

BUSINESS PROFILES

Dee Jay Auto Parts offering same day service for many products

Over eight years on hard jobs, Dee Jays Auto Parts has become a well-known name in the area.

Lyle Anderson, and Ronnie Letcher, both of Carlisle, own and manage the store.

Anderson was born and raised in Carlisle, and graduated from Nicholas County High School in 1960.

After graduation, Anderson attended a local vocational school where he studied computers.

Anderson said, "I went into the Air Force for four years, and when I got back, I brought into the business."

Anderson is married to the former Wendy Shearer, they have two children, Tonia, and Andy.

Letcher was also born and raised in Carlisle. A graduate of Nicholas County High School in 1960.

Letcher and his wife Lillian, have two children, Greg and Pat.

Letcher said, "I went straight to work after graduation, I worked for a part time in Lexington, but I wanted to come back home."

After leaving the Air Force, Anderson came back home looking for a job.

"The days on the time was toward Bill Emmer, and Letcher was already employed there."

"Thumper had a problem with his leg, and expressed his feeling about wanting out of the business," Anderson added.

"After giving it some thought, and talking it over with Ron, we both decided going it on my own."

"We bought 10 shares of the stock, and after the first year we purchased the store, in 1967, Anderson said.

Dee Jays sells auto parts, auto accessories, and Christmas, farming supplies, and many other items.

The store has a small machine to align the back.

Dee Jays has a branch store located in Mt. Vernon. Danny Curtis is the manager.

Between the two stores, there are eight employees.

The store is open Monday thru Friday, 7:30 and Saturday, 7-5. Anderson added, "We offer free service, and we want our customers to know that we appreciate their business."

Ronnie Letcher - Lyle Anderson
Corner of Main & Broadway a fashion stop for 100 years

By Chip Miller
of the Carlisle Mercury staff
How can tragedy be turned into success?

Just before Nicholas County built the new courthouse, Larry Wills, real estate manager and brother of Bill Wills, was driving a pickup truck on the highway.

He transferred a crippling auto accident into a successful business in Carlisle.

While serving in the National Guard in 1972, Wills was tragically injured when an Army vehicle he was driving flipped over.

"I don't think I could walk again because I had broken my neck," he said.

Eventually, he proved them wrong.

In 1973 he returned to Carlisle and was given his legging in the real estate business in 1974 by a partnership with Cleary Flightmaster.

And the rest is history.

"I came here to Carlisle because I wanted to come to Carlisle," he said.

It was in March of 1981 when Wills began his insurance business out of the same office as his real estate business.

He entered the insurance business because of experiencing he had with other insurance companies.

"It provides more competition," he said.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

Wills wanted to come home

By Chip Miller
of the Carlisle Mercury staff
How can tragedy be turned into success?

Just before Nicholas County built the new courthouse, Larry Wills, real estate manager and brother of Bill Wills, was driving a pickup truck on the highway.

He transferred a crippling auto accident into a successful business in Carlisle.

While serving in the National Guard in 1972, Wills was tragically injured when an Army vehicle he was driving flipped over.

"I don't think I could walk again because I had broken my neck," he said.

Eventually, he proved them wrong.

In 1973 he returned to Carlisle and was given his legging in the real estate business in 1974 by a partnership with Cleary Flightmaster.

And the rest is history.

"I came here to Carlisle because I wanted to come to Carlisle," he said.

It was in March of 1981 when Wills began his insurance business out of the same office as his real estate business.

He entered the insurance business because of experiencing he had with other insurance companies.

"It provides more competition," he said.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

25th Anniversary Specials

- Fiberglass Shingles $19.99 Cash & Carry
- 1/2 CDX Plywood $7.99 Cash & Carry

PRE-PAINTED ALUMINUM GUTTERS ESTIMATE YOUR OWN NEEDS

- |                   |                        |
|-------------------|------------------------|
| 1 LEFT END CAP    | 9 GUTTER SCREEN        |
| 2 GUTTER          | 10 RIGHT END CAP       |
| 3 SPIRAL & STAPLE | 11 ELBOW               |
| 4 SELF JOINT      | 12 DOWNPOUT            |
| 5 INSIDE WHITE    | 13 PIPE BAND           |
| 6 OUTSIDE WHITE   | 14 MASTIC (per barrel) |
| 7 TACK BRACKET    | 15 STAPLER             |
| 8 END PIECE       | 16                     |

Reid & Vice, Inc.
LUMBER, HARDWARE, PAINT, PLUMBING - ELECTRIC
Carlisle, Ky. 289-7175

The store has gotten a friendly reception from the people of Carlisle.

The people have been really receptive to us in this town," said Brian Jones, part owner of the store.

"They're being real friendly," Jones said.

"The store is connected to another store in Mt. Vernon, and the two stores, there are eight employees."

The store is open Monday thru Friday, 7:30 and Saturday, 7-5. Anderson added, "We offer free service, and we want our customers to know that we appreciate their business."

Between the two stores, there are eight employees.

The store is open Monday thru Friday, 7:30 and Saturday, 7-5. Anderson added, "We offer free service, and we want our customers to know that we appreciate their business."

