Blood Center grateful for community support

by Nancy White
Donor Resources Consultant

On behalf of Central Kentucky Blood Center I would like to express my appreciation to the many people who worked so hard to make the Nov. 18 Nicholas County blood drive a success. Ninety-two people took time to share their good health.

In all, 84 pints of blood were donated. By acting on their good intentions these people have helped ensure that the gift of life is available for their families and friends in Nicholas County and in the 44 hospitals served by Central Kentucky Blood Center.

Nearly 100 people were involved in the county wide telephone canvas for this drive. I realize it was a huge job, but it was done very efficiently.

Special gratitude also goes to the Ellisville, Moorefield, East Union and Carlisle Lions Club Homemakers, who provided the meal for our crew. Also, The Shrine of Our Lady for providing the canteen, the Garden Club for greeters and help on the day of the drive, the Carlisle United Methodist Church for use of the hall, the Hospital Auxiliary who worked with the card file, The Carlisle Mercury for its help in publicizing the drive, Margie Wilson and Darlene Davis who did all of the typing, the City Council and the Rotary Club for providing postage, and of course, Rev. Alan Campbell, county chairperson who organized the drive.

The following people offered blood

Also, Mary McCord, Shirley Trussell, Roberta Auxier, Gerald Watkins, Lee Rentz, Ambrose Dudley, Howard Allison, Melissa Darland, Tammy Mathews, James Sidles, Carolyn Terrell, Charles Smith, Nettie Barnes, Baby Vice, James Barnes, Bobby Barnett, Joseph Conley, Eugene Snapp;

Also, Jesse Smith, Anna Cropper, Joel Judd, Tracy Tolliver, Bonita Barnett, Roy Cropper Jr., Donald Smith, Michael Phillips, Terry Carpenter, Susan Frytman, Angela Garrett, Michael Mann, Lyle Anderson and James Snapp.

A deer for Donna

After five years of hunting deer to no avail, Mrs. Rudy Miller of Cynthiana bagged this 10 point buck Nov. 15 in Harrison County. Mrs. Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sibert of Nicholas County, used a 243 rifle to kill her prize. — Photo submitted

Tobacco leaders encouraged

by Bennett Roach

An encouraging start toward saving the growers burley tobacco program was registered with the opening of the 1985 markets, and tobacco leaders are seeing hopeful signs that the trend will continue.

On opening day the eight-state belt sold 39.5 million pounds, of which only 11.1 percent, or 4.2 million pounds was taken under loan by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, based in Lexington, and the Burley Stabilization Corp of Knoxville.

Ed Francis, director of the Market News Service, USDA, said that on many opening day last year the pool took 37.3 percent, and in 1983 on opening day 27 percent.

On Tuesday's sales, Nov. 26, the eight-state figures were 39.4 million pounds sold, with the pool taking 7.4 percent.

MARKETS recessed for Thanksgiving and resumed on Monday. The selling schedule in four days a week until the Christmas recess starts following sales on Dec. 12. The sales resume after the holidays on Jan. 6.

The toll-free number of the Market News Service is 1-800-432-9262, which supplies current information daily on the burley markets.

Growers throughout the burley belt will vote sometime in February 1986 on the renewal of poundage quotas for the next three years.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture this week announced it is seeking public comments on the subject, and has extended the deadline for receiving written comments from Dec. 31 to Jan. 10. These should be sent to Director, Commodity Analysis Division, USDA-ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

SOMETIME in January the usual quota hearing will be held in Lexington, at a date yet to be determined. The current law requires the USDA to set the national quota for the 1986-87 marketing season by Feb. 1.

Within 30 days after the announcement the growers referendum is to be held to determine whether quotas should be in effect for 1986, 87 and 88. The 1986 quota will be based on 1986 usage and on any needed inventory adjustment.

Tree lighting ceremonies set Monday

Kentucky Governor Martha Layne Collins and her family will launch the state's gala 1985 holiday season on Monday, Dec. 9 with the traditional tree lighting ceremonies at the capitol.

The festivities, which will begin at 6 p.m., will include a holiday message from the Governor and the singing of Christmas carols by candlelight, as well as choral music by the Georgetown Choral Society.

The Governor's Mansion will be open for tours from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Dec. 9 and entertainment there will feature the Harlan Boys Choir.

Following the tree lighting, there will be a public reception with refreshments held in the rotunda of the capitol, and a holiday gift boutique will be operated by the Kentucky Parks Department on the west lobby. The gift shop is open each weekday now through Dec. 20, from 10-4:30 and 9 until 8 p.m. Dec. 9.

