

Tourism a major boon to economy

May 15-25, National Tourism Week will be celebrated, giving the entire nation the opportunity to learn more about the economic impact of this important industry. Gov. Martha Layne Collins has signed a proclamation declaring Kentucky's observance of the week. The Tourism Awareness, It Makes Dollars and Sense for Kentucky.

As the weeks approach, it is appropriate time to recognize what tourism means to Kentucky. The state's fourth-largest industry, tourism contributed more than $2.2 billion to Kentucky's economy in 1962 and provided more than 102,000 jobs. Tourism expenditures generated more than $17 million in state and local tax revenues, as well.

The devil did it

The mighty Packard & Gamble Co. — makers of most everything from disposable diapers to copiers — has thrown up its corporate hands and given up in intimidation, litigation and innuendo. Rumors have swirled like Ivory Soap since 1960 that P&G's trademark — a moon and star logo — is actually the mark of the devil.

The saga ends

The third and perhaps final chapter in the saga of the Mackaytor Revolver takes us to the last issue of the Carlisle High School paper, published May 21, 1963. That was the year, incidentally, that the state of Kentucky was admitted to the United Nations. An account of the horror was the last story on page two. The first page was devoted to a class picture of the graduating seniors, which included 102 who had graduated from the school.

NCHS Alumni Association suffering from lack of interest

To The Carlisle Mercury: This is an open letter to all graduates of Nicholas County High School. The Alumni Association has been suffering from a lack of interest in recent years. The officers of the association are doing their best to encourage you to be more active in the association. We need your help to make the association a more active and successful organization.

Thank you, sir! To The Carlisle Mercury: After 17 years I still proudly have been born in Nicholas County. I am proud to be a graduate of Nicholas County High School. I hope to list this renewed subscription. Thank you and good luck. John T. Ryan, Clifton Avenue, Park, Ky. May 14, 1963
