Rising to the occasion - The Nicholas County Bluejackets' defense rose to the occasion several times last Friday as the homestanding Jackets downed Fleming County 10-7. The Jackets will get another tough test, Friday, as the Madison Purples visit Carlisle for an 8 p.m. start. - Joe Pheifer Photo

Richmond Madison to provide test

By Hank Bond
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

CARLISLE - It won't be any different Friday night, as Nicholas County takes on Richmond Madison in game two of the 1988 gridiron season.

It will be another tough opponent as Robbie Barr leads his 1-0 Bluejackets onto the football field at Nicholas County.

The Jackets used every muscle in upsetting visiting Fleming County, last Friday night, and it will take the same type effort to win again, Barr said.

"We will have to shut down the option against Madison, much like against Fleming County," Barr said in an interview Monday.

"Madison has one especially quick running back, in fact, from what I have been able to tell he was the difference in the 21-8 win for Madison last Friday.

"Game reports show Madison will run the option much deeper than Fleming County and this will force our outside people to have to react quicker than even against Fleming County," Barr continued.

Madison has been a sore point in the Jackets' schedule over the last three years.

"We have lost to them on one or two big plays for the last three years," recalled Barr. "We'll have to play heads up defense on every play."

With a taste of victory, the Jackets will need another 'full speed ahead' game, Friday night.

"We'll have to have 100 percent concentration on every play. That forces the opposition to play good football to beat you.

"We can't get caught looking," he said.

"It takes breaks to win (2 fumble recoveries and an interception against Fleming County) games and strong defense.

"The more we have the ball the better we have a chance to control the tempo of the game and of course score points," Barr added.

"We're a very young team with four freshmen starting on defense and two on offense, along with the entire team, these people played their hearts out."

Kickoff at NCHS field is set for 8 p.m.

BACK - TO - SCHOOL

With school doors opening across the country, are your child's eyes ready for a successful school year?

You may have observed that your child squints, avoids reading, sits too close to the TV, or has an eye that turns in when he or she tires. These are just a few reasons to have your child's eyes examined before the school term begins. There are, however, less obvious symptoms and conditions: a mild case of nearsightedness or farsightedness usually goes unnoticed by parents until it interferes with a child's school performance. When this happens, the child usually endures eye strain and frustration in learning.

A child's eyes change rapidly during the school years. The more a child reads, the more the eyes seem to change. That is why it is so important to have your eyes examined professionally before school. Defective vision or weak visual skills can be detected and corrected promptly to avoid school failure.

Street signs are destroyed

By Julie Pheifer
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

Sure, you know what street you live on, you could find it in the dark. But does that give someone the go ahead to vandalize you street sign?

Late at night, the flexible aluminum signs often fall victim to pranksters. 'According to Deputy Sheriff Chuck Smith, there really is no way to find out who does the damage.

John Ecton, head of the Nicholas County Road Department, said he wishes someone would do something about it. The signs are around schools.

Judge Corns' ruling in Franklin County Circuit Court arose from a law suit brought by, sixty-six county school districts from across Kentucky.

The lawsuit asserts that the Legislature, the Governor, the State Board of Education and the Superintendent of Public Instruction have failed to meet the Kentucky Constitution's mandate to "provide for an efficient system of public schools."

After our Education Committee has completed hearing testimony taken during these legislative meetings around the state, we will attempt to come up with a legislative package that will constitutionally and adequately address our education funding needs.

Equally important, we will attempt to have a legislative program drafted that will address the necessary reform measures needed to keep education moving in a positive way in our state.

$50 each and are ordered from Bowling Green.

"They just do it for spite," Ecton said. 'Just like the people who set the dumpsters on fire.'

Judge-Executive Reese Smoot echoed Ecton, saying "Some people just don't want anyone else to have anything." He added the article might give them the glory and they'll go out and do it again

Among other signs vandalized throughout the county, this Arnold Heights sign suffered an attack early last week. - Julie Pheifer photo
