Kay's Kitchen

By Kay Fisher

If you would like one last get-together with friends for a farewell to summer party, here are some quick and easy party foods. The first one on the list is from Pat Allison.

ARTICHOKE DIP

1 can artichokes, drained and sliced
1 cup mayonnaise
Parmesan cheese

Combine artichokes and mayonnaise. Spoon into small casserole, sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake until bubbly and lightly brown on top in 350 degree oven.

VEGETABLE DIPPER

1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
4 teaspoons dry spaghetti sauce mix

Combine all ingredients and let marinate 12 hours. Serve with vegetables of your choice.

BACON BLUE CHEESE DIP

4 oz. (1 cup) blue cheese, crumbled
1 3-oz. package cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon dry white wine
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
¼ cup sour cream
4 slices bacon cooked crisp and crumbled, or ¼ cup bacon-flavored bits

Combine blue cheese, cream cheese, wine and minced onion. Beat until fluffy. Stir in sour cream. Chill. When ready to serve, stir in bacon. Have vegetables crisp.

HAM CRISPIES

1 stick of piecrust mix
1 cup potato chips, crushed (should make ¾ cup)
1 (4½ oz.) can deviled ham
2 tablespoons dry sherry
1 tablespoon chopped canned pimento
Chopped pecans

Prepare piecrust mix as directed. Spread crushed potato chips on well-floured surface and roll pastry out over chips about 1/8 inch thick. Cut to fit pastry shells and fit into pastry cups or muffin cups. Prick each with fork and chill at least 15 minutes.

To serve bake in 425 degree oven until golden, about 10 minutes. Combine ham, sherry and pimento. Heat just to boiling. Spoon into shells and top with chopped pecans. Serve warm.

*****

To finish out the evening serve Easy Lasagna, vegetables and dip if any is left, or a tossed salad and French garlic bread.

EASY LASAGNA

6 oz. lasagna
1 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
1 15-oz. can spaghetti sauce with meat
1 cup cream-style cottage cheese
1 6-oz. package mozzarella cheese (sliced)

Cook noodles as directed and drain. Add oregano to spaghetti sauce. In greased baking dish layer, in order, half the noodles, cottage cheese, mozzarella cheese slices and spaghetti sauce. Repeat layers. Cover and refrigerate up to 24 hours.

To serve, bake covered in 375 degree oven for 40 minutes. Uncover and bake 10 minutes longer. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

Make two of these to serve 10.

THANK YOU,

Carlisle and Nicholas County for supporting the local Cancer Society's 1st Annual "Jail-a-thon"

With your help over $7,000. was raised to fight cancer. We hope you had fun, knowing your time and dollars will help Nicholas County cancer victims. All money remains in Kentucky and 60% is returned to the Nicholas County Chapter.

'Impersonating a banker'

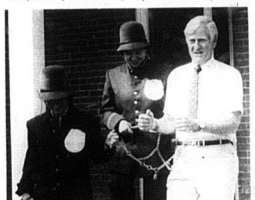
John Allison of the Deposit Bank listens as "jailer" Peggy Seithers reads charges for his "arrest," including "impersonating a banker, selling fake insurance, and falsifying a chigger report." He was "fined" $60. — Photos submitted

A cut-up artist

Charles Fay, who cuts a lot of meat at Foodtown, spent time in the slammer for "cutting up in public." Locking him in is Ruby Vice, local Cancer Society co-president, who made the prisoners' costumes.

In the hoosegow

"Prisoners" Bill Clark Jr. and Gerald Hatton were among residents lodged in jail. Clark was charged with littering while Hatton's "crime" was having a friend arrested. Cancer Society president Judy Dunn is in the background.



Stern 'judge'

Joanie Conley served as judge on opening day of the Jail-a-thon last Tuesday, handing out stiff fines. All told, over 150 arrests were made during the four-day event which netted over $7,000 in cash and pledges.

'Kidnapper' escorted to jail

Don Elder, superintendent of Nicholas County Schools, is handcuffed and led from Board of Education Building by "jailers" Jonna Caswell, left, and Jennifer Taulbee. Elder was charged with 1,559 counts of "kidnapping" Nicholas County students.

— This page sponsored by the Nicholas County Chapter, American Cancer Society.

'Too much homework'

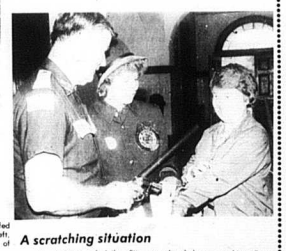
'Arrested' on Main Street

"Jailers" Peggy Seithers, left, Kavanna Fite and Sheriff Ring round up Jim Galbraith and Emerson Baker. Galbraith was 'charged' with driving while extremely fatigued, while Baker was 'nabbed' for attempting (without success) to work non-bankers hours at First National Bank.



A scratching situation
