DON'T MAKE THIS A FAMILIAR SIGHT IN YOUR COMMUNITY

Don't make this a familiar sight!

Most stores close because local people did too much shopping out of town. In fact, there are many cases where most of the retail businesses in a community have closed.

If that were to happen here, who would be left to pay this community's taxes. The empty store fronts wouldn't be able to pay their share.

Who would be contributing work and money toward local groups and projects that we all are interested in?

Keeping our home community healthy is everyone's responsibility and the results benefit us all.

SHOPPING AT HOME CAN SAVE MANY THINGS . . .

Ballard new counselor

AT NCHS

By Julie Pheifer
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

Betty Ballard, the new high school guidance counselor and cheerleading sponsor has arrived.

A former teacher and sponsor at Scott County and Menifee County, Ballard and her husband have moved into Carlisle with many positive ideas about Nicholas County.

As guidance counselor, Ballard hopes to be able to help all of the students at the school.

As cheerleading sponsor, she hopes "we can do our best and go as far as we can."

She has been working with Sharon Hatton to make the transition easier for the girls, she said.

Ballard was a cheerleader, too. "But a lot has changed since then, she said, laughing." Cheerleading, she said, is now a "sport in itself, not prissy people " leading cheers.

Bourbon County, Harrison County and Paris are all in the same district as Nicholas County, she said, which makes for a pretty tough competition in district and regional competition.

As guidance counselor she said she is expected to serve the needs of students and their parents, whatever they may be. They may be, college bound, or leaning toward vocational education or simply a career plan, either way, they need the help Ballard can provide, she said.

"Of courses, you can't do all that you want to do," she said. And not everyone will be happy with what you do, she said.

She wants to establish repore with the students, she said, to "let (parents and students) know that you will keep them informed and they will come to you."

Ballard hopes to have College and Career Night, which will not be limited simply to representative from colleges, but people who will help with career decisions, like the military for example. When she coordinated this event in Scott County, 70% of seniors and their parents attended.

The apathy that many feel is rampant in Nicholas County is typical of any place, she said. "I have always had success in working with people." It is difficult to motivate people, and "I don't know what you can do with people who don't care, but you've got to try."

One of her philosophies is to have students "taste a little bit of success; it's easier to motivate them."

Many people ask her what keep her going, and ask her why she stays in teaching, she said.

"The good outweighs the bad, and your success is in seeing them grow and seeing them achieve."

"Jan (Mrs. Milt Patton) and I have been fortunate to raise three children in Scott County, while she taught at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond, and I pursued a 16-year career in Fayette County."

Patton is president of Kimberly - Whitney Corporation, builder of The Colony, an open - space community in Georgetown.

"It has given us an understanding of the problems and opportunities for the future in the sixth district."

Patton is in the race because of his personal dissatisfaction.

"I believe this district is poorly represented and I believe my competence and experience are sorely needed in the sixth district."

Patton is putting forth a platform centering on two issues.

As simple as that may appear the issues he has chosen may well be two of the most complex possible.

"I believe we have to have attention to children and family issues. It is the beginning base of our district: the children.

"Day care, health and education for our families and children are at the top of my list.

"The other area I believe is extremely important is that of water and other community development needs.

"These provide the base for the future and entering into the 21st century."

"I have reviewed the voting record of my opponent on 10 child related issues. There are 10 critical pieces of legislation he voted no on. Legislation which would have provided important things to families and children."

May the Patton formed a task force, including Nicholas County Physician Tim Scott, to address issues concerning family and children. The group was slated to have a meeting in Shakertown August 10 to present ideas.

"The same is true for issues surrounding water," Patton continued.

"He has not been supportive of programs and legislation surrounding the Corps of Engineers and the Economic Development Administration.

The base pay for a congressman is $89,500 per year, plus each representative is allowed to accept up to 30 percent of his annual salary ($25,800) in honorariums.

A congressman can have a staff of about 20 people and along with a $500,000 budget for office staff, has a mailing privilege.

Everything else aside, what is Patton's biggest reason for running.

"I have studied the sixth congressional district and have found we have not been represented in manner that meets the needs of the congressional district.

"My opponent has not been tested during the 10 years he has been in office.

"The people of the sixth congressional district are a fair and reasonable group. They have responded very positively to my candidacy."

Patton spent two days at the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta and has high hopes for his party in November.

"There was a great sense of unity at the convention and it made all of us there at the convention the aspirations and expectations of a democratic victory for the party in November."
