

Winston Bennett goes down; Sutton, Crum among top coaches

People and things. Crum, who was the coach of the team in Lexington last week when Winston Bennett went down with an injured right knee. The coach might have been the sound of Bennett hitting the floor but the silence, the aftermath of special student-athlete and second, to University of Kentucky's 1986-87 basketball season, is the part that must be dealing to UK fans. Certainly, this season without Winston Bennett will be like a year for Smith without Barry Merritt without Lynch. Hilliard without Lane.

Simply, the firm won't be as firm in the future as it was in the past. UK loses what has essentially been the best team in the season in which Bennett's attributes were easily needed, and for the most part in sneakers too. His talent and UK will miss Bennett, but not his leadership.

Bennett himself might have lost a career, as a chance at one. A career in the National Basketball Association. Because, if there is one thing NBA doctors make take a dubious view of it is inverting large amounts of money on a prospect who has suffered a knee injury that requires surgery.

IMPACT ON UK'S TEAM

Bennett would be severe for Kentucky. But Coach Eddie Sutton is without some backup options. Some ideas.

It is likely to could signal the emergence (lead by) of Howard Madison, the 6'7, 235-pound junior forward who has been named starter for the Indiana Hoosiers. And he is 6'7, 215-pound sophomore forward for the team who Coach Doug Barnes rates as highly.

Bennett's absence could mean Madison play from 6'3 to 6'6. And 6'6 Cedric Jenkins.

UK it could mark an early debut for freshman Rob Chapman. Sutton has already hinted that he might re-employ the 5-guard forward, who was as effective last season. Madison and Loe or Jenkins in front with Crum in relief inside in the backcourt in the second semester, mid-January.

A lot of a "could be important" snippets package have been done. 6'11, 250-pound transfer from Wake Forest was present at the day last week. Sutton told me that he wanted to complete his season at Lexington. Business College by the end of the season. Sutton would be eligible to participate for the basketball team in the second semester, mid-January.

Bennett's future? If surgery can cure the 1986-87 season, it will return to the team. In the next season, in a demonstration to physically sound that he is still physically fit, he is to have a career in it at all. Bennett will be what he always has been, a player who has his personal his college career with the best priorities in education.

UK BASKETBALL BITS

Profile information in UK's 1986-87 media guide on some members of the Kentucky Wildcats is interesting. Under "primary inspiration in athletics" Julius Erving gets the nod from Paul Andrew, Cedric Jenkins and Rob Chapman. Erving is the only player mentioned. By way of contrast contrast mention of the Milwaukee Bucks "because of his belief in God".

Erving's inspiration is Julius Erving because "he is a role model". Cedric Jenkins' goal at UK? To make academic. All-American. Comment: If he makes it, Jenkins will be the first UK academic All-American since Kyle Macy in 1979. Winston Bennett made the academic All-SEC in 1985.

On the fan's side of things, there is Bryan Bennett of Cincinnati who has a "medicinal" prediction on why the Kentucky Wildcats are going to have another successful basketball season this winter.

"Madison medicine," says Bryan, referring to UK's junior forward and the big season he expects Madison to have. In Winston Bennett's absence UK basketball could certainly use some "Madison medicine".

A budding UK fan, Bryan Hewitt is four years old.

UK football blitzed.

The bad about the timing for UK football's demise. Facts are that Coach Jerry Claiborne and the team ran smack into the scheduled 8:15 p.m. kickoff on October 26. The game was cancelled. Head Coach Tommy Hodges later has the South-eastern Conference referees and UK basketball.

If you are old enough to remember the mid-October UK football seasons gone by, you will know that the Wildcats of the past 20 seasons have lost mid-October games 17

Frankfort foe tonight; Bath County wins 20-8

The Nicholas County Bluejackets hope to get in the win column tonight when they travel to Frankfort for an 8 p.m. contest. The game was originally scheduled Friday, but was changed because of Halloween events that night.

Frankfort has been the only team the Jackets have beaten in the last two seasons. Coach Robbin Barn feeds that FIS has an improved ball club this year. He noted that Frankfort beat Berna 14-0, and Berna defeated NCS 26-8 in the fourth game of the season.

Last Friday in Owensville, the Jackets dropped a 2-0 decision to Bath County on a wet turf. Despite two first half wildcat touchdowns, Nicholas County was still very much in the game in the third quarter.

Chris Hillier scored from 20 yards out in a 14-0 victory over the Bluejackets for a two-point conversion left the Jackets trailing by only six, 14-8. However, minutes later, Ryan Jones broke a 14-8 tie on a 13-yard pass to the victory.
