Council.....

session to discuss the audit was held. Proctor Blair presented the Council with recommendations to improve the financial accounting efficiency and control of the City's assets.

His most important recommendation for this year suggested that a separate bank account be maintained for each fund and grant the city receives, rather than having all the money lumped together.

In the past, Blair has recommended a separate bank account for utility security deposits but no action had been taken on this suggestion. However the Certified Public Accountant found that the financial statements from this year and the past year were in order.

Four Nicholas County High School students were present to have the mayor sign a proclamation for American Education Week in Carlisle. Freshman Susann Cox, sophomore Robyn Brookshire, junior Brent Saunce and senior Gretchen Judge watched the mayor sign the document which celebrates the contribution of public education to American society.

Other business:

Bob Faul, who wants his place of business, the 19th Hole of Carnico, to be annexed into the city discussed the University of Kentucky's role in his attempt. To be annexed into the city, he must have a corridor running from the city limits to his place of business.

This corridor would have to run through the 4-H camp, which is University property. Faul and City Attorney Watson decided that Watson would deal with the University, while Faul would talk with landowners around his property. Mark Mattox brought up "the only stumbling block" he had encountered while talking to landowners. The taxing of the strip of land confuses the property owners.

First reading of the nuisance ordinance and first reading of a budget amendment.

A handrail was requested for the street in front of the senior citizens center. Most of the members commented that the state would not allow them to build a ramp in front of the senior citizens center, so they probably would not allow a handrail.

The naming of a new Disaster and emergency services coordinator, as Calvin Denton is interested in the position.

"We've got a man who sits here and says he doesn't care about the job one way or another," said Councilman Jeff Tyrer, "And we've got a man in the back row who would like to have it." "I talked to him (DES coordinator Gene Kelley)" said Mayor Lee Bentz "and he seemed satisfied."

"I'm not up here to take his job," Nicholas County Fireman, Calvin Denton said. "I was approached about it," and was interested in the job. The Council made no decision about the position.

The Nicholas County Fire Department responded to several fires this week, one being this grass fire on Scrubgrass Road. It was quickly brought under control. - Julie Pfeifer photo

Adult Class Williamsburg Style Christmas workshop

The last adult class will be held on Tuesday evening December 13 from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. in the cafeteria at Nicholas County High School. The topic will be Williamsburg Style Christmas Workshop. Class members are asked to bring their own supplies.

We ask that class member preregister by calling the school or the Extension Office to obtain a list of supplies and equipment for the workshop.

A small registration fee will be charged. Babysitting will be provided by FHA members and child care students.
