AT THE NICHOLAS COUNTY FAIR

Competition is varied during fair horse show

By Julie Pheiffer
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

"Should we start?" Cindy Hamon asked. She was treating Katie Spickler to a ride on her bay horse Jackson.

"Let's go ahead and start," Tish Hamon said. She had Pruitt Chamões astride Johanna Star, a black horse.

It was well past seven, the official starting time for the Nicholas County Fair Open Youth Horse and Pony Show. There was a little confusion about when to start since there were only six horses present.

Spickler and Chamless were the stars of the Lead Line Class and won ribbons for their participation.

Terry Prather, Nicholas County 4-H Extension agent, noted that last year, when half of everything was left behind, there were 25 participants. That Saturday night, with only seven participants, nothing was forgotten.

After the Lead Line Class, Steve Duren, a graduate student at UK, judged Tish Hamon first place. She was the only rider in the Plantation Walking Class.

"I'll bet you'll get tired of seeing all of us over and over," Cindy said as she and her two sisters entered the ring for the English Pleasure Class.

Cindy and Jackson came in first place, Jan and Miss Oohlala, a grey and white horse, were second and Tish and Kari Terrika, a grey horse, were third.

Next was the Western Pleasure. Shannon Hilander rode George, the only entry in this class. George was a Chestnut horse.

Country pleasure, which is western seat with a walking horse, had two competitors. Shannon Hilander and George against Alicia Hilendler and Sister Star, a creamy white horse. Shannon and George won first place.

Nicholas County Pleasure included the three Hamon sisters and Rusty Johnson. Cindy rode George, Jan rode Miss Oohlala, Tish rode Johanna Star and Rusty rode Kari Terrika. Tish won first place, Cindy was second, Jan was third and Rusty was fourth.

Tish won first again as the only competitor in the Walking Equitation Class. In English Equitation, Cindy was first, Tish, second and Jan, third.

The Barrel race proved to be exciting as Alicia and Shannon raced as fast as possible around three barrels. Alicia's winning time of 23 seconds was a little frightening as her horse came charging out of the gateless horse ring. Fortunately, as a bystander said, "She's got brakes."

After her breakneck pace in the previous race, Alicia took her time in the flag race, as she was the only competitor. "Is that better dad?" she said as she finished. She explained that she usually goes so fast that she drops the flag and "he gets mad."

In the Costume competition two of the three Hamon sisters entered the ring with Rusty. Tish won first place as a desperado. Rusty won second as a Mexican, complete with poncho and sombrero. Jan also came in second with her costume depicting the Pony Express.

Farmers should prepare

"Farmers should prepare now to apply for drought aid so they will be ready to show eligibility after pending legislation is enacted," according to Jim Furnish of the Nicholas County ASCS Office.

"We probably won't have the details of drought assistance for several weeks," Furnish said, but there are some things producers can do to help make sure they get the benefits of any new legislation.

"For example, appraisals

AT THE NICHOLAS COUNTY FAIR

Weather offers pleasant day for cattle show

By Julie Pheiffer
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

There was a slight breeze Saturday. The day wasn't a scorcher, yet.

Doug Whitt, the cattle judge from Bourbon County, stood with his arms folded or with his hands in his pockets. He looked carefully for the muscle in the back, for the straight lines across the back, how meaty the steer is, and how much fat the steer has.

"It's cooler than it was last year," Ann Hamon said. "It was 100 in the shade last year."

She sat on a trunk of harnesses and other accessories for the show. Around her were the black Angus heifers that her children, Tish, Mark and Jan, were going to show.

Hamon's "adopted daughter" as Rusty Johnson likes to call herself, was showing for the first time. She wrestled with a junior yearling they like to call Wartsy or Ugly.

The Nicholas County Open Beef Cattle Show was held at 9:30 Saturday morning, to take full advantage of the cooler part of the day. The Open show, as the name implies is open to those outside of Nicholas County.

Of the seven steers in the Steer Competition, only two were from Nicholas County.

Allen Welch and his steer placed fifth. Jamie Simons placed sixth.

Simons won Grand Champion Nicholas County 4-H Steer, as well.

The show slowly wound its way through the Limousine Bull Competition, Simmental Bulls and Heifers, and Limousine yearlings and calves.

Not until the Angus heifers classification were there any entries from Nicholas County.

Jan Hamon, the only entry for the junior calf class, and her calf nicknamed Hoss, walked away with 10 dollars for her efforts.

She returned in the next class, senior calf, with Jumper. She was competing against her brother, Mark and his calf Bad. Jan's total reached twenty dollars and Mark scored five dollars for second place.

In the junior yearling, the Hamon's got a little competition from Kevin Klaber of Falmouth. He was first and Tish Hamon second with Big. Johnson and Wartsy came away with five dollars for her third place.

The only entry for Senior Yearling was that of Kevin Klaber. Klaber also walked away with the Grand Prize award in the Angus classification.

Deadline extended

USDA has extended the seventh signup for the 10-year Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) through August 31.

The signup began July 18 and was scheduled originally to end Aug. 5.

The extension will give producers more time to consider the effects of the drought.

The cropland which had been hayed in counties approved for drought relief is eligible during this signup for entry into CRP for the 1988 crop year if the land meets other program requirements.

Acreage designated as a Acreage Conservation Reserve and Conservation Use for the 1988 program year is not eligible for entry into the CRP for 1988.

The total CRP contracts from the first six signups have enrolled more than 25.5 million acres. The USDA goal is to bring 40-45 million acres into the program by the end of 1990.

In addition to the annual rental payments, CRP participants also receive up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing the vegetative cover.

Producers interested in enrolling their cropland in CRP should contact the Nicholas County ASCS office.

and bin measurements will be made when necessary by ASCS on drought-damaged crops before they are destroyed or harvested to salvage for feed," Furnish said.

"Crop production evidence should be maintained for a crop sold or stored off the farm.

"Producers may have to leave representative strips for appraisals if they are unable to wait for an ASCS appraisal.

"Production records for non-program crops, such as fruits, vegetables and other commercial crops should be maintained for the current and previous years.

"The bottom line," Furnish said, "is don't destroy any evidence you may need later to prove your eligibility for benefits."

NOTICE

On June 28, 1988 the City of Carlisle Wastewater Department requested a landfarming permit by rule for the one time only disposal of 40,000 gallons of 5%-7% solids sludge from the Division of Waste Management in Frankfort.

This request was approved July 1, 1988 due to Carlisle's emergency situation at the Wastewater Plant caused by our sludge storage capacity being exceeded.

This request was for the sludge to be landfarmed on the Jilson Robinson farm at Concord in Nicholas County.

The City of Carlisle has taken an option to buy this property from Mr. Robinson if the Division of Waste Management approves our application for a 5 year landfarming permit. There will be a 30 day period in which any interested person or persons can request a public hearing concerning this project.

The City of Carlisle Wastewater Dept. would like to clear up any misunderstandings pertainer to this project. If anyone interested in this project and the way it is being done needs more information please feel free to call Mayor Bentz, and Council Member or Gene Kelley, Plant Superintendent. We also would make available for you to read a letter from Frankfort stating the quantity of sludge to be landfarmed and the regulations to be followed.

The Mayor, Council Members and City Employees are anxious and willing to work with all interested parties in this matter. We must have a rural area to dispose of this sludge due to State and Federal Regulations. Published in The Carlisle Mercury Thursday, July 28, 1988.
