GENERAL NEWS

Arabians show versatility

By Heather Mathews
Orville's versatility has been demonstrated by the fact that he has been nominated for the Kentucky Combined Classic American Horse Show, all of Lexington, and Earl Adams of Winchester. The Arabian horse has often been stereotyped as a show-brood, but even though this classic breed has all the qualities of a fine riding, it's versatility has been proven time and time again.

The weekend of May 23, members of the Society of Arabian Horses in the Bluegrass Area (SABHA) Club met at the Clay Wildlife Center on the outskirts of Carlisle to prove just how versatile the Arabian could be.

A native of Carlisle, Pam Anderson and her husband James attended the overnight weekend excursion with her Arabian, Maxx Manolis. She said, "The Arabian is a strong, intelligent and energetic horse and all those qualities are what you want in a trail horse."

Anderson added, "We had an excellent turnout and the weather was great overall. I think everyone had a good time."

Those attending the trail ride from Sabha were Susan and Danny Copps, Wayne and Lois Stewart, Orville Whelan and son Shawn, Mr. and Mrs. John Riggs, and Mike Hanna, all of Cincinnati; Paul and Kay Mann, James and Pam Anderson, Joshua Mann, Shawn Van Green, Harry Mann, Carol Mann and Sam Reynolds, all of Carlisle.

Anderson explained, "The Arabian has been used in hunt-seat, eventing which includes dressage, cross country and stadium jumping, western, pleasure, equitation and under harness."

Anderson also had good news concerning her stallion. "Our first foal is a stud colt named Matamony Mist, his sire is Maxx Manolis and his dam is a mare named Matamony Mist."

Anderson added, "We had an excellent turnout and the weather was great overall. I think everyone had a good time."

Seniors having pictures taken

By Heather Mathews
Although school is out for the summer, there are still activities for those seniors waiting to stake their claim at Nicholas County High School. Future seniors are getting a jump on next year by taking senior pictures during the summer.

Photographers Peter Keam and Jamie Turbin from Georgian Portrait Studios have made trips to NCHS June 2 and 3 to get senior portraits.

Keam explained, "We do specialize in this particular area and have around 25 studios from Louisville to Flenburg as well as yearbook pictures. interested parties may call Nicholas County High School or Georgian Portrait Studios."

Keam said, "Our studio is based in Lexington and seniors may set up an appointment while they are out shopping or going out for dinner in Lexington."

Many package deals with an array of poses, some with drags for senior portraits and others with chosen dress attire for the senior may be purchased. For more information concerning school pictures, interested parties may call Nicholas County High School or Georgian Portrait Studios.

5K run is set July 4

With less than a month away, plans are underway for the fourth annual Blackberry Festival 5K walk/run sponsored by the Carlisle-Nicholas County Chamber of Commerce.

The event which begins with a "Walk Fun Run" and will end this year with a bike race that has grown in numbers each year.

For a morning of competition and fun the event will be held at 8 a.m. on July 4. The 5K (three and one half mile) race will be held at 8 a.m. and the three point one mile bike race for those 12 years and older at 9 a.m.

There will also be the team competition this year during the 5K event.

The team from Pic Pac won the trophy last year, however, it takes three consecutive wins to retain the trophy, meaning each organization should begin training.

Entry fees are $7 pre-registration and $8 on race day. Contestants can enter both the 5K and the bike race for one fee.

Trophies and medals will be awarded to the 5K runners and ribbons to the Fun Run. Kids ages five through seven and eight through ten.

There will be three trophies in the Bike Race.

The Bike Race will follow the same course of the 5K Run beginning at the court house. One and one half miles out Moorefield Road and finishing at the court house.

Refreshments and T-shirts will be available to all entrants.

Everyone is encouraged to begin training now to have enjoyable day.

Entry forms are available at the following locations: ICU Office, Foodtown, Hopkins Drug, Carlisle Drug and Pic-Pac.

Race Director is Barbara Hopkins.
