AVERT BANKRUPTCY PLANT TREES!

A minor but encouraging provision is included in the massive 5-year farm bill signed by President Reagan on Dec. 23.

An amendment to the new farm law requires the Secretary of Agriculture to allow farmers who are delinquent on their government loans to reamortize those loans and to repay them with revenue produced from harvesting soft-wood timber. Sponsored by Republican Sen. Thad Cochran of Mississippi, accrued interest on the outstanding loan could be capitalized, and payments on the reamortized loan could be deferred until the timber crop produced revenue or for a term of 45 years, whichever came first.

Unfortunately, the timber payback scheme would be limited to only 50,000 acres nationwide, but the novel program might later be expanded.

Considering recent studies which indicate a shrinking supply of soft-wood lumber in the South, the Cochran plan could eventually kill two birds with one stone by preventing farmer bankruptcy while increasing future timber supply.

Eye Openers
By Dr. Robert F. Pretzsch, Optometrist

Optometry and the Olympics

Optometry helped the American volleyball team win the gold medal in the 1984 Olympics. Here's how:

Though all players had "20/20 vision", optometric screening showed that four members of the team had trouble moving their eyes smoothly when their bodies were off balance. One player would actually take his eyes off the ball! Most athletes will compensate for a visual deficiency by relying on another sense (hearing the sound of the ball, for example), but this takes its toll on athletic ability when the competition gets tough. The split second it takes to compensate may make the difference between winning and losing.

The optometrists devised a visual training program to improve the athletes' performance on the volleyball court, and worked with the team members for months before the Olympics.

Athletes of any kind—amateur and professional—can often be helped to play better through improvement of visual skills or elimination of visual deficiencies.

now transferred, and will apparently "become a Wildcat" after sitting out a year.

■ Next, the statement Sutton made about Hamilton to Larry Donald, publisher of Bankerhall Times in a cover story, Jan 20 issue.

"One of my toughest jobs is convincing Leonard that we don't have to have every McDonald's All-American player to be successful," Sutton said. "Leonard thinks he's slumming if he talks to anyone rated outside the top 50."

The UK coach added, "I want to put a great deal of emphasis on Kentucky kids. There are some good players in this state and they've allowed them to escape. In fact, they really don't try to recruit them. We will."

UK fans must hope so considering what has happened in recent years. He has credit. Hamilton has helped bring some first rate players to Kentucky, but too many good instate players have been ignored.

Can Scott help UK? Yes.

He started 16 games for Wake Forest this season, averaging almost nine points and six rebounds per game. Scott lacked stamina in high school, but didn't mind rough play inside, exhibited good on-floor intelligence and 12-feet-in shooting range, and did not try to do the things he couldn't do.

JUCO prospects

Sutton's staff has been taking a hard look at talent available in the junior college ranks this year for some possible "immediate help" next season. For a glimpse of who some of the prospects are, where they are and how big, see inset.

In fact, when UK had records of 23-3 and 20-6 in 1955 and 1956, the leading scorer was junior college transfer Bob Burrow.

Brett Burrow

Vanderbilt coach C.M. Newton was complaining last week that his team has not been getting the basketball into the hands of 6-10 center Brett Burrow. Although Burrow is Vandy's leading scorer this season (11+), the North Hardin High graduate has scored only 39 points in those five games.

Burrow has 956 career points at Vanderbilt and, unless injuries stop him, the senior center will become the 20th player in Vandy history to score 1,000 or more points.

Family ties While 44 more points will make Brett Burrow a member of Vandy's 1,000 Points Club, the magic (family) number is 68 points. That's how many points Brett and JJ games to eclipse his father's total at the University of Kentucky (1955-56). 1,022).

How many families can boast two 1,000 points scorers at two SEC schools?

At his current pace young Burrow could pass his father's total above Feb. 5. Appropriately, that's the night Burrow plays his last regular season college game in Kentucky, at Rupp Arena.
