PRODUCERS PAID LOWER PRICES FOR COMMODITIES

Kentucky producers received lower prices for all major commodities at mid-September, according to the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Beef cattle prices averaged $45.40 per cwt., down 80 cents from the August average, and calves were down 30 cents to $52.70 at mid-September.

Compared to a year earlier, however beef cattle were up $4 and calves were up $3.80. Hogs averaged $68 per cwt. at mid-month compared to $52.20 in August and $40.20 in September a year ago.

Prices for crop commodities at mid-September also declined from a month earlier. Corn averaged $3.10 per bushel at mid-month, down from $3.39 in August and $3.50 a year ago. Soybeans at $6.14 declined 35 cents from August and $2.06 from September 1983. Wheat averaged $3.32 per bushel at mid-September down from $3.34 the previous month.

The September All Farm Products Index of Prices Received by U.S. Farmers was down four points (2.8 percent) from August to 139 percent of its January-December 1977 average. Lower prices for potatoes, hogs, cattle, oranges, soybeans and corn were partially offset by higher prices for milk, tobacco, peaches, broilers, and apples. The Index was three points (2.1 percent) above a year ago.

The Index of Prices Paid by U.S. Farmers for commodities and services, interest, taxes and farm wage rates for September was 166 percent of its 1977 base. The Index was unchanged from August, but three points (1.9 percent) above a year earlier. Compared with August the feed and feeder livestock indexes were down, but the fuels and energy index was higher.

STATE UNEMPLOYED LOWEST SINCE 1981

Kentucky's unemployment rate dropped in August to its lowest level in 34 months, according to Cabinet for Human Resources figures released last week.

The rate fell 1.1 percent, from a revised 9.8 percent in July to a preliminary 8.7 percent in August. "This is the lowest state rate since December 1981, when it was 7.0 percent," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. He attributed the decline to seasonal factors.

Fall fishing often best

The Labor Day weekend usually marks the end of the vacation season for most families. After this last outdoor summer fling, the boat is put away for the winter and attention turns again to work and school.

But experienced fall fishermen know that Labor Day signals the beginning of one of the best times to be on the water. Not only are the lakes quieter, but fishing tends to steadily improve until really cold weather hits sometime in December or January.

During the summer, fish (which don't like hot weather any more than people do) tend to be active primarily at night. During the day, they seek deep, cool areas and remain relatively inactive. But as the waters cool, they often move shallower and feed more aggressively during the day.

SO WE ARE right now on the threshold of what is generally one of the best fishing times of the year. Not only is angling better than average, but late summer and fall are great times to be out of doors. Many days are crisp and cool, with bright blue skies complemented by the golds, yellows and reds of autumn foliage.

Spinner baits and buzz baits seem particularly productive in the fall. If bait fish dimpling the water's surface like someone popping corn underwater. Rip a buzz bait through this school of minnows and most likely you'll attract a largemouth bass that was on the prowl for an easy meal.

In deep, clear lakes like Cumberland or Dale Hollow, Kentucky bass will school off vertical banks in the fall, suspending out in the lake somewhere between 15-25 feet deep and from 20-30 feet off the rocky wall. They are easy to spot on a depth finder and will usually hit a small jig dropped slowly among them.

AS THE WATER cools, these fish will move closer and closer to the bank until, when water sets in, they are holding tight against the rock walls.

Fall crappie fishing can also be very productive. These fish also tend to gather in large schools during the fall. Dedicated crappie fishermen continue enjoying their sport throughout the winter, sometimes even breaking in bays to reach the open waters of the main lake.

Don't overlook fall stream fishing, either. Some surprisingly small creeks around Kentucky hold good populations of smallmouth bass. These waters (compared to our large, popular lakes) don't get a lot of fishing pressure and autumn is an excellent time to fish flowing water.

In short, don't put your boat and tackle in storage just yet — there's a couple of months (at least) of good fishing left in 1984.
