Even though the children won't return Friday the Nicholas County Elementary was full of enthusiastic, optimistic, ready to learn people.

Homemakers from nine counties attended the Blount Area Homemakers Association Meeting October 2.

After the meeting was called to order by Area President, Opal Eads, Margaret Lutz of Harrison County gave the invocation.

Lutz said, "I am glad to see homemakers getting back into fellowship after the summer vacation."

Nicholas County Judge-Elect, Rose Rouse welcomed the homemakers to Nicholas County. Rouse said, "I first found out about homemakers 24 years ago when I married and the first Wednesday of every month every thing stops, ever since."

Under the direction of June Hodges the Homemaker Chorus performed with Catherine Eads as accompanist.

The performance was dedicated to the late Margaret Wood Pittman originally of Nicholas County. Bill Hill of counties was then done by Eads and she reported a 33 percent increase in membership over the size counties.

The scrapbook award given by Jeanne Kiser, Public Information Chairman of Boone County who received it for the Clark County Association.

Eads then delivered the President's Report. She opened by saying, "I really enjoyed visiting different county meetings and meeting new people."

"Thank you all for attending the marvelous June training session in Fayette County," she said. Before the Business Meeting, Area Chairman gave reports. For example, The Foods and Nutrition Chairman reported, "Homemakers love new recipes and new menus."

"The most interesting report I have received is that there were 29,000 home canned goods not wanting game and grillers."

An area management official said, "The major lessons have been on money management and health care insurance and the interest has been with the new tax laws."

International chairman reported about the new neighbors as well as receiving as the Toyota Plant enters the Blount Area culture.

"We must assume a leadership role in welcoming our Japanese counterparts. We can take advantage of all the education benefits of Japanese language classes and other education courses pertaining to making them feel at home here."

The Young Homemaker Club more explained that a young homemaker is anyone under the age of 40 and may be a working wife and mother or a housewife.

"The main objective to organizing our group is to reach for ongoing membership. We believe that homemakers have a great advising program for the young."

Other reports were given by the Textile, Health, Public Information, Housing, Energy and Environment Chairmen.

Eads introduced the nominating committee members and they conferred to the membership.

Martha Paul, Nicholas County President, closed the nominations after Libby Prutner was nominated Area Vice President.

The guest speakers began with Patsy Roy Smith, a representative of the University of Kentucky. She said, "After a survey was sent to 100 homemakers it was found that education, and fellowship were the two main skills developed in the Homemakers Association."

"Congratulations for the work you have done this year and best wishes for the year to come," Smith ended.

Jane Galley of the KEHA spoke on the chance for Kentucky to be a member one by homemakers having a permanent address enabled by ing, "The most interesting report I have received is that there were 29,000 home canned goods not wanting game and grillers."

national show being raised. Helen Palmer of the KEHA said, "The organization of over 500 women seems to be the best kept secret in the United States."

Palmer then stated Libby Prutner as Area Vice President. Clara Thompson then received the 1988 annual meeting award to be the best kept secret in the United States."

Announcements were given by Martha Paul and the location by Happy West of Scott County. A Cultural Exhibition consisting of items made by homemakers was on display in the gym before lunch. After lunch and before the strong situation of guests the Cultural Arts activities were sponsored by the Area Chairman, Dorothy Schwab.

The education in this part of the program needs to be stressed so that it may be carried to the state."

Libby Prutner and Sally O'Grim presented the program, "Two Women in Dialogue and Poetry."
