Sports In Kentucky

Orange and white, but not much dynamite.

Kentucky had its 74-57 victory over Tennessee wrapped up last Saturday in Rupp Arena when a fan in the front row erupted, "Hey, where's the unicyclist?"

The "Zif-Boom-Bah (and hum bug)" seems to have gone out of the Kentucky-Tennessee series.

Once upon a season then-Tennessee coach (and Adolph Rupp chief tormentor) Ray Mears had the audacity to order one of his players to lead the Vols out of the locker room onto the Memorial Coliseum floor riding a unicycle.

Oranges rained out of the UK student section as the kid rodeoby, at the same time juggling three oranges and white basketballs. Of all the guile! But looking back, it was wonderfully entertaining too.

These days everyone cleans up his (and her) act because the game's on TV.

Some of us remember the Ernie And Bernie Show too. In the mid-1970s Ernie Granfield and Bernard King beat the stuffings out of UK (five out of six) and rubbed it in too.

UK fans loved to hate 'em.

But when UK's 16th victory of this season was in the bank last Saturday, Eddie Sutton and Don DeVoe faced reporters as if they were fraternity brothers, passing along compliments about each other's teams. No verbal jabs or sassy irreverence. No charges of karate defensive stall ball or any of the other delightful mean-nesses that have colored the UK-UT series. No spice.

Was this Kentucky and Tennessee or what?

Wasn't somebody out there trying to get even with somebody? Naw, just another TV date.

About the only sidelight excitement in this Kentucky-Tennessee game was a "none-buster" placard that rose up out of the UK student section with a less than subtle volley at UT ex-quarterback Tory Robinson's arrest for an alleged cocaine sale to an undercover agent three weeks ago. The security people had that one down in a hurry.

Times change.

But some of us remember when Mears got people fired up, talked about what crooks the officials were when they worked a game in Lexington.

When the Vols won, Mears would verbally tweak Uncle Adolph's head and chid UK fans unmercifully. He was thinking ahead, remembering there were tickets to be sold for the next game at Stokely Center.

Saturday's Kentucky victory was expected. The Wildcats got in front early, never let the Vols get in the hunt and, well, somebody wanted to know about the unicycle.

But something was missing from this game in Rupp Arena for the UK fan who remembers Tom Boerwinkle, Bill Justus, Jimmy England, Edward Bayne, Rodney Woods.

UK's blow-out victory over Alabama Jan. 11 had more gusto than this date with Tennessee. In part, the reasons why have to do with DeVoe being a gentleman, Sutton likewise. And, the antagonists (Justus, Woods et al) have gone. Granfield used to wave at UK students. King waved something else.

Last Saturday UK beat the Vols at the foul line, making 28 of 37 while Tennessee was nine of 13, but had a 24-23 advantage in field goals. But not a voice was raised in protest. In the old days Mears would have bawled all the way to the bus, his assistant Stu Aberdeen would have been there waiting, having already been ejected from the game. The Vols would have been booed off the floor with maybe an orange or two flung from section 301.

Mears would have bristled about intimidation. And Uncle Adolph would have wondered what the fuss was about and twanged something folksy about "good man-to-man defense, Kay-wood." Then he would have told a funny story insinuating that Mears was a 2-legged horse's patoot.

Kentucky fans everywhere would have gone off to a riotous party chortling about sticking it to the Big Orange' one more time.

Times change.

Sutton says that in the 10 months he's been in Kentucky he has come to understand what the Kentucky-Tennessee series means here. Maybe.

Can't help wondering though, whatever happened to that unicycle.

Bad week for Hamilton

A couple of curious sidelights grew out of last week's "Mike Scott is headed to UK" story.

When Eddie Sutton said on Tuesday that he had been contacted by the mother of the 6-8 forward star at Greenup County High School it had to be one more embarrassment for assistant coach Leonard Hamilton.

Sutton told Scott's mother that not only would UK be interested in her son, but had he been the UK coach last year, Sutton would have worked harder to sign him.

It was no secret that Scott wanted to attend UK.

■ The scenario reminded me of a conversation I had with Hamilton last July. UK's chief recruiter was angry because former UK assistant Jim Hatfield had told a Lexington reporter the week before that he (Hatfield) had wanted to offer Scott a scholarship, but that Hamilton vetoed the idea, convincing coach Joe B. Hall that Scott could not play in the SEC.

At the time Hamilton was vehement, "I was the only one on the (coaching) staff who wanted to sign the kid. The only one."

According to Hamilton, Hatfield and, before he left UK for Birmingham-Southern, Joe Dean Jr., persuaded Hall that Scott was not a prospect for Kentucky.

Intriguing and a bit hard to swallow, that Hamilton, titled "associate coach" and in charge of recruiting, would be overruled on a recruiting decision.

Scott signed with Wake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hollar were Friday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Layne Hollar.

Correction from last week: Mr. and Mrs. James Livingood attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mers at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Murray Parrish and Mr. Parrish near Frankfort. Rev. and Mrs. J.H. Ritchie also attended the celebration with the Livingoods. Mr. and Mrs. Mers had formerly lived here for many years.

Mrs. Gladys Kenney visited Mrs. Carrie Asbury on Tuesday.

Mrs. Diane Smith and Shelly, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Galbraith and Andrea, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hollar, Tracy and Chris, Phillip Coldiron and Mark Conley enjoyed a get-together and supper at home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stone and Denise in Carlisle.

Mrs. Naomi Gaunce visited Mrs. Andrew Grey on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hollar visited with Mrs. Frankie Feeback, Kelly Jo and Amy on Sunday afternoon.

Miscellaneous Deductions

Taxpayers who itemize deductions may be able to deduct dues to professional societies, employment agency fees, medical examinations required by an employer, subscriptions to professional journals, union dues and expenses, and work clothes and uniforms. These are generally miscellaneous deductions, and would be listed on Schedule A of Form 1040.

Blood donors

On January 14, 33 people donated blood at Bluegrass Industries-Jockey International in Carlisle. Also, on January 19, the National Guard Armory "Company D" in Carlisle had 31 people donate blood. Both of these drives were organized in conjunction with Central Kentucky Blood Center.

Contributing to the successful drives were Jody Lawson and Norma Bean at Jockey International, and Sgt. Jim Galbraith at the Armory.

These organizations demonstrate their community service by providing paid release time to donate, the chairman's time to organize, and by providing the site. The people of Nicholas County and the Central Kentucky Blood Center are thankful for groups like these and the persons who participated. The following people took time to try to share their good health.

Rickey Willoughby, Ronald Hedrick, Gary Henderson, Barry Hurst, Randy Purvis, Sheari Moore, Nathan Hatfield, Jerry Wason, Edwin Purvis, Dallas Vaughn Jr., Ricky Perry, Lowell Meadows, Sanford Williams, Martha Leonard, Everett Earlywine, James Bellamy, Billy Copher, Ira Conyers, Timothy Williams, John Hughes;

KET presents 'Image of Opera'

"Einstein on the Beach: The Changing Image of Opera" is a performance documentary developed around the widely acclaimed collaboration of composer Philip Glass and theater artist Robert Wilson, airing on "Great Performances" on Monday, Feb. 3 at 8 p.m. on KET.

This avant-garde opera invites the audience to rethink the definition of opera. "Einstein on the Beach" is in the words of Robert Wilson, "not trying to illustrate Einstein the way history books do. It's trying to present a poetical interpretation of this man." The piece also has been described as a music theater work that "falls somewhere between spectacle and meditation."
