Bob Watkins' UK Sports Report

February 8 is the first day the NCAA allows college coaches to sign high school seniors to national letters of intent. An update then, from UK:

"The coaches are feeling real good about it right now," a spokesperson from the UK football offices said last week. "They have 11 seniors committed so far and, well, we probably have more good players wanting to come this time than we have scholarships available."

Ah, pardon me. Would you repeat that, please?

Kentucky football has a waiting list?

"The next two weekends are the most important of the year for us," UK assistant coach Jerry Eisaman said last week. "We're right in the middle of it now and those are the times when we have the prospects come in for their official visits. Right now we think things are going real good for us. Of course you never really know what's going to happen till they're signed."

Kentucky will sign 22 players, Eisaman said.

As usual a UK success story is linked to landing the best in-state prospects available.

"We feel we have to have (Joe) Curry and (Mark) Higgs," he said.

Joe Curry is a 6-4, 220-pound defensive "anything" (end, linebacker, wherever) from Madisonville High, and running back Mark Higgs is from Owensboro.

Curry is considering UCLA, Tennessee, UK and Miami, Florida. Reports are that Curry is receiving pressure to sign with UK, but the prize senior had a telephone call from Miami coach Howard Schnellenberger two days before the Orange Bowl and he will make an official visit to UCLA Jan. 27. Curry has said he will announce his decision Feb. 1.

In Owensboro Higgs is getting the "Uncle Coach wants you, son," treatment from a who's who list of college coaches.

Tennessee has joined Pittsburgh, Alabama and LSU in the chase after Higgs. Bill Armstarger (LSU's new coach) visited Higgs recently.

The Kentucky Kentucky Higgs made his official visit to UK last Sunday for the Houston-UK basketball game.

Best vs. the best

Charles Jones, Louisville's hard working, if understated center, should be a prime candidate for Metro Conference player of the year. Credentials for U of L's Muhammad Ali look-a-like? Jones has been more than equal to the task of going against the cream of the crop in college basketball in 1983-84.

Evidence...

— Melvin Turpin 6-11 and 7-1 Sam Bowie, Kentucky.

— Cozell McQueen 6-11 and 6-7 Lorenzo Charles of North Carolina State.

— Greg Stokes 6-10 and 6-11 Michael Payne of Iowa.

— Jon Koncak 7-0 SMU.

— Akeem Olajuwon, 7-0 Houston.

— Stuart Gray 7-0 UCLA.

— Bobby Beecher 6-9 Virginia Tech (twice).

Still to come...

— Keith Lee 6-10 of Memphis State (twice).

— Tyrone Corbin, 6-7 of DePaul.

And, that's just the regular season. Considering U of L's record of qualifying for the NCAA Tournament, chances look good that Jones will have a "rematch" with at least one or two of the forementioned before his name goes onto the NBA draft list in the spring.

Postscript. JJ Jagh.

Player of the Year he will be the fifth University of Louisville player to get the honor in nine years that the Cards have been in the Metro.

Previous winners have been — Rodney McCray (1983), Derek Smith (1981), Darrell Griffith (1980) and Rick Wilson (1978).

Jerry Jones bunch

Not many basketball fans were paying attention, but U of L assistant coach Jerry Jones was a prophet when, five weeks ago, he said, "The last chapter on Cedric Henderson hasn't been written yet. I don't think he'll ever play a game at Georgia."

Henderson, who reneged on a commitment to U of L and surprised everyone — including the NCAA — by signing with Georgia in November, has now apparently enrolled at Jefferson County High in Jefferson City, Tenn. and will play his college ball at Carson Newman College.

And Georgia isn't out of the woods with the NCAA investigation team either. Word from the peach state is that the NCAA has solid evidence on recruiting violations by members of Coach Hugh Durham's staff and that probation is imminent for the Bulldogs' basketball program.

Ironic footnote. Durham has now lost out two straight years on Georgia top three prep prospects and may wind up on probation as well. The other two cagers are UK sophomore Kenny Walker and UK signee 6-8 Cedric Jenkins.

Letters

Rick Roberts writes from Paintsville with some questions...

Question: Were two members of the (UK) Fabulous Five involved in point shaving? (Alex Groza and Ralph Beard)? Did Wah Wah Jones play on that team? A friend is trying to tell me different.

Answer: Yes. Groza and Beard were involved. And yes, Jones was a starter as a junior with Groza and Beard on the 1947-48 UK team that finished 36-3, won the national championship and an Olympic gold medal. Too, all three were starters on the 1948-49 team that finished 32-3 and won the national championship.

Question: Did UK get beat by at least 60 points by City College of New York in the NIT?

Answer: Wrong, but not by much. On March 14, 1950, CCNY beat Kentucky 89-50 in the NIT. Starters on that UK team were Bill Spivey, Bobby Watson, Dale Barnstable, Jim Line and Walt Hirsch.

Question: When UK beat Oklahoma in the 1951 Sugar Bowl they were not recognized as national champions by some people. Why?

Answer: Right. Bear Bryant's UK team beat the Sooners 13-7 in a monumental upset. But Oklahoma was named national champion. Prior to 1968 balloting for the national champion was done before bowl games.

Question: What colleges besides Ohio State and Michigan State have national championships in both football and basketball?

Answer: None. But Michigan has been close. The Wolverines won a national title in football in 1948 and finished runners-up in the NCAA in 1965 and 1976.

