Kay's Kitchen

By Kay Fisher

Recipes again this week are to help you plan the Thanksgiving dinner without any last minute rush.

STUFFED EGGPLANT

1 large eggplant
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup milk
¼ finely minced onion
2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoons buttered bread crumbs
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan or Swiss cheese
Salt and pepper to taste
Fresh chopped parsley for garnish

Halve eggplant lengthwise. Place cut side down in baking dish with the vegetable oil. Bake in 375-degree oven about 30 minutes, until rather soft. Cool and scoop out the pulp leaving the shell intact. Set aside.

Make a sauce by melting 1 tablespoon of the butter in heavy pan. Add flour and mix well. Add a pinch of salt and the milk gradually, stirring constantly until sauce is thick and smooth.

Saute the finely minced onion in remaining 4 tablespoons of butter until limp and well cooked, but not brown. Add mushrooms and cook only a few minutes. Add to eggplant pulp along with the 2 tablespoons of chopped parsley. Add just enough of the white sauce to bind. (This may vary, depending on size of eggplant.) Season with salt and pepper. Fill eggplant shell piling high. Cover with a mixture of buttered crumbs and cheese. Bake at 425 degrees about 15 minutes. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

Note: Eggplant may be prepared entirely ahead of time up to adding crumb and cheese topping and refrigerated. If so lower oven temperature to 375 degrees and allow more time to heat through.

Since everything can't go in the oven, here are two quick and easy recipes to be cooked on top of the stove.

SHAKER LEMON CARROTS

1 bunch of tiny fresh carrots or use larger ones cut into quarters
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons light brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Scrape carrots and boil until just tender. Drain. Combine sugars and sprinkle over carrots. Add lemon juice and butter. Cook, stirring or shaking pan to prevent sticking, over very low heat for about 20 minutes.

SICILIAN BROCCOLI

1 bunch broccoli
4 tablespoons butter
2 cloves garlic, minced
¼ to ½ cup sliced pitted black olives
Freshly grated Parmesan cheese
Lemon wedges

Divide broccoli into flowerets, peel and slice stem and steam until cooked but still crisp. Place in a warm serving dish. In small pan melt butter, saute garlic in it for a few minutes, and add sliced olives. Pour butter mixture over broccoli, sprinkle Parmesan cheese on top. Serve with lemon wedges.

Diabetes group sponsoring clinic

According to the American Diabetes Association, 12 million people in the USA have diabetes. An additional estimated five million persons have undetected type II diabetes.

The Nicholas County Diabetes Support Group, Nicholas County Hospital and the WEDCO District Diabetes Program-Nicholas County Health Center are sponsoring a diabetes screening effort on Nov. 15 and 16.

A screening will be held on Nov. 15 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. for Nicholas County Hospital employees in the E.C.F. Day Room. A screening for the general public will be held on Nov. 16 from 11 a.m.-6 p.m. at the Carlisle Methodist Church.

For more information please contact Peggy Seithers, LPN, Patient Education director, at 289-7181, or Lee Rose, RN, at 289-2180.

Moorefield Church chili supper

The Moorefield Christian Church is having a chili supper this Friday, Nov. 9, 5:30-8:00 p.m. at the church.

Bring the family out for homemade chili, sandwiches and pie.

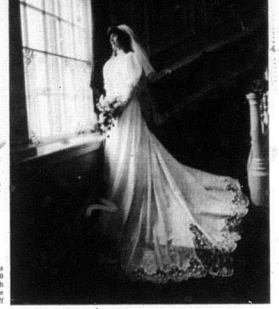
Residents of Johnson-Mathers Nursing Home enjoyed a Halloween costume party Oct. 31 which included witches brew and cookies. Those pictured (not in pictorial order) are John DeAtley, Lurie DeAtley, Lucille George, Ruby Campbell, George Roe, Robbie Day, Joe Crawford, Thelma Wilson (voted prettiest), Hazel Henry, Carolyn Gaunce, Minnie Smiley, Ida Mae George, Odetta Miller (voted ugliest), Eula Scott, Grace Allison, Frank Jackson, Everett Green (voted most original), Fannie Anderson, Rosie Bowles, Sarah Polsgrove, Stone Curry and Hershel Dampier.



