NC Junior High presents play

By Heather Mathes
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

The lights were up, last minute added touches were being made to lines, costumes and scenery, parents and directors were frantic and young actors were about to have the time of their lives thus far.

No, this is not Broadway or Childrens World Class Theatre, but the Nicholas County Elementary School's junior high readying for a presentation of 'Feudin' Fightin' and a Fussin'.'

According to Phyllis Ramey, who paired up with Coach Bobbie Barr as a team of direction, the play was put together in a month and a half.

Ramey said, "We worked on it during the Enrichment Classes with a combination of seventh and eighth grades."

The play held auditions and saw a wide span of interest exhibited in the schools.

We did have try-outs with a tough selection and were a little surprised at the turn out with almost 80 students showing interest," said Ramey.

She added, "We had several students that showed talent in make-up artists, lighting directors and those in charge of props and publicity."

The play, presented May 11, took place in the living room of the Fernheiser cabin in the hills otherwise known as the stage opening to the elementary lunchroom.

Five acts were involved with three scenes.

Those taking the responsibility of acting on stage were: James Anderson as Zeke Kendall; Jill Hardin as Betty Sue Fernheiser; Janella Sibert as Mrs. Snodgrass; Justin Abnee as William Bishops III; Brian Canupp as Paw Fernheiser; Erin Weaver as Maw Fernheiser; Nikki Smoot as Honeysuckle Fernheiser; Dawna Bates as Magnolia Fernheiser; Angie Hall as Hyacinth Fernheiser; Kristi Fryman as Widow Kendall; Chris Jones as Hiram Kendall and Susanne Cox as Lizzie Fernheiser.

Extras included: Jason Metcalfe, Johnya Griffith, Jennie Fryman, April Herrington, Pat Ritchie and Kathleen Booth.

Stage Managers included Mary A. Lawrence and Amberly Burke.

Prompters included Gretchen McKee and Audra Sparks.

Make-up artists for the actors were: Johnya Griffith, Jennie Fryman, April Herrington and Melissa Manley.

Publicity managers were: Kim Tackett, Laura Taber, Tammy Clines, Angie Bretz and Jennifer Beatty.

Students in charge of props were Chris Adams, Chris Smoot and Pat Ritchie.

In charge of curtain was Mike Caswell and lighting director was Chris Campbell.

Faculty member in charge of the program was Betty Lynn Conrad.

Those the directors, Ramey and Barr, would like to offer special thanks to were: Principal Gerald Hammons, teachers, Charity Griffith, Sandra Sweeney, Barbara Williams, Nicolette Mallory, Catherine Canupp, Principal Greg Reid and Superintendent Donald Elder.

SCHOOL

NCHS holds senior class night

To honor graduates

By Heather Mathes
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

The Nicholas County Graduating Class of 1988 held their annual "Class Night" at Nicholas County High School on Saturday, May 21 at 7:30 p.m.

The graduates bid fond farewell to life-long friends and but also celebrated the completetion of 12 years of education at Nicholas County.

Receiving the great honor of Valedictorian for 1988 was Sonya Johnson who had a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

Greg Reid, principal, said, "These students have made a difference at Nicholas County High School."

"Striving to be their very best while pursuing college preparatory courses, these students are recognized as ranking at the top of their class.

"They have not only met the requirements for graduation but have surpassed them," he said.

In her address to the class Johnson said, "To the Class of 1988 I wish you success and happiness."

Receiving Salutatorian was Lisa Moss.

Bonnie Fant, representing the Carlisle Community Woman's Club, presented both with awards.

Many more awards were presented by Reid, principal, Rob Lane, vice-principal, Todd Gaunce, Tracy Manley, Neal Metcalfe, Ginger Waggoner and various other visiting award presenters.

Sandy Warner and Kelly Brookshire received the Army Reserve National Scholar/Athlete Award honoring their "mental quickness needed to be an outstanding scholar and the agility and skill needed to excel in athletics."

The award was presented by Sgt. Napier.

The Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers Award was presented by Steve McKinley to Johnson for excelling in both math and science.

The American Private Enterprise System award was given to Gaunce and Frank Towles for competing in the field of business.

Tracy Dotson, Moss and Eric Tedder were selected to return for a second year to serve as Senior Leaders.

The Daughters of The American Revolution Good Citizen Award was awarded to Metcalfe for exhibiting citizenship and leadership and has made contributions to his school and community.

Participants in the Science and Mathematics Achievement Program held at Eastern Kentucky University were Ronda Smart in the Chemistry Department and Johnson in Biology.

Johnson and Tedder received the Presidential Academic Fitness Award for achieving at least a 3.3 GPA, scoring above the 80th percentile on the ACT and completing the pre-college curriculum.

Those displaying responsibility, dependability, and dedication throughout the entire year for the Yearbook were Dotson, Gaunce, Moss, Smart and Tedder.

Working in the library aides were Carol Bond, Patrick Dale, Michelle Hughes, Rita Leet and Shana McCarty.

Successfully filling the role of office aid during the school years was Kim Fryman.

The Student Council Award was presented to Metcalfe who ensured the success of Project Graduation by donating constant time and energy.

The Chess Club Award was presented to Towles.

Dale was given the Drama Award for his fine performance, positive attitude, and willingness to take direction.

Students of the Week were Bond, Todd Day, Cynthia Farrow and Darrell Sargent.

Bond also received the award given for outstanding service in scholastic journalism, good citizenship, high scholarship and intelligent leadership.

Johnson received the award for Academic All-State Team for displaying outstanding academic achievement.

She was also recognized for competing in some science competitions including: Louisville Science Symposium 1987 semi-finalist, 1988 finalist; Regional Science Fair, 1987; Regional Science Fair, 1988, first place overall; Lawrence Berkly Laboratory, 1987; National Science Symposium, Gainesville, Florida, 1988; International Science Fair, Knoxville, Tennessee, 1988, American Medical Association and fourth place in biochemistry.

Smart was also recognized for her work in science competitions including; Louisville Science Symposium, 1987 and Regional Science Fair in 1987-88.

Governor's Cup competitors were: Bond, mathematics; Donna McCord, alternate; Johnson, science and quick recall.

Academic Team Members competing in the Limestone Academic League were, Shawn Tussey, Metcalfe and Johnson.

Those recognized for maintaining a 3.5 GPA throughout four years of high school were Johnson, Joseph Joseph, McCord, Moss and Smart.

On the honor roll for their senior year were, Michelle Hughes, McCord, Moss and Smart.

Perfect attendance awards were presented to Patricia (Tweety) Adams, Arveeda Bean, Brookshire, Farrow and Billy Gilvin.

It Takes Two Things to Hold Home Trade At Home

With good automobiles and good highways a merchant cannot afford to sit back and think of any one customer as "his".

Two important things will help hold customers at home:

First...A well selected stock of quality merchandise that is fairly priced.

Second...Letting the potential customers know about the goods by means of consistent advertising.

After 200 years, the best medium discovered for advertising is still your local newspaper, serving the local area.

People can't buy what you have if they don't know you have it.
