Cutting when the old fashion way
Antique farm machinery can do the job. It just takes more patience and more steps before the job is done. But for members of the Central Kentucky Steam and Gas Engine Association of Paris it's fun and part of the game. Some of the club's members had an old 1920's or '30's wheel binder in operation on the farm of Ruth Osborne on Carpenter Pike Sunday afternoon. The "shop" that particular day were due to the dining getting up. Gary Crawford, left, Jim Whiles, Duane Hardwick.

Bell pepper crop affected by rains
Bacterial leaf spot, a disease that delays and reduces harvest in peppers, is showing up at significant levels across the state.