Mrs. Duane James Marchyn

Miss Rachel Booth weds in candlelight ceremony

Miss Rachel Mae Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Booth of Carlisle, and Dr. Duane James Marchyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Metro James Marchyn of Williamsville, NY., were united in marriage Saturday, October 20, 1984 in a candlelight ceremony at the Central Christian Church in Lexington by the Rev. Glynn Burke.

Mrs. Charlotte Hardin of Carlisle was the vocalist and Mrs. Becky Speaks of Lexington the organist.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of white silk. The bodice featured a high neckline fronted in alencon lace and pearls with silk covered buttons down the back. The leg "O" mutton sleeves buttoned to the wrist were trimmed with pearls. The skirt fell from a dropped waistline forming a circular skirt flowing into a full court train. Embroidered schiffli dotted the hemline. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a cap of lace and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white bridal roses, ivy and baby's breath.

Mrs. Leslie Long of St. Petersburg, Fl. was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of persimmon colored chiffon over taffeta and carried a bouquet of bridal white roses and persimmon colored flowers.

Miss Helen Elizabeth Carter of Pikeville was maid of honor. She wore a dress and carried a bouquet identical to the matron of honor.

Dr. Kenneth Meyer of Sacramento, CA served as best man. David William Booth of Marietta, OH, brother of the bride, Dr. Thomas Knox of Mountain Home, AK, and Dr. Mark Borer of Charleston, WV served as groomsmen.

Mrs. Rebecca Barlow Lewis of Lexington, cousin of the bride, served at the guest book.

A reception followed at Spindletop Hall.

The bride is a graduate of Nicholas County High School and Morehead State University.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Medicine and is presently practicing in Portsmouth, OH.

After a wedding trip to St. Thomas Island the couple will reside in Portsmouth.

Mrs. Marchyn is incentive for parties

Mrs. Rachel Marchyn has been the recipient of several bridal parties recently.

Mrs. Laura Pumphrey of Carlisle honored Rachel with a luncheon October 10.

Mrs. James Hardin of Lexington entertained her with a linen shower and luncheon September 22.

Dr. Christine Riley, Miss Deborah Ashley and Miss Ruthalee McAlister of Lexington gave a miscellaneous shower September 10.

Mrs. Jane Papelow and Mrs. Marge Gustaferro of Buffalo, NY entertained with a luncheon and miscellaneous shower August 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Metro James Marchyn entertained with a rehearsal dinner for Rachel and Duane at The Mansion in Lexington October 19.

Mrs. Tom Lewis, Lexington, and Mrs. W.G. Irvin, Carlisle, entertained with a brunch Saturday, October 20, at the home of Mrs. Lewis on Lakewood Drive for family and out-of-town guests.

Moorefield Homemakers

The Moorefield Homemakers met Nov. 1 in the home of Mrs. Jack Becker with Mrs. Michelle Skidmore as co-hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Mrs. Joe Smart. The roll was called by Mrs. Skidmore, secretary-treasurer. Eleven members responded answering with "what we are thankful for."

Several upcoming meetings were announced by Mrs. Margie Wilson: Nov. 8, council meeting; Nov. 11, rug knitting and stencil; Nov. 12, microwave cooking, Mrs. Carolyn Dotson; Nov. 19, table setting; Nov. 26, Christmas sharing.

The Christmas parade is set for Dec. 1. Cookbooks are in and sell for $6.

Mrs. Charity Griffith led the games and a social hour followed, with the hostesses serving a dessert.

Our next meeting will be the Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Beulah Jacobs Dec. 6.

