April food prices run 'dead heat' with March

Lower prices for poultry, dairy and grain products offset higher tabs on pork and produce, bringing Kentucky's April food price index to a virtual "dead heat" with last month's average.

A selected group of 40 food items cost shoppers an average $60.08, the Kentucky Farm Bureau market-basket survey found, just barely above the March index of $60.05. The current figure is .3 of one percent below the finding of April 1983, and just about three percent above the average in April 1981, four years ago.

Of the six food groupings represented in the survey, only beef showed a stable price line during the 30-day period. Pork cuts gained an average two percent in price from March to April with fruits and vegetables showing an identical increase.

ON THE DOWN side, poultry and eggs fell by 2.8 percent, dairy products were one percent lower and grain-based foods showed a 4.3 percent decline.

This month's bargain list, made up of items showing a significant price decline, included chicken breasts, down seven cents to $1.51 a pound; large eggs, off six cents at 69 cents a dozen; dill pickles, down nine cents a bottle to 97 cents; cheddar cheese, falling 21 cents a pound, to $2.53; and corn meal, off 10 cents at $1.23 for a five-pound bag.

Price gainers in the April survey included vanilla ice cream, which averaged eight cents higher at $1.67 for a half-gallon; Idaho potatoes, up 21 cents to $2.57 for a 10-pound bag; tomatoes, skying 28 cents a pound, to a record average of $1.27; and corn oil, up six cents a bottle, to $1.67.

AT THE FARM level, lower livestock prices were reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, helping the overall farm price index drop to a level 11 percent below its year-ago figure.

Analysts were predicting higher cattle and hog prices in the summer and fall months, with corresponding increases in retail cuts. But plentiful supplies of chicken promised to prevent major price run-ups on livestock markets.

Grain prices were virtually unchanged in the latest monthly report by USDA, mirroring the stable trend of most retail price patterns for food in recent months. Except for seasonal swings, the Kentucky market-basket average has traced a nearly flat trajectory since the beginning of 1984.

IN THE APRIL market-basket survey, Tompkinsville showed the lowest local price index while Louisville posted the highest figure. Overall, volunteers working through Kentucky Farm Bureau Women canvassed retail food tabs in 23 Kentucky communities.

Those local averages are Tompkinsville, 56.88; Scottsville, 56.93; Richmond, 57.09; Salyersville, 57.44; Glasgow, 57.99; Greenville, 58.62; Campbellsville, 58.79; Greensburg, 59.12; Elizabethtown, 59.22; Lexington, 59.54; Owensboro, 59.69.

Morehead, 60.39; Georgetown, 60.40; Shelbyville, 60.42; Greenup, 60.56; Murray, 60.63; Henderson, 61.01; Somerset, 61.34; Hopkinsville, 61.87; Brandenburg, 62.62; Grayson, 62.89; Falmouth, 62.96; and Louisville, 64.96.

Future outlook for KU 'healthy'

At the annual meeting of stockholders of Kentucky Utilities Company held on April 23, the following directors were elected: Jack Beckham, James C. Cobell Jr., Andrew C. Duke, W.A. Duncan, Walter W. Hillenmeyer Jr., Harry M. Hoe, Malcolm Y. Marshall, John T. Newton and Warren W. Rosenthal.

In a message to the shareholders, President W.B. Bechanan stated that KU was in a strong and healthy position for the future. The 1985 earnings are expected to be comparable to the 1984 earnings and the forecast for growth in sales is about 2.5 percent annually for the period 1985 to 1989.

Construction expenditures in 1984 were $67.3 million, the lowest level of such expenditures in 10 years. The projected budget for the five-year period 1985-1989 totals $350 million, a 30 percent decline from the last five years.

Bechanan stated the record peak demand for the company is 2,453 megawatts occurred on Jan. 21, 1985. He also reported that Ghent Generating Unit No. 4 was placed in operation in August 1984 at a cost of $431 per kilowatt which was 26 percent below the national average cost for comparable units.

Bechanan concluded with comments about the management audit ordered by the Kentucky Public Service Commission. He cited the major finding was that KU is a well-run, efficient utility with high quality service, good customer relations and rates that are among the lowest in the nation.

World War II shown in living color

Images of World War II, for many people, are composed of the grainy black and white film footage used in newsreels and documentaries of the times. The men who fought the war experienced it in living color, but the film memories are virtually all black and white.

