacation packages being offered by various firms through use of COD services.

The Postal Inspection Service has reported initial contact with the public is made via the phone or postcard to notify the recipient that they have been selected by computer to receive "an exciting three-day, two-night vacation in one of 32 different major resort areas including Atlantic City, Mexico City, Canada or the all new Disney World Epcot Center."

They are promised first class accommodations for four and as a further enticement to accept the package, a coupon for a lifetime supply of Kodak color film and several hundred dollars of vacation discount books is offered. Recipients are asked to accept a COD package through the mail usually costing $39 to cover the expenses incurred in the processing and handling of the vacation package.

Upon receipt of their "free gifts" however, customers noted the packages did not include transportation, additional fees and surcharges were required, and the free film and vacation discount books were available only if additional payments were made for processing and handling.

Based on early inquiries about the travel offer, thousands of victims nationwide, are losing money to this scheme. With summer approaching, similar schemes may appear.

Consumers are asked to check the legitimacy of the advertisement and company before accepting a COD. The U.S. Postal Service allows customers to read and copy the name and address of the mailer from COD mail while the mail is in the possession of a postal employee. The addressee always has the option to refuse or accept delivery of a COD article.

If consumers believe a mailer is involved in blatant merchandise misrepresentation, they may refer the information to the Chief Postal Inspector, Washington, D.C. 20260.

Afraid you're Going Deaf?

Lexington — A free offer of special interest to those who have trouble hearing has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone hearing aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting one.

Send for this free model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. This model will show you how tiny and inconspicuous modern hearing help can be. While not everyone with a hearing loss can be helped with a hearing aid, many can be helped. And the actual aid weighs less than quarter of an ounce, even with the battery!

Again, these non-working models are free, so we suggest you ask for yours today. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Beltone Hearing Aid Service, Dept. 26-120 South Pin Oak Drive, Lexington, Ky. 40503.
