'Picture perfect' weather

Picture perfect weather from the middle of last week through the weekend brought relief from the heat that temperatures farmers had been experiencing. Very little rainfall accompanied the front as it moved across the state. Farmers averaged 3.6 out of the last days in the field and were again busy cutting and housing tobacco, harvesting corn for silage and grain and baling straw (Crop).

Soil moisture was rated 16 percent short, 78 percent adequate and six percent surplus. Most of the surplus ratings were in the Purchase and most of the short readings in northern Kentucky and portions of the Bluegrass.

BURLEY cutting progressed to 81 percent complete compared with 70 percent last year and the average of 67 percent. Housetrash was reported by slightly over half of our reporters but generally it is not a severe problem. Weather the latter half of last week was excellent for curing.

The September Crop Report forecast burley production in Kentucky at 401.3 million pounds, down 18 percent from a year ago. Production for the Belt is indicated at approximately 599.7 million pounds, down 16 percent from 1984.

Corn for grain harvest began to accelerate last week as moisture levels dropped. Statewide, harvest was 13 percent complete by Sunday, Sept. 15, compared with six percent last year and 10 percent for the average. Early yields have been good.

With 67 percent of the crop now mature and favorable weather continues, grain harvest will be active this week. Corn maturity progress compares with 15 percent in 1984 and 50 percent on average.

Some grain sorghum fields have been harvested. Crop prospects remain mostly good. Small grains were being seeded last week as cover crops on tobacco ground. Hay crops have been excellent this year. Pastures are rated mostly good to excellent.

Transy enrollees most since 1970

Officials at Transylvania University in Lexington report that enrollment for the fall semester is the highest in 15 years. Figures released by the University show that 1,040 students have enrolled for fall classes, an increase of nine percent over last year's record number of 782. Transylvania's enrollment has increased by 28 percent over the past two years.

Officials stated that this is the largest student body since 859 students were enrolled in 1970.

Transylvania's entering class this year has 295 students, the second largest entering class since 1967. Last year's entering class had 309 students. The composite ACT score for the incoming class is 24, considerably higher than the national average of 18.