Anyone else?

Winning

Prompted by a telephone call from a fan in Greensburg last week and a postcard from Kelly Meredith of Leitchfield, I have another update this week on the unofficial Winningest Coaches in Kentucky's High School Basketball History list.

"What about Carl Deaton at Green County?" the caller wanted to know. Deaton is in his 24th season at Green County.

From Leitchfield, Meredith wrote, "You opened a can of worms with your list of high school coaching wins. How about Bo Davenport who went over 500 the year of his state championship (Edmonson County, 1976)?"

Today, a new leader on the unofficial list.

(1) Bowman Davenport 322 wins at Clarkson, Grayson County and Edmonson County.

(2) Marvin Meredith 479 wins (and counting) at Russell High.

(3) George Taylor 439 wins at Central City (1925-42).

(4) Al Prewitt 400 plus (and counting) at Lexington Henry Clay.

(5) Delmar Goh 407 wins at Central City (1942-56).

(6) Jack Fultz 385 wins at old Olive Hill High (Carter County).

(7) Carl Deaton 366 wins (and counting) at Green County High.

(8) Jack Day 333 wins at Central City (1956-72).

(9) Letcher Norton 315 wins at Clark County High.

Davenport, who is retired and living in Bowling Green, coached high school basketball for 32 years. His 1976 Edmonson County team won the state title and finished 27-6. Two years later he was fired.

Winningest coach in Kentucky? Davenport would have none of it.

"I'm not even close," he said Tuesday. "There was a Mr. King at Louisville Central that won over 800 games. And there was a fella in Lexington who might have had that many too."

Another update may be forthcoming later this month. The late William L. Kean became head coach at Louisville Central in 1923 and his win record is being reviewed. Too, the Lexington coach Davenport referred to was S.T. Roach at old Lexington Dunbar. His win record is being checked as well.

Jackets lose to Cadets

by Rhonda Vaughn

The Jackets traveled to Millersburg Saturday for a make-up game with MMI. A close game all the way ended with MMI victorious by one point, 57-56.

The score was tied at 15 at the end of the first quarter. By the end of the third quarter the MMI Cadets took the lead by six points, ending the quarter at 40-34.

In the last two seconds of the game the Jackets got a tip-off but not in time for a last shot. The game ended with MMI 57, Nicholas Co. 56.

Eighth grade still unbeaten

The Nicholas County eighth graders made it 10 straight wins Monday as they edged Belmont 34-31 in Winchester. The game was close throughout as neither team could achieve consistency for any length of time. Belmont's biggest lead was three at 5-2 while Nicholas held several five point advantages, the last being 34-29 with seven seconds remaining.

Leading by one point at 28-27 the Jackets got a basket from Chris Anderson with 1:48 to go. Gannon Bryant was fouled on the play and calmly sank both ends of the one and bonus. Tip Fryman converted two gratis tosses with 52 seconds left and Bryant duplicated his earlier feat with seven seconds remaining to keep Nicholas County undefeated and atop the Blue Grass Conference standings.

For the game Nicholas had 13 field goals, the same number as their opponent but the Cats were better at the foul line, connecting on eight of 10 while Belmont could manage only five of 14.

Nicholas County's next home game will be against Bourbon County Saturday, Jan. 28, at 1 p.m.

Cattle

The factors which will dominate the cattle market over the next year are the beef supply, consumer demand and pork supply, says Dr. A. Lee Meyer, Extension specialist in livestock marketing.

He notes that lower retail pork prices pull consumers away from the beef counter. However, Meyer says retail pork prices are unlikely to continue to drop enough to have a significant impact during the next year.

"On the side of consumer demand, our forecasts are for consumer income to continue to rise," said the specialist, explaining, "This rise will exist even after inflation is accounted for. Thus, consumers will have more money to spend on beef."

Prospects are good that demand will take a noticeable jump during the next six months, according to Meyer.

Supply depends in large part on the number of fed cattle, since fed cattle comprise about 70 percent of the U.S. commercial slaughter, he said. Indications are for a smaller fed beef supply into 1984 because of the slightly lower number on feed and because of the trend of fewer going into the lots.

"If fewer cattle continue to go into the feedlots, the fed beef supply could be down 3-6 percent in the next few months," Meyer said.

Offsetting the lower fed beef production will be higher slaughter of nonfed steers and heifers, cull beef cows and especially cull dairy cows. These categories, which make up the 30 percent of slaughter are likely to be up due to lower feeder cattle prices and lack of feed and forage, reports Meyer.

For 1984, slaughter likely will drop one to three percent in the first and second quarters, then move to levels near 1983 for the last half of the year. Choice slaughter cattle are expected to show substantial improvement for the first half of 1984 over the last quarter of 1983 due to lower production and improved demand.

Normal seasonal price increases also will help move slaughter steer prices into the low $80s during the first quarter and into the $65-70 per hundredweight range during the April-June period.

Meyer says adjustment to feed costs and expected increases in spring slaughter cattle prices have caused feeder cattle prices to rise. Forecast 1984 prices for feeder cattle are:

Yearling steers — Jan.-March, $65-80; April-June, $65-870.

Steer calves — Jan.-March, $64-870; April-June, $68-874.

Heifers — Jan.-March, $53-856; April-June, $55-860.