Governor Collins said that this year the tree in the capitol rotunda has been planned to reflect an old fashioned Christmas, in honor of both the 200th birthday of Frankfort and the 175th birthday of the state capitol. " Kentucky crafts and old-time decorations will adorn the tall tree in the rotunda.

Men not registered cannot work for the Fed

Under a new law signed by President Reagan, appointment to Federal jobs will be denied to men who have not registered with Selective Service. The new law, effective immediately, applies to students seeking temporary summer employment, as well as men searching for permanent employment with a Federal agency or department.

Commenting on this new requirement, Selective Service Director, Thomas K. Turnage stated, "I am pleased and very reassured by the continuing Congressional support of the registration requirement. Not only does this law encourage compliance with the law among eligible young men, it also increases public awareness of the requirement. As always, our primary intent is to register men, not prosecute them."

Offered by Senator Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.), and known as the Thurmond Amendment to the Defense Authorization Bill, the amendment was co-sponsored by Senators Mattingly, Nickles, Denton, East, Gramm, Helms, Humphrey, Warner, Johnson, Wilson, Hollings, Symms and Murkowski. Rep. Sonny Montgomery (D-MS) had introduced similar language in the House of Representatives.

Men of registration age must be registered to receive Federal student aid and job training benefits. Additionally, registration is a requirement in some states for various employment opportunities, such as law enforcement agencies and permission to practice law.

Men born in 1960 and later years are required to register with Selective Service within 30 days of their 18th birthday. Registration takes only five minutes at any post office. Failure to register is a felony, punishable by a fine of up to $250,000 and/or up to five years imprisonment.

Crappie population being researched

by Art Lander Jr.

Biologists of the Kentucky Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources recently began work on a three-year research project that will help them more accurately assess crappie populations in our lakes, and answer some of the difficult questions relating to available management options for this prolific gamefish.

Stunting or "stockpiling" occurs in many of our lakes but up to now little if any research has been done on how to correct this problem, which often relates to competition, crowding or poor food availability. Periodic population monitoring of crappie populations are conducted as part of cove rotenone studies, but biologists admit that these samples don't accurately reflect entire populations since crappie spend much of the time in open water suspended above stumps and brush.

The three-year study will involve extensive population sampling through the use of 3x6-foot trap nets, similar in design to the hoop nets which are widely used by commercial fishermen. The fish caught in the nets are released unharmed after they are measured and counted.

THE FISH of all sizes that will be trapped in the nets will provide biologists with a data base for each lake, enabling them to learn more about population densities, age structures, size structures, crappie growth rates and year class recruitment, so that the relative quality of a population can be assessed and comparisons with others can be made more easily.

Jim Axon, assistant director of the Department's Fisheries Division, said that one of the goals of the project was to try to relate the quality of a crappie fishery to the available habitat, an aspect of crappie research that hasn't been dealt with much before. Eventually all of Kentucky's major lakes will be investigated, but initially work will center on Rough River Lake, Barren River Lake, Lake Barkley, Kentucky Lake, Green River Lake and Nolin River Lake, our state's top crappie producers.

Of these six impoundments, Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley are considered the best, and biologists can only theorize why these lakes consistently produce larger fish and superior fisheries.

Some plausible explanations include: (1) They are mainstream reservoirs with high nutrient loads of total dissolved solids, (2) they are shallow lakes with a greater percent of shallow area in relation to the total acreage, affording greater cover and reproductive potential, (3) they support both threadfin and gizzard shad as a forage base, and (4) they fail to thermally stratify in the main lake, creating more available habitat during critical growth periods so crappie are able to bottom feed on aquatic insects.

IN THE LAST few years biologists have discovered some interesting facts about crappie. For example, adult crappie are cannibalistic, preferring young-of-the-year crappie over any other forage fish available. Heavy angler harvest of adults could therefore reduce cannibalism and increase competition among smaller fish, leading to the classic situation of a shortage of forage causing slow growth.

Vital gaps in knowledge about crappie populations exist, but biologists are hoping that the findings from this new study will help unlock some of the mysteries surrounding this highly popular, yet difficult to manage gamefish.

Violations reported

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife reports good results from concerned citizens who have called the department's toll free telephone number to report game violations. If you have knowledge of anyone committing a violation of fish and wildlife laws call 1-800-25ALERT to report it. If you do not wish to give your name or identify yourself it is not necessary to do so.

A new statewide radio network coupled with 24-hour dispatchers in Fish and Wildlife's Frankfort office means that responses to calls on the toll-free numbers can be made quickly. During the recently completed deer season, several arrests were made because of this increased response time.
