Poisoning

As parents we like to think our toddlers and young children are wise enough to never eat or drink anything that is not theirs. But the sad fact is that the child who might turn up his nose at the sight of a delicious chicken casserole could on the same day drink enough food smelling drink cleaner to kill him.

Appalachian series still in practice

Vibrant humanism fiber on a rough-brown loom. Lulling tones from a hand-crafted fiddle. Earthy waltzes from a whirling mound of clay raise the petter's wheel. These are the myths, sounds and smells of "folkways," a seven-part series showcasing America's pre-industrial survival skills and crafts. The series will be aired on KET beginning Friday, Jan. 3 at 4 p.m. and will be aired on successive Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at that time through Jan. 17.

New cooking series premieres on KET

Anyone can be a confident, creative, even adventurous cook without the added burden of extra time or expense. Chantel turned the most out of your own time and ingredients when "The Fragrant Gourmet" series premieres Sunday, Jan. 5 at 3:30 p.m. on KET. To Smith, "fragrant" certainly does not mean "cheap" and "gourmet" does not mean expensive. "A fragrant gourmet is a thrifty person who enjoys good food," explains Smith. "My idea is that everyone should cook seriously one day a week. The rest of the week, you live out of the refrigerator or freezer."

Some of the talents demonstrated on the series are leg cobbler construction, crating, salicorns and hampers and mountain fiddles; weaving; hand-loomed overcoats; blacksmithing and metal crafts; coal pit; basketry; pottery and colorful dolls and carved toys.
