Something new, something old. The Eddie Seton era of football began last Friday night in Hogg Arena and Kentucky's football season ended essentially a day later.

First, some news on UK's basket ball team.

The Wildcats seemed extraordinarily relaxed and crisp during the early going against Northwestern State. There was a lot of promise on game as the bench took over from the starters.

1. While the visitors frustrated Kenny Walker inside, the Wildcats did not exhibit the frustration they did in the past. Walker, because of his unusual temperament for an All-American, became mostly a decoy on the floor. No problem for Hogg Arena and James Buchanan High School's defense.

2. The game was a close one for the first 30 minutes, but the Wildcats pulled away in the second half. UK's offense was more than capable of beating back the Wildcats' defense.

3. While it may change when the stakes become higher, say, against Indiana, better remained overall control of the bench instead of relying on "workings" of the offense.

4. Further down during a game loss. On a number of occasions when substitutions were made to spike quickly with the outgoing player, UK's offense was more than capable of beating back the Wildcats' defense.

Jackets open season Tuesday

When the Bluejackets and Cobalts tip off the 1986 football season next Tuesday at Hogg Arena, both head coaches of the respective programs, the lack of experience players, along with the new uniforms, will be a factor.

Grandparents return to class

The Nicholas County Schools, in observance of American Education Week Nov. 18-22, sponsored Grandparents' Day to give grandparents the opportunity to visit their grandchildren's schools and see how education has changed since they were in school. NCS has 208 grandparents registered at the school and according to Principal Gerald Harmon, almost 90 percent in attendance.

The caller on call Directory Assistance and gave the operator a telephone number, and the caller was advised that the number was not in the directory.

SCB provides new service to customers

South Central Bell customers in Kentucky can now get more service when they call Directory Assistance.

The Public Service Commission has approved the new service, which provides callers on request with complete listing addresses including zip codes of South Central Bell customers in Kentucky.

The commission also approved continuing the current three-call, mostly automatic, and allowing the call allowance for residential customers and business customers.
