The Caring Corner

"Behold, now is the acceptable time; behold, now is the day of salvation."

II Corinthians 6:2

Psychologist William Marston asked three thousand people, "What have you to live for?" He was shocked to discover that ninety-four percent were simply enduring the present while they waited for the future...waiting for something to happen...waiting for "next year"...waiting for a "better time"...waiting for "someone to die"...waiting "for tomorrow," unable to see that all anyone ever has is today, because yesterday is gone and tomorrow exists only in hope.

Health Tips from Lee Rose

Think before you drink alcohol is of thought provoking significance to all of us, but is vitally urgent to women of child bearing age. Many babies born to women who drink excessively while pregnant have a recognized pattern of physical and mental defects called fetal alcohol syndrome.

One of the most obvious symptoms of fetal alcohol syndrome is growth deficiency. Affected babies are unusually small at birth. Brain weight may be as low as 25 percent of normal. Small newborns from other causes usually attain normal growth, but those affected with FAS never catch up. Children with small brains show varying degrees of mental deficiency, have short attention spans, behavorial problems, are jittery and poorly coordinated. Statistics kept on these children show IQ's are not improving with age.

Facial features of those with AFS are flat with low nasal bridges and they have narrow eyes with short slits making them look more like one another than their own family. Limbs may be affected and surgery is often necessary to correct heart defects. The more recognizable physical defects are among the severly retarted.

How sad to think these abnormalities can happen to any newborn. Sadder is to know FAS would never be if mothers did not expose unborn babies to the effects of alcohol. It is a fact that the third leading known cause of birth defects can be prevented.

If your are considering pregnancy or just learned you are pregnant - think before you drink!

For more information contact Lee Rose at the Nicholas County Health Center at (606) 289-2188.

New doctor coming to area

Robertson County will soon welcome a new doctor.

Dr. Scott Wood, Family Physician, will begin seeing patients in his Mt. Olivet office on July 15. The office will be open beginning Monday, July 13, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for those who wish to make an appointment.

A native of Central and Eastern Kentucky, Dr. Wood received his undergraduate training at the Asbury College and his medical training at the University of Louisville School of Medicine.

"Since my family moved a great deal when I was growing up, and my grandparents live in Robertson County, this is the closest thing to home," said Dr. Wood.

"I like the small town atmosphere and really feel like I'm coming back home. I look forward to meeting a need that hasn't been met in Robertson County for many years."

Wood is completing his family practice residency at the Trover Clinic in Madisonville, Kentucky. The Trover Clinic, which was the first to sponsor a family practice residency program in Kentucky, is a group practice consisting of 95 physicians.

"I enjoy working with the entire family," said Wood. "It gives me the opportunity to care for patients of all ages."

Wood, his wife Carol and daughters, Meaghan, 3, and Lauren, 1, will reside in Robertson County and his office will be on North Main Street in Mt. Olivet. To schedule appointments, call 724-5730 or 724-5732.

Library closed

The Nicholas County Library will be closed July 2, 3 and 4.

Protecting Your Eyes This Summer-Part II

At this time of year when many of us spend long hours boating, fishing, cycling and tanning, proper sunglasses play a vital role in protecting our eyes from overexposure to the ultra-violet rays of the summer sun. Research has shown it is these rays that are most damaging to the eyes. Overexposure to ultra-violet rays can hasten the formation of cataracts, damage the retina, and promote skin cancer around the eyes.

It is best to protect your eyes with sunglasses that have been treated to absorb or filter out ultra-violet light. Clear or cosmetically-tinted lenses can be treated with a special solution (UV-400) that helps stop the passage of ultra-violet rays.

The optical quality of your sunglasses should also be of the finest calibre. You can self-test the sunglasses by looking at vertical and horizontal lines through them while moving your head back and forth. If the lines wiggle, the optical quality of the lenses is not good enough. To help protect your eyes from the sun and maintain clear vision, check our selection of top-quality sunglasses.
