No net cost fund forms due Sept. 30

The No Net Cost Tobacco Program Act of 1982 requires that as a condition for price support eligibility, tobacco producers must agree to contribute to a No Net Cost Tobacco Account or Fund for each pound of tobacco marketed.

Failure to agree to contribute will result in loss of price support and assessment of a marketing quota penalty for each pound of tobacco marketed. The penalty rate for 1986-87 marketing year is $1.20 per pound.

The No Net Cost Tobacco Program Act of 1982 requires that when a fund is established by the burley associations, producers must agree to contribute to the fund for three consecutive marketing years. The law further provides that such agreement must be signed by the producer prior to the beginning of the first marketing year of such three year period.

Nicholas County tobacco producers have been mailed a form to sign and return to the Nicholas County ASCS Office no later than Sept. 30, 1986.

Failure to sign and return the form by Sept. 30, 1986 will result in loss of price support on burley tobacco and each pound of burley tobacco marketed from the farm will be subject to a marketing quota penalty.

Producers having any questions should contact their local ASCS Office, 289-2254.

Foster parents needed locally for young kids

The Department for Social Services is presently recruiting foster homes statewide. Sheree Combs, social worker responsible for recruitment in Nicholas, Harrison and Bourbon counties, states there is a need for foster homes in the three county area, particularly homes that could care for school age children and teenagers.

Foster parents serve as supplemental parents to children, who for different reasons, have to live away from their families, temporarily. The Department is looking for foster parents who are flexible, stable and who enjoy the day-to-day duties of caring for children.

Pre-service training is available for interested persons to give them an opportunity to learn more about the program and the role of the foster parent.

Call Combs at 289-7123 for additional information.

And, Kentucky Basketball Yearbook is a 208-pager about college basketball. With UK's Winston Bennett and Rex Chapman flanking Eddie Sutton on the cover, it is filled with an array of stories and photos of in-state college teams, recruiting news and ratings and other features including Wildcat profiles, UK history, and a feature it was my pleasure to pen about UK's only undefeated basketball team, the 1954 Kentucky Wildcats led by All-Americans Frank Ramsey, Cliff Hagan and Lou Tsioropoulos.

Again, considering its content, Kentucky Basketball Yearbook is a bargain at $4.99. Both magazines were published by Oscar Combs, publisher of The Cats Paw.

Uofl on TV nine times

The NCAA champion Cardinals will be seen nine times on television three times next season beginning with a CBS date at Western Kentucky University Dec. 10. The Cards are on CBS again Dec. 27 at home against Kentucky.

Others: Jan. 10 at Wyoming on CBS; Jan. 18 at Georgia Tech on ABC; Jan. 31 at home to Kansas (NBC); Feb. 7 NC State at Raleigh; Feb. 14 at Syracuse (CBS); Feb. 22 at Memphis St. (ABC); and Feb. 25 at UCLA (NBC).

Parting shots

UK assistant basketball coach Doug Barnes offered two reasons why 6-7 sophomore forward Irving Thomas has perhaps not lived up to expectations so far at the college level.

"He's had to guard Kenny Walker and or Winston Bennett every day and they guarded sum too. So his confidence became a factor. I think he started to have doubts about his abilities. But hey, with a situation like that every day at practice the games themselves had to be like taking a vacation."

Chris Engler, a record signee with the NBA Milwaukee Bucks and roommate of Boston's Kevin McHale during their college days at Minnesota, remembers the first time he got a game for the New Jersey Nets against the Celtics and McHale. "They went up to 20 late in the fourth quarter," Engler said. "Kevin and I are coming up the floor and he whispers to me, 'when you get the ball just move in close and take a jumper.' I wasn't even looking. I want to make you look good."

McHale then gave Engler a turn on him. So the first time I got the ball I turned around and put it right up for my shot. Next thing I know Kevin was slapping it off my forehead. He smiled and said, 'Sorry, I lied.'

And so it goes.

Duck season set to open on Nov. 27

Kentucky's 1986-87 duck season will open Nov. 27, with hunters once again using the point system to determine daily bag and possession limits.

The first phase of the split duck season will run through Nov. 30, with the second segment scheduled for Dec. 14-Jan. 31.

After one year under a conventional limit, the commission has decided to return to the point system, which had been used in Kentucky since 1974. Under this system, different species of ducks are assigned specific point values, and a hunter reaches his daily limit when the value of the last duck taken, added to the point values of the ducks already in the bag, reaches or exceeds 100 points.

The possession limit is the number of ducks that could have been taken legally in two days of hunting.

THIS YEAR'S point values are:

100 points — mallard hen and black duck.

