Public Auction

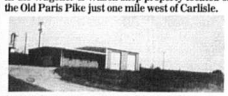
Sat., May 25, 10:30 a.m.

Located one mile west of Carlisle on Route 32 (Old Paris Pike). We have been authorized by Wagoner & Wilson, Inc., to sell the property known as the Wagoner & Wilson shop property located on the Old Paris Pike just one mile west of Carlisle.



Gulf States Metal Building, 7 Acres, More or Less

The building is in two connected sections with approximately 3,040 sq. ft. of floor space. The two sections are 40' x 36' and 40' x 40'. The 40' x 36' section includes a small office with electric heat and a bathroom. The balance of this space is in large storage areas with 12' ceilings which could provide ample storage for parts, etc. Also in this section is a 12' x 8' garage-type lift door for easy access to the storage area. The 40' x 40' area is a double bay garage area with poured concrete floors and two large 12' x 15' bay doors. The section was built to service heavy equipment. The entire building is well insulated with wall and ceiling insulation. The property is on the county water line. A paved road to and beyond the shop building which allows easy access to the entire property. The heating system in the building is electric, and there is a chimney for a wood or coal burning stove.

Auctioneers Note: What an opportunity! Ideal for a truck, car , or tractor dealership. And, at this time, we have no dealerships of that type located in Nicholas County. This property has it all, ample display and parking areas on the large lot; a large building well suited as a service area, parts house, or storage facility, and easy access to U.S. 68 is only one mile away. For more information, contact the auctioneers.

Terms; 10% down day of sale, balance due on or before June 25. Possession with the deed.

PUBLIC NOTIFICATION

The Sharpsburg Water District hereby gives notice that the maximum contaminant level for turbidity was exceeded during its monthly reported period of March 1985 to the state's Division of Water. The test for turbidity is to be performed here in the water plant on a daily basis. It is a measure of the clarity of water and is one method of assuring purity.

Although turbidity itself is not usually a health threat, it does show a lowering of water quality and can interfere with disinfection of the water. The Sharpsburg Water District will take the necessary corrective action at the water treatment plant.

School bus drivers must be trained

Training and certification requirements for both beginning and experienced school bus drivers have been approved by the Kentucky State Board of Education.

The newly developed school bus driver training curriculum will provide a consistent and comprehensive training program for Kentucky school bus drivers, Supt. of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said.

The regulations for beginning drivers take effect with the 1985-86 school year. Under the regulations, no one can operate a school bus without first completing the beginning school bus driver training course prescribed by the board and receiving a Kentucky school bus driver certificate from the superintendent of public instruction.

Experienced school bus drivers must have completed the training course and received the certificate by the opening of the 1986-87 school year in order to continue to drive school buses.

Household workers subject to SS tax

Do you hire someone to clean your house? Or watch your children until you get off work? Or care for your lawn?

If so, and you pay the person $50 or more in cash in a three-month calendar quarter, you must deduct Social Security taxes and report the wages. If you don't report you may be subject to a penalty, and the individual could lose valuable Social Security protection.

Keep in mind that Social Security is much more than a retirement program that provides checks as early as 62 and Medicare at 65. It also pays monthly benefits to a worker and dependents if she or he becomes severely disabled before 65. And certain dependents can get payments if the worker dies.

However, these benefits can be paid only if the worker has credit for a certain amount of work under Social Security. Also some recent work credits are required for disability benefits. In addition, the amount of monthly benefits is closely related to the amount of reported earnings.

If you and other employers do not report some or all of your employee's earnings, the person may have a short-term gain in more take-home pay. But then the benefits may not be payable to the worker and dependents, or the amounts may be greatly reduced.

If you employ someone in or around your home, call your Internal Revenue Service (IRS) office for reporting forms and instructions. IRS form 942 (employer's quarterly tax return for household employees) is due a month after a quarter ends. For example, if you pay someone $50 or more in the three months ending June 30, your report is due by July 31.

For 1985, deduct 7.05 percent from your employee's wages and pay an equal Social Security tax as your share.

On guides and pay lake operators

Have you ever wosuered how fishing and hunting guides, and pay lake operators, are licensed in Kentucky?

The procedure in each instance is relatively simple, although regulations spell out a number of conditions that must be met by all applicants before licenses can be granted by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

For example, persons applying for a fishing and hunting guide license must be 18 years of age or older, and cannot have been convicted of any fish or game law violation in the past three years.

Likewise, licensed guides shall have their licenses revoked if convicted of any fish or game law violation, and will not be eligible for another commercial guide license for three years. It is also strictly forbidden for a licensed guide to take, or participate in the taking of fish or game beyond the legal creel limit or bag limit of the person being guided.

