Kirby promotes programs for chemical free holidays

By Heather Mathes
of the Carlisle Mercury Staff
Kirby, teacher at Nicholas County High School and central planner of alcohol and drug free programs such as Project Graduation, has been concerned about the amount of drugs and alcohol consumed by teens over the Christmas and New Year holidays.

She implemented the plan for students to pledge to stay chemical free, therefore reasonably safe, over Christmas season.

The chemical free contract became effective on December 19 at 3:40 pm, and remains in effect until Jan. 6, 1988.

open pledge in the cafeteria on the bulletin board.

"I think this is a good idea because not only the people that signed it know they pledged, but their other peers know it also," Kirby said.

"If Chemical Free Holidays helps only one student it will be worth the time and effort it took to pull it together," Kirby added.

Hopkins Drug

Nicholas County's students stressed the importance of being chemical free.

"Kirby was wearing one that stressed, TUGGS, Not Drugs."

"January 8 we start intensive planning on Project Graduation."

Bill Guthrie has served his chosen field of education for 19 years

By Heather Mathes
of the Carlisle Mercury Staff
Bill Guthrie has spent 19 years serving in his chosen field of education and has enjoyed his profession to the fullest extent.

"I taught special education for 9 years in all. Five years in another school system and 4 years here," Guthrie said.

"For 19 years now I have been Federal Programs Coordinator and School Food Service Director," he said.

"There are many federal programs that are implemented in the Nicholas County School System. These programs exist to help better the education level for Nicholas students and Guthrie is coordinator in charge of writing and evaluating their worth and progress."
