Woman's Club elects officers

By Heather Melrose

The Carlisle Mercury Staff

Main Street has had definite aesthetic improvements as of May 19, thanks to the Community Improvement Project sponsored by the Carlisle Community Women's Club.

Debbie Hughes, new president of the club said that only the main block of Main Street (directly across from the court house) will be done before this summer.

"Trees and some flower planters will be put at points along the Main Street but the end of Main Street will wait until before next summer," said Hughes.

The one block is a trial for two important factors.

"First, some of our members were concerned about vandalism and the trees and planters being destroyed."

"Second, we wanted to see how the trees will survive through this summer and how they will do," she explained.

Hughes added, "This Community Improvement Project has been one of the most vital projects to the Women's Club and we hope we do some success and if we do have these results then that summer the other blocks will be done."

Other members of the committee in charge of the project are Donna Gail Mattox and Mary Jane Courtinger.

The added touches to Main Street were funded by the sales of funnel cakes and various hospital projects.

Also taking place on May 19 was the Annual Dinner during which new officers were installed.

Outgoing treasurer was Phyllis Smoot while Bonnie Pant took that position.

Continuing in the positions of vice-president are Maggie Hall and in the position of secretary, Donna Brodwick.

Kelly was presented a gift as a token of appreciation by the club.

Thanks to Kay Chamness for information regarding the meeting.

Memorial Day, let's pause a moment from our daily lives... our peace and our freedom... to remember the men and women who fought and died so that we enjoy the privilege of being American. Proudly we salute all the people of our great... from all wars. Their courage was our greatest triumph, their sacrifice our greatest loss.
