Nicholas County's Brad Allison fights for a possession against a Frankfort opponent in last Tuesday's game. Frankfort prevailed, 60-45.

Nicholas County falls to Frankfort, 60-45

After a sluggish first half, Frankfort started to a 41-26 advantage in the second half to post a 60-45 basketball decision last Tuesday in Carlisle.

Nicholas County opened the scoring on a six foot shot by Brad Allison, after Frankfort had knotted the score. Daniel Brown stole the ball at the center line and raced to the hoop for a basket.

Danny Wells fielded an assist from Collier Mathes and swooped into the lane for a layup to give Nicholas the lead again at 6.

Frankfort evened the score at 8-8 and proceeded to score an unanswered five straight points and take a 13-8 lead after one stop.

The second eight minutes passed nearly as quickly as any in high school ball.

Nicholas County's Brown hit from 15 feet out to bring the Jackets within three, 13-10.

After a Frankfort score, the Jackets pulled with 15:12 on a layup by Allison.

Frankfort moved ahead, 17-12.

The Bluejackets returned the five point favor routing a layup by Brian Hilderer after a steal, a layup by Scott Ballard and a free throw by Hilderer to tie the score, 17-17.

Nicholas County moved ahead when Anderson dealt off a pass to Allison who laid the ball in making it 19-17.

Frankfort tied the score at 19-19 with 1:33 to play in the half, and with three seconds to go, Allison drove the lane and got up a shot which went in, however, the bucket was disallowed and the half ended with the score tied, 19-19.

A layup by Frankfort's Chris Cook with 7:50 to play in the third quarter gave the Panthers a 21-19 lead, and Frankfort never looked back.

Trey Hogan poured in 11 of his 14 for the game in the third quarter, including a shot from three point land to give the Panthers a 40-29 advantage after three quarters.

Wells opened scoring for Nicholas County in the final quarter with a six foot shot on the left side, but 40-31 was as close as Nicholas would get.

Frankfort responded to Wells basket by running off six straight, and maintained control of the game.

The Panthers continued to score at will in the final frame, while holding Nicholas County to 16 points in the quarter to post the win.

Frankfort improved to 5-1 with the victory, while Nicholas fell to 1-4.

In junior varsity action, ...Jared White hit two free throws with 21 seconds remaining and two more with four seconds remaining to lift Nicholas County from a 43-43 tie to post a 47-43 win over the Panthers' junior varsity squad.

FRANKFORT - Brown 6, Anderson 6, Brown 12, Ballard 2, Allison 8, Tibbs 2, Hogan 13, Wideman 2, McIlwaine 3.

NICHOLAS - Wells 8, Mathes 2, Anderson 6, Brown 12, Ballard 2, Allison 8, Tibbs 2, Hogan 13, Wideman 2, McIlwaine 3.
