There it was the first time she had seen him since before the separation. When Linda was in high school, another brother, Tim, who was 14 or 15 at the time, ran away from a foster home, and also went to their grandmother's home in Manchester. He later lived with an aunt, and now lives with their mother, Patricia Higfield (maiden name) in Paris. Linda's daughters stopped there, and she did not have another one until locating Tina Marie last month. She loves to talk you about finding Tina. The excitement of their reunion, and the deep family feelings are still just beneath the surface, and are mirrored in her eyes.

ing, Linda called by channel 18 in Lexington to see if they would be interested in her story and search. The next day a reporter was sent to her home for an interview. Portions of that interview were aired, along with childhood pictures of the four brothers and sisters not yet found.

That night about 11:00, a lady from someone called Linda to let her know Tina Marie when she lived in Alabama and that Tina still lived there. She had been adopted by a Rev. Tom Doody and his wife and lived in Lafayette, Ala. Tina was going to a state junior college in Bradley, Ala. The lady reported Tina had also been searching for her birth family for about a year through a social worker. The lady called Rev. Doody and he said Linda could call Tina at 3:00 the next afternoon.

She called. It was a miracle, and it was really happenin'!
It was decided that in one month Tina would fly to Kentucky to meet part of her family.
Linda and brother Billy just couldn't wait "one whole month." As Linda says, "we just couldn't." So they went together and bought a round-trip plane ticket for Tina, and the next week all of Central Kentucky witnessed the reunion at Sherran Field with Linda, Billy and Tim. Linda says that they weren't the perfect strangers, as one might expect after so many years. There was something there... that something that Linda loves so well... FAMILY!

There is a family resemblance that Linda notes... chubby cheeks! She says, "we all have them". All that is of the discovered family members.
Tina spent a week visiting family in Kentucky. It was a week Linda has dreamed of since age 10.

The private investigator has been a tremendous help to Linda, and has become a fast friend. It was through the investigator that she was invited to speak two weeks ago at a night class of graduate school social workers at the University of Kentucky. She talked and answered questions for about two and one-half hours.
Linda's search goes on. She can't rest yet, not completely. She vows she will never give up until all of her brothers and sisters are accounted for.

She is still bitter that her family was split up. That feeling is evident in something she said at the conclusion of this interview, "Parents might not deserve their children, but children deserve to have parents."
Linda lives with her husband, Harold Scott Price, daughter and step-son Jacob in Shady Lawn Trailer Park on Headquarters Road. Scott works at Ball Horse Construction in Lexington.
Anyone who can help Linda in her search for Carla Marie, Clarence Arnold and Carla Denise are asked to phone her at 606-285-1432.

Data base and state grant to benefit County

Nicholas County is one of 17 counties in the Bluegrass region to benefit from a state grant announced by Gov. Martha Layne Collins. Funds will enhance economic and industrial development efforts by the addition of a computer system at the Bluegrass Industrial Development Foundation.
A $97,200 grant from the Area Development Fund has been awarded to the Bluegrass Industrial Development Foundation to purchase the computer system, which will increase the foundation's ability to obtain and record data vital to its many development activities. Foundation officials said the computer will produce statistics and other information requested by prospective industrial clients much faster than was previously possible. By reducing response time for such requests, foundation officials said, clients will be more inclined to locate in the area.
The Bluegrass Area Development District Board recommended the project for funding.
The Area Development Fund is a capital projects program administered by the Department of Local Government in the Office of Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

The state's 15 area development districts make recommendations to the department on the basis of state law and policy on project funding.