Fall Festival dolls

A doll collection display was part of the Nicholas County Elementary PTO Fall Festival held recently. The idea for the display was the brainchild of Mrs. Viola Pumphrey, first grade teacher. The dolls pictured above belong to Mrs. Leslie (Ruby) Morris, Crooked Creek Road. She has made and dressed each doll, most of which are historical figures. This collection was voted the one representing the most research. Mrs. Ethel Dwelley entered a collection of which one of the dolls was chosen the most beautiful. Her character and porcelain dolls are purchased. The most huggable doll belonged to Mrs. Christine Booth, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Alice McDonald sent a doll to be displayed which she has had since she was four years old. It traveled the farthest (from Frankfort via an overnight stop in the Winchester hospital).

Newly confirmed parishioners

Eight young people received the Sacrament of Confirmation Sunday, Nov. 4 at the Shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe. From left, Licha Farah Jr., Cindy Honor, Chris Knapke, Lea Thompson, Bishop J. Kendrick Williams, Auxiliary Bishop of the Covington Diocese, Rev. Joseph Saulino, pastor; Tracy Liver, Alison Knapke, Mary Alicha Farah and Kelly Brookshire. A reception followed in the parish hall. Bishop Williams was said to be impressed with the church and the people he met while here in Carlisle.

Putting education first

by Alice McDonald
Supt. of Public Instruction

Kentucky is a romantic and glamorous state. We tell tourists about our dark and bloody ground, our bluegrass and green mountains, our rich pioneer culture, and our southern charm. We tell economic developers that we are centrally located, that we have a mild climate, a superb transportation network, a progressive government, and a strong investment base backed by sound banking.

The truth of the matter is, however, that we don't brag very much about our labor force. We can't brag about it because therein lies Kentucky's greatest tragedy. We have failed in the education of our people.

Don't misunderstand me. We have not failed for anyone. Our schools are not a disgrace. Our teachers are not incompetent. But we have failed to failed to put education first. We have failed to be as good in public education as we could have been. As a result, we read in out-of-state newspapers that Kentucky is last in education.

Why can't Kentucky be FIRST in education? Why can't every one of our 1378 public schools be tops? Why can't the universities of America come scrambling to Kentucky for our graduates? Why can't the corporations of the world compete to locate in our cities?

MY FRIENDS, it hasn't happened because for 192 years the people of Kentucky haven't made it happen.

In 1984, however, that began to change. In 1984, our General Assembly passed a very significant package of legislation to reform public education.

In 1984, the Department of Education and the State Board of Education began enforcing laws and regulations for academic excellence that have been languishing on the books for decades.

In 1984, citizens banded together to crusade for better schools for their children.

But most significant of all — 1984 was the year Kentucky put the children first and began making the decisions necessary to become outstanding in public education.

It was the year the legislature began and ended with education. It was, in fact, the year the lawmakers put money into programs for the instruction of kids rather than into bigger salaries for adults.

1984 was the year 500 people sat down to dinner with the Prichard Committee for the sole purpose of deciding how to enlist the support of all Kentuckians in the cause of better schools. That has never happened in Kentucky before. Education has never had such a year.

MUCH HAS ALREADY been done on the state level to lay the foundations for academic excellence in all schools. But much remains to be done on local levels. Leadership and responsibility start at the top but they cannot be effective unless met with more leadership and responsibility flowing up from the grassroots.

On Nov. 13, you will have your chance to get involved. On Nov. 13, you will be meeting together in your communities to decide what needs to be done to make your schools excel.

Eye Openers

By Dr. Robert F. Pretzsch, Optometrist

Should You Consider Contacts?

Nearly 14 million Americans look at the world around them each day through a "second pair of eyes". And even their best friends don't notice.

These people, of course, are the wearers of contact lenses, and they range in age from children to persons in their eighties. Among them are law enforcement officers and professional athletes and photographers. Many of them are actors and actresses.

Anyone thinking about wearing contact lenses should consider what they really are—aids to visual health rather than just a cosmetic device to improve the appearance.

Contact lenses can be of the hard or soft type and, if either is suitable, the patient and the doctor can decide which type to choose. The choice will depend on the visual problem, health history, and the occupational and recreational needs of the patient, among other considerations.
