Randy said that he just wanted to go to school most of the time, that his parents, (Mr. and Mrs. James Howard) never said he had to go. "Everybody thought I was crazy for doing this," commented Randy.

When asked if he was proud of his accomplishment Randy said, "Yes, because I don't think there are too many around here that have done this."

Randy also has some advice for first graders, "If at all possible don't miss school."

MRS. CONRAD, Director Pupil Personnel, began the year-to-year monitoring of student attendance in hopes of identifying a student with a 12 year record of perfect school attendance.

She discovered Randell's unblemished record her first year as DPP. He was in the seventh grade at that time.

"I knew, after talking with Randell the self-determination was there — he would accomplish this self-imposed goal," stated Mrs. Conrad.

"Actually, Randell attended 13 years of school without missing a day. He was enrolled in a private kindergarten program prior to public school," she continued.

"One question I have had toward this perfect record is how did he manage to escape all the childhood diseases as chickenpox, measles, etc. These illnesses, many times, will blemish a perfect attendance record for a student. Also, parents deserve a special praise for the encouragement they extend to their child.

"Parents are the individuals who establish regular attendance patterns in children," she concluded.

Not missing school student's longtime goal

(The following is an interview with Randell Howard and Mrs. Betty Conrad by students Lisa Linville and Melissa Sparks:)

Do you think you could go 12 years of school without missing a day? Randy Howard, 1984 graduate of Nicholas County High did and was rewarded for his achievement.

When asked if he was proud of his accomplishment Randy said, "Yes, because I don't think there are too many around here that have done this."

Randy also has some advice for first graders, "If at all possible don't miss school."

Sandra Durham president of County teachers group

The Nicholas County faculty dinner, sponsored by Nicholas County Education Association, was held May 27 at the elementary school.

Ben and Viola Pumphrey, co-presidents, presided. Pumphrey introduced 10 retired teachers who were honored guests. He remarked that they represented "about two and one-half centuries of dedicated service in the classroom."

Incoming officers for the '84-85 school year were installed by Charles Wilson, a former teacher and principal. New officers are: President, Sandra Durham (Wilson's daughter); vice-president, Michelle Skidmore; secretary, Linda Simons, and treasurer, Autumn Byers.

Entertainment was provided by local ministers, Rev. Ronald Henwood, Rev. Philip Hastings, Rev. Allen Campbell and Rev. David Stancil.

Crafters get outlet to sell their wares

Folks producing hand-crafted gift merchandise in Harrison, Nicholas and Fleming counties are discovering success in marketing their wares by working together.

They've combined their crafts in a showroom shop called the Red Rooster Shoppe at Bradmoor Farm near Cynthiana. Their crafts are sold to the retail trade and there is also provided a convenient display for the wholesale buyer from out of the area.

The shop is open to the public on Fridays and Saturdays. Wholesale buyers who call ahead can visit at their convenience.

THE PROJECT is being sponsored by the Mammoth Cave Life Enrichment Center Inc., a not-for-profit organization which promotes cottage industries, summer camping for city children and adult retreats.

In addition to selling crafts, a summer workshop schedule has been announced teaching others to make the crafts. The one-day workshops are held at Bradmoor Farms and include lessons in basket weaving, stenciling, pillow making, candle wicking, chicken scratch and landscape painting.

Admission for the workshops is by reservation and the fee, including lunch, is $10 per person. For additional information contact Herby Moore, Bradmoor Farm, Route 4, Box 72, Cynthiana 41031 or call 234-5480.

CHEERLEADING CAMPS SCHEDULED AT MSU

Morehead State University is the site of this year's Universal Cheerleaders Association's summer cheerleading camps, July 16-19 and July 30-Aug. 2. Cheerleaders enrolled in high school, junior high and middle school may attend.

Youth talent sought

The 1984 Ewing-Fleming County Fair seeks local talent to participate in the sixth annual Youth Talent Show Tuesday, July 10, 7 p.m., during the Ewing-Fleming County Fair.

The fair runs July 9-14 at the Ewing Fairgrounds located on State Route 165, between Ewing and Fairview.

Each year dozens of young people compete for a chance to participate at the Kentucky State Fair. A $50 prize will go to the winning act. Ribbons will go to all.

Five winning groups will be sent to the State Fair from the local contest. Entries will be accepted in any talent category except baton twirlers or similar acts using batons.

The local contest is open to any youth from the area between the ages of 10-20. Any act running more than four minutes will be disqualified.

The contest is not open to professionals. Deadline for entering is July 5.

Entries will be accepted from the following categories: vocal solo (male or female), vocal group, instrumental solo, piano, band, dance solo, dance group, dance novelty solo, dance novelty group, variety solo and variety group.

For an application form write: Talent Show, Box 131, Flemingsburg, 41041, or phone 845-6871, 267-2171 or 876-2311.

The Youth Talent Show is sanctioned by the Kentucky State Fair for the advancement of local winners.
