Dr. W.E. Davis

In a lifetime we are priviledged to know only a small number of truly extraordinary people. Dr. W. E. Davis, former Health Officer of WEDCO District Health Department, who recently died at ago 90 was remarkable to all whose lives he touched.

Dr. Davis was an ardent story teller who could weave a tale at any opportunity. The wonderful thing about his stories was all were his actual adventures. We who met him later in his life at WEDCO (WEDCO symbolizes W. E. Davis Counties) felt we could see the Congo (now Zaire) families as they lined up to be treated by the White Doctor.

His recollections of driving through snow drifts in Nicholas and Bourbon Counties with his Cocker Spaniel companion to deliver countless babies in their homes put us with them.

Devotion to his wife Newell and their two sons was an inspiration to all.

Dr. Davis made a smooth transition from private practice to Public Health. Innovation was foremost in his mind. "Let WEDCO do it" was his usual motto when pilot projects were to be tried in limited Kentucky counties.

The doctor who never sent a bill unless asked, was most distressed when people below the level of proverty and without Kentucky Medical Assistance were no longer admitted to the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

The selfless character of Dr. Davis found it incomprehensible that the sick poor could not be helped.

People were all the same to Dr. Davis regardless of their wealth or lack of it, or their station in life. As a humanitarian, he would use any public opportunity to speak out for man's welfare.

On those occasions he rarely failed to recite a Shakespearean sonnet or Biblical quote.

Dr. D. loved to argue philosophy and theology, relishing any opportunity to differ and to stimulate our thoughts. It was a joy to work with him. He is missed. This article prepared by Lee Rose, RN.

FHA attends state meeting

GRADY STUMBO BELIEVES THAT
- Kentucky needs a full time governor.
- Able bodied welfare recipients should work.
- Offenders should pay back their victims.
- Abortion is wrong.
- The insurance industry should be regulated by someone who is not in the insurance business.
- There should be equity and quality in our schools.
- Lt. Governor Steve Beshear should pay his own grocery bill and not turn in the $42,000 he says he spent on groceries in 1986 and charged to the taxpayers. YES, THAT IS FORTY TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS.