70 points — wood duck, redhead and hooded merganser.

30 points — mallard drake, pintail, gadwall (are not found in other categories).

20 points — all teal species, gadwall, widgeon, shoveler, scaup and all other mergansers.

Canvasbacks may not be taken this season. Coots have a point value of zero, but there is a daily limit of 15 and a possession limit of 30 on coots.

Tax bill proposals could hurt farmers

The tax bill now before Congress is aimed at reducing the tax burden for low and middle income wage earners. But for some Kentucky farmers — who are independent businessmen rather than wage earners — the new tax bill will give little, if any relief. And some farmers may end up paying more taxes.

"The proposed legislation changes or eliminates a number of tax management tools that traditionally have been used by farmers. The effect may be to increase taxable income for most farmers in the future," said Dick Trimble, University of Kentucky Extension agricultural economist.

Among the changes, the investment tax credit will be eliminated. In the past, farmers could deduct directly from their income tax up to 10 percent of the cost of capital investment for many kinds of machinery and equipment.

"Under the proposed tax bill, such deductions are eliminated retroactive to January 1, 1986. In addition, the allowable annual depreciation tax deduction for capital investment has been reduced. Either feature could result in higher taxable incomes for some farmers," Trimble said.

WITH WIDE swings in both individual farm production and agricultural prices, farmers often experience little or no taxable income one year and high taxable income the next. Under the old tax law, farmers could average these variations in taxable income and reduce their income taxes some. Under the proposed new tax law, income averaging will be eliminated.

Another change that could have profound implications for farmers planning to leave farming is the proposed end of capital gains exemptions. Under current law, profits made from assets held for a stipulated period of time are taxed at only 40 percent.

"It's not clear at this point whether the capital gains exemption will be incorporated into the new law. If capital gains are no longer a part of the tax scheme, farmers who sell their business after the new law takes effect may be taxed for the full amount of the difference between what they paid for their operation and what they receive," Trimble said.

Another proposed change in tax law concerns prepaid expenses. Under old law, farmers who were looking at a large income tax bill for the year could buy operating inputs, such as feed, seed and fertilizer, for the next year and deduct them from income in the current year.

THIS PREPAYMENT of expenses had the effect of lowering taxable income for the current year. Under the proposed legislation, prepayment of expenses will be limited to 50 percent of total expenses, Trimble said.

The short-term results of the new tax law could prove to be painful to already hard-hit farmers.

Because the proposed legislation is not yet law, Trimble advises farmers not to make any changes in their tax planning yet. However, farmers should be aware of the proposed changes and how these changes will affect them should the legislation become law.

Wild turkey spring dates announced

by Norm Minch

The 1987 spring wild turkey season, set at the August meeting of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Commission will run from April 15 through April 28 in Ballard, Bath, Boyle, Butler east of Green River Parkway, Casey, Harlan, Letcher, Marion east of Highway 55, McCreary north of Highway 92, Menifee north of Highway 460, Pike and Pulaski counties.

Opening the same day, but continuingonly through April 21 (seven days), turkey hunting will be allowed in Adair north of the Cumberland Parkway, Bell south of Highway 119 and east of Highway 25E, Breckinridge south of Highway 60, Bullitt, Caldwell south of West Kentucky Parkway, Carter north of I-64, Christian, Franklin west of the Kentucky River, Greenup, Henry south of Highway 22, Hopkins south of West Kentucky Parkway, Lewis east of Highway 29, Logan west of Highway 431, Marshall southwest of Highway 68, Nelson north of Bluegrass Parkway, Taylor south of Highway 55 and east of Highway 181, Webster east of Highway 41A, Ohio and Todd counties.

Last season, 533 turkeys were taken, according to Wright, who estimates 600-700 will be harvested during the spring of 1987. He also estimates 200 turkeys were stocked in 18 new areas last year as part of the effort to increase the statewide turkey population.

"Harvests are improving each year," said Wright, "along with hunter success ratios."

Another change that could have profound implications for farmers planning to leave farming is the proposed end of capital gains exemptions. Under current law, profits made from assets held for a stipulated period of time are taxed at only 40 percent.

"It's not clear at this point whether the capital gains exemption will be incorporated into the new law. If capital gains are no longer a part of the tax scheme, farmers who sell their business after the new law takes effect may be taxed for the full amount of the difference between what they paid for their operation and what they receive," Trimble said.

Another proposed change in tax law concerns prepaid expenses. Under old law, farmers who were looking at a large income tax bill for the year could buy operating inputs, such as feed, seed and fertilizer, for the next year and deduct them from income in the current year.