Between the two stores, there are eight employees.

The store is open Monday thru Friday, 7:30 and Saturday, 7-5. Anderson added, "We offer free service, and we want our customers to know that we appreciate their business."

Between the two stores, there are eight employees.

The store is open Monday thru Friday, 7:30 and Saturday, 7-5. Anderson added, "We offer free service, and we want our customers to know that we appreciate their business."

Between the two stores, there are eight employees.

The store is open Monday thru Friday, 7:30 and Saturday, 7-5. Anderson added, "We offer free service, and we want our customers to know that we appreciate their business."

Between the two stores, there are eight employees.

COMMUNITY SPOTLIGHT

Basket makers choose Nicholas for a return to Pioneer Days

By Heather Mathes
of the Carlisle Mercury staff
Last Friday afternoon, in the Indian Summer warmth the leaves crackled and gave off their usual musky smell.

Bills could be seen wintering in dunes by the water during tides.

Alan, on this day, several people interested in basket making chose to get together in Nicholas County and learn what potters utilized in their everyday lives.

The group gathered together on Loretta and Clyde McArthur's farm past the Clay Wildlife area. Potters gathered to make oak working baskets as potters and for several practical purposes.

The baskets are still used today for some other purposes, plus as decorative and furnishing touches.

After first cutting down the whole oak tree, these modern potters make basket handles and staves for car, wagon, egg and market baskets.

It was in March of 1981 when Wills began his insurance business out of the same office as his real estate business.

He entered the insurance business because of experiencing he had with other insurance companies.

"It provides more competition," he said.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

up with the group he was working on Friday afternoon.

"I used to live in Bourbon County and when Betty Overy called me and said that the homesteaders in Nicholas and Bourbon were interested in what potters utilized in their everyday lives."

The group gathered together on Loretta and Clyde McArthur's farm past the Clay Wildlife area. Potters gathered to make oak working baskets as potters and for several practical purposes.

The baskets are still used today for some other purposes, plus as decorative and furnishing touches.

After first cutting down the whole oak tree, these modern potters make basket handles and staves for car, wagon, egg and market baskets.

It was in March of 1981 when Wills began his insurance business out of the same office as his real estate business.

He entered the insurance business because of experiencing he had with other insurance companies.

"It provides more competition," he said.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

Loretta and Clyde McArthur's farm past the Clay Wildlife area. Potters gathered to make oak working baskets as potters and for several practical purposes.

The baskets are still used today for some other purposes, plus as decorative and furnishing touches.

After first cutting down the whole oak tree, these modern potters make basket handles and staves for car, wagon, egg and market baskets.

It was in March of 1981 when Wills began his insurance business out of the same office as his real estate business.

He entered the insurance business because of experiencing he had with other insurance companies.

"It provides more competition," he said.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

up with the group he was working on Friday afternoon.

"I used to live in Bourbon County and when Betty Overy called me and said that the homesteaders in Nicholas and Bourbon were interested in what potters utilized in their everyday lives."

The group gathered together on Loretta and Clyde McArthur's farm past the Clay Wildlife area. Potters gathered to make oak working baskets as potters and for several practical purposes.

The baskets are still used today for some other purposes, plus as decorative and furnishing touches.

After first cutting down the whole oak tree, these modern potters make basket handles and staves for car, wagon, egg and market baskets.

It was in March of 1981 when Wills began his insurance business out of the same office as his real estate business.

He entered the insurance business because of experiencing he had with other insurance companies.

"It provides more competition," he said.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

up with the group he was working on Friday afternoon.

"I used to live in Bourbon County and when Betty Overy called me and said that the homesteaders in Nicholas and Bourbon were interested in what potters utilized in their everyday lives."

The group gathered together on Loretta and Clyde McArthur's farm past the Clay Wildlife area. Potters gathered to make oak working baskets as potters and for several practical purposes.

The baskets are still used today for some other purposes, plus as decorative and furnishing touches.

After first cutting down the whole oak tree, these modern potters make basket handles and staves for car, wagon, egg and market baskets.

It was in March of 1981 when Wills began his insurance business out of the same office as his real estate business.

He entered the insurance business because of experiencing he had with other insurance companies.

"It provides more competition," he said.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

up with the group he was working on Friday afternoon.

"I used to live in Bourbon County and when Betty Overy called me and said that the homesteaders in Nicholas and Bourbon were interested in what potters utilized in their everyday lives."

The group gathered together on Loretta and Clyde McArthur's farm past the Clay Wildlife area. Potters gathered to make oak working baskets as potters and for several practical purposes.

The baskets are still used today for some other purposes, plus as decorative and furnishing touches.

After first cutting down the whole oak tree, these modern potters make basket handles and staves for car, wagon, egg and market baskets.

It was in March of 1981 when Wills began his insurance business out of the same office as his real estate business.

He entered the insurance business because of experiencing he had with other insurance companies.

"It provides more competition," he said.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"I'm glad to have something for every man. We get work clothes, play clothes and dress wear," he said.

"Our retail theory is we try to give the consumer quality products at reasonable prices," Jones explained.

"We try to