Hike would cost 2,400 jobs

Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner David Boswell has announced that a 16-cent per pound increase in the price of tobacco would cost 2,400 jobs in the state's tobacco industry. Boswell said that a 16-cent increase would raise the price of tobacco from 44.00 to 60.00 cents per pound. He said that this would result in a 16 percent increase in the price of tobacco, which would cost 2,400 jobs in the state's tobacco industry. Boswell said that the tobacco industry is currently employing 24,000 people in Kentucky. He said that a 16-cent increase would result in a 16 percent increase in the price of tobacco, which would cost 2,400 jobs in the state's tobacco industry.

Early planting underway

Despite end-of-March snow, farmers have already taken advantage of the mild winter and early spring weather to get a jump on their planting. According to the Kentucky Agricultural Statistics Service, planting is about 45 percent complete, compared to 40 percent the same time last year. Boswell said that the weather is ideal for planting. WATCH FOR YOUR CHANCE TO WIN HIDDEN GOLD

Most of Kentucky's fall-sown crops are now in the ground. Good conditions thanks to the mild dry weather, but soil work will be difficult. Tobacco plant bed preparation and seeding has advanced rapidly and was a near record 25 percent complete by Sunday, March 29. This compares to 55 percent last year.
