The Cost Of Contact Lenses

Why are contact lenses generally more expensive than glasses?

be less expensive. What you are paying for is the time and exacting skill needed to measure, prescribe, verify, modify and ultimately fit the lenses into your eyes. There is also continuous follow-up care to assure the safety of your eyes and the comfort of your lenses.

Price-shopping for contact lenses does your eyes and your vision a disservice. You should choose the optometris who has a reputation for fitting successful contact lensweares, who is thorough with the Initial exemination and the required follow-up examinations. The optometris will be totally familiar with the variety stype of a lense, and will explain which are appropriate for you, how was admits though reputs. how you adjust to your lenses, how to care for them, and when to call for help. Only a reputable professional can supply this type of service.
