Educator has served N.C. school system for nearly 20 years
Anderson has moved from a teacher to counselor

Brenda Anderson, guidance counselor at Nicholas County Elementary School, has served for almost 20 in the Nicholas County school system either as an educator or as a counselor.
"I came here in 1968 after I had taught in Mason County as an English teacher also," said Anderson.
Anderson then moved to the high school as a counselor after she had received her Master's Degree.
"I was counselor at the high school for 12 years and then moved to the elementary to do the same thing."
"This is my third year down here," said Anderson.
"To achieve the status of guidance counselor one must have a great deal of credentials."
"I graduated from Georgetown College with an A.B., MA and a Rank 1," said Anderson.
"A guidance counselor has a long list of duties that deal mainly with student relations."
"But there is the scheduling of students already in attendance."
"This is really a big job because we get around 50 new students each year and there are 930 already here," said Anderson.

In the field of student information there is the records that must be kept according to immunities and general health records.
"I also handle truancy and child abuse cases and make referrals to the Human Resources Department if there is a problem at home the child cannot handle."
"Right now our main focus is on the problem of drug and alcohol abuse and providing information on the subject," said Anderson.
"I also consult with the parents directly on information concerning their child or the school that many parents may not be aware of."
"I talk to parents about test interpretation, behavioral problems or general information about the school that parents should understand and if they have a question I am, most of the time, readily available," concluded Anderson.
In her time away from the Nicholas County School System, Anderson is a Daughters in the First Christian Church and is active in bowling and golf.
The rest of the Anderson family includes: Steve, a graduate of Nicholas County High School; a senior at Harrison County High School; Jonathan, Nicholas County kindergarten student, and Kelly Renee, Anderson's husband and teacher of Physical Education at Nicholas County High School.

Teamwork is what it takes in N.C. administration for success

In the administration of a school system, teamwork is a lot of important work in being done just to keep Nicholas County schools in operation.
Eyes Robinson and Kathy Hillender are two of the people who keep the gears of the Nicholas County school system running smoothly and students records in working order.
Robinson has been secretary to MCC for 10 years.

MCC to offer two courses at NCHS in spring

Nicholas County High School will host two courses offered by Mayville Community College in the spring 1988 semester.
In these and other MCC offerings for January 13, 1988. Both courses offered in Nicholas County award academic credit transferable to the University of Kentucky, Morehead State University, and other accredited state institutions.
ENG 102, Writing II (Developmental Comp. III) will meet on Tuesday evenings beginning January 13 between the hours of 6:30 - 8:00 p.m.
Marj Williams will teach the class. Williams, who has taught composition for Mayville Community College for four years, ofered ENG 101, Writing I, at Nicholas County during the fall semester.
Faye Channons will present MA 113, Calculus, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:00 - 8:30 p.m. each meeting also be going January 19, 1988.
This is the first time in Mayville Community College history that this upper level offering has been taught off-campus.
Carlisle and Nicholas County residents wishing to participate in any of these courses may register at Mayville Community College during the regular registration period.
Registration at MCC will be held January 8, 9, and 11 from 9:00 - 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 - 4:00 p.m.
Night registration will be January 11 from 6:00 - 8:00 p.m. and Saturday registration will be January 9 from 10:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.
Those unable to register for Nicholas County classes at MCC may register at Nicholas County High School on the first night of classes on January 19. A minimum of nine students enrolled in each class will be necessary to make classes.