"Normandy to Berlin: A War Remembered," airing on KET Wednesday, May 8 at 9 p.m., features rare color film of the war in Europe.

Edited by the late Hollywood director George Stevens when he was a lieutenant colonel of a special film unit, the program consists of color footage of V-E Day, the special program completes the visual record of the war as never before.

Some of the footage includes D-Day, the liberation of Paris, the Russian and American link-up at the Elbe River, the freeing of inmates at the Dachau prison camp, and the bombing destruction of Berlin.

Commemorating the 40th Anniversary of V-E Day, this special program completes the visual record of the war as never before.

'Teacher in space' finalists named

Sue Darnell of Calvert City and Judy White of Bowling Green have been selected as Kentucky's finalists to become the first American "teacher in space."

Kenneth L. Karem of Louisville has been selected as the alternate.

The three teachers, chosen by a special task force named by the state Department of Education, have been selected pending their passage of an FAA physical examination.

Series on today's China premieres May 8 on KET

"The Heart of the Dragon," a rare intimate look at China today — its peasants, factory workers, Communist Party leaders, artists, scientists, even millionaires — premieres on KET Wednesday, May 8 at 7 p.m.

EKU students keep busy pace

Richmond, Ky. — A hectic and busy lifestyle seems to be a common aspect of today's world. This includes life on the college campus, where students are kept busy both inside and out of the classroom.

Carlisle has a number of residents presently attending Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond. The following is an update of some of their activities.

Daryl McFarland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McFarland, is a senior majoring in police administration at EKU.

Daryl is busy this semester working co-op for his major field of study. He is employed by the Carlisle Police Department as a dispatcher on weekends.

Daryl is gaining practical experience while gaining one of the college credit for every 80 hours of work he receives with the local police department.

McFarland enjoys his weekend duty, saying "I can gain experience here that I could never receive in the classroom." Daryl is also minoring in security and loss prevention.

Shari Ramey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Ramey, is a junior majoring in home economics. Shari has just completed an eight week stay in Turley House, a home management facility at the university, operated by the Department of Home Economics.

The house provides a learning experience for home economic majors who perform the tasks necessary in maintaining a home, while receiving three hours of college credit. Shari received training in budgeting time, money and energy as well as entertaining guests.

"It required hours of hard work but it was a great learning experience for me," she said.

Another junior, Jimmy Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Neal Wood, is majoring in farm management. His agricultural experiences have been most beneficial, he feels.

One such example required Jimmy to spend an entire semester preparing a five year plan and study of the Meadowbrook Plana were devised on how the farm should budget its money and resources for this period of time.

Robert H. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don H. Hughes, is a sophomore minoring in theatre arts. He just recently completed his job as student life editor of the university yearbook, The Milestone. This year's book is finished and preparations for next year are underway.

Robert has been named managing editor for the 1986 book. He also just finished work on the university theatre department's production of Tintypes, a Broadway musical. Duties on the production staff included master carpenter, light crewman and technical assistant to the director.

Fadia Koury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ignatius Koury, is a sophomore majoring in nursing. She was accepted into the College of Allied Health and Nursing this past fall and is maintaining a substantial GPA while working in her nursing courses.

Fadia is also enjoying being one of the little sisters for the Theta Chi fraternity this semester.

"We all have a great time together; just getting out and playing a game of softball is great fun," she said.

(Editor's note: The Mercury welcomes reports from college students wherever they may be.)

Five earn state FHA degrees

Five future homemakers and two adult advisers from Nicholas County High School attended the 40th Annual State FHA convention held at the Executive West in Louisville on April 25-27.

Attending were Dana Vice, Anna Linville, Pam Kirby, Joyce Roberts, Tina Walton, Bonnie Metcalfe and Martha Taylor, advisors.

Theme for the meeting was "You've Come A Long Way — FHA — 1945-1985." Gov. Martha Layne Collins, an alumni member of Future Homemakers of America, spoke on "Be the Best That You Can Be" at the second general session on Friday.

Joyce Roberts, an NCHS senior, received her State Homemaker Degree. Unable to attend but also receiving State Homemaker degrees were Jinnetta Carter, Dawn Letcher, Carla Hall and Missy Sparks. The State degree is the highest honor presented by the organization.

Pam Kirby and Anna Linville served as voting delegates at the convention and Dana Vice served on the receiving-State Homemaker degrees were Jinnetta Carter, Dawn Letcher, publicity committee, interviewing convention delegates for the state FHA newsletter.