BUT JUST as important as fulfilling these basic qualifications, the prospective guide must demonstrate that he or she is experienced and competent, in the judgment of their local conservation officer or wildlife management area manager, who is responsible for the screening and application process. This is so the profession will be represented by reliable individuals who are capable of serving sportsmen in a fair and honest way.

In 1984, 19 residents and one nonresident were either granted a license or requested the renewal of their guide license, from a file of more than 300 persons who have guided in recent years. The cost of fishing and hunting guide licenses is $14.50 for residents, and $42.50 for non-residents. It's important to note that guide licenses must be renewed annually and are subject to approval by the Division of Law Enforcement upon the recommendation of the local conservation officer.

Just as guide services involve paying to fish with a knowledgeable, local angler, the concept of the pay lake is based on paying for the right of access, although pay lakes fall into two categories.

The first example is the landowner who informally charges fishermen a couple of bucks for the right to fish in a pond or small lake on his land. In this case, the angler must possess a valid Kentucky fishing license.

THE SECOND example is a commercial establishment, licensed by the department at a cost of $50 to $100, depending on the size of the lake. At the commercial pay lake, anglers are charged for the right to fish in ponds or small lakes that must be stocked at least twice a year with 500 pounds (usually carp, catfish or buffalo) of legally-obtained adult fish per surface acre of water. In this situation, anglers are usually accompanied by the pay lake operator which exempt them from buying a Kentucky fishing license, as long as they fish in licensed commercial pay lakes.

For more information on fishing and hunting guide licenses, and pay lake operator licenses, write Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, No. 1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or telephone 502-564-4336.

Average family to spend $164 daily on vacation

Lower automobile costs and higher lodging costs will make traveling this summer only slightly more expensive than last year. The average American family of four can expect to spend about $164 a day on this year's driving vacation, an increase of only about three percent over last year's figure, according to the Bluegrass Automobile Club (AAA).

These projected costs include:

— $21 a day for 300 miles of driving in a car that averages 23 miles to a gallon.

— $76 a day for food (25% for breakfast, 30% for lunch and 45 for dinner).

— $67 a day for lodging for two adults and two children.

Costs are based on the average rate charged for approved accommodations listed in AAA TourBooks and includes $5 extra per night for every child.

The total represents averages and will vary according to each family's preferences and means as well as the area to which they are traveling. For example, expenses will be up to 80% higher in large urban areas and as much as 30% lower in rural or remote areas. But regardless of where a family is traveling, careful planning and budgeting can save time and money.

Some planning suggestions from AAA include:

— Make advance reservations for motel accommodations. This will eliminate searching for accommodations that suit your taste and budget. If reservations are not possible, plan to arrive early to ensure a wider selection of lodging that is in your price range. Also keep in mind that many motels offer free lodging to children under 14.

— Food expenses can be reduced by carrying snacks for picnics. All states have roadside picnic areas for the convenience of travelers. When you do eat in a restaurant, try to have your main meal at noon to take advantage of lower lunch prices.

— Make sure your car is tuned before you leave. This can save a great deal of money at the fuel pump. Also, pack carefully (added weight can increase fuel consumption), use the proper octane, and don't take shortcuts when buying fuel as this could damage your engine. And finally, when gassing-up don't fill the tank completely. Hot weather fuel expansion can cause an overflow.

Tent caterpillars a sign of spring

Spring, with its newly budding leaves and wildflowers, is also the beginning of insect and disease problems in ornamental, orchard and forest trees.

One of the first and most noticeable of the feeding insects of the season is the eastern tent caterpillar. Although its effects are more objectionable from an aesthetic viewpoint than from its effect on the host tree, it is rightly of concern to homeowners and orchard owners alike.

Eastern tent caterpillars emerge every spring at about the same time each year. Preferred host plant for this cherry is the preferred host, but all members of the cherry genus as well as apple, pear, peach and many ornamentals are sometimes attacked.

After the caterpillars emerge, they spin a tent in a tree crotch. This tent enlarges as the caterpillars grow.

Control of this pest is simple. The easiest way is to simply remove the tents by hand from the trees by pruning and burning the tents. Do not burn the tents while in the tree as this can damage or kill the tree. The insects can also be controlled by spraying the infested tree with Dylar, Methoxyfur or Sevin as soon as the caterpillars appear.

For further advice concerning this or other insect and disease problems, contact the Kentucky Division of Forestry in Morehead at 784-7504.
