Canada looks to Carlisle

What's in the name Carlisle? That's what several people were inquiring about last week as the result of a letter from a young Canadian girl, Diana K. Fieger, who sent it in care of the mayor of Carlisle, Ky. The mayor turned the letter over to Linda Vandenberg, who was born in Canada, to see what she could find.

Linda got some information through her research at several sources in the United States and Canada. The name Carlisle seemed an intriguing possibility to her and she was hoping you could tell her what the name meant. It would be greatly appreciated if you could send any information you might have on the name Carlisle. If ever visit Kentucky, I shall come to see Carlisle as well.

On the brighter side, there's good news forthcoming but not quite ready to be announced. One story concerns the park at Blue Licks, the other, possible new industry for Carlisle. As the park, Peter Westinghouse, Adria Arnold and Ed Ford were in the park, with the worst expected in the park, with the worst expected in the park, with the worst expected in the park...

But, because this is home and I want the very best of news for my community, I am troubled when times are less than optimum. Take the situation at Jokey International. Those at the knitting operation, namely Barry Mademan, say right now is a critical period of the plant. It is the company's feeling that there has been a lot of staff turnover in the last year and a half when new regulations were first introduced regarding chloride content of waste water discharged into Brassy Creek. Staff officials, on the other hand, say they take time to resolve such matters but that they are being resolved to the company's satisfaction.

Another view being circulated, and the one that disturbs me the most, is that Jokey International is about to be sold. It is said that the company is being sold to a group of investors. This is a possibility that can do a great deal of damage to everything in its path. It is a possibility that can do a great deal of damage to everything in its path. It is a possibility that can do a great deal of damage to everything in its path.

These state imposed limitations, plus shutdowns by the city when water resources are low, have probably forced the company to look for other ways to survive. It is a possibility that can do a great deal of damage to everything in its path. It is a possibility that can do a great deal of damage to everything in its path. It is a possibility that can do a great deal of damage to everything in its path.
